"BEEF REFERENDUM" (Cont. 'd from front)

All persons engaged in commercial cattle production are eligible to vote in the referendum, which was authorized by recent state legislation. Voting in this county will be at the Extension office, 2nd floor, Court House, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on September 7.

Under the proposal, 10c per head for all cattle sold on the commercial market would go into a fund to finance the industry promotion, education and research program. This amount would be "checked off" at the time of the sale and sent monthly by the auction market officials to the Kentucky Beef Cattle Association, which would administer the program. Producers not wishing to participate could request refunds.

Eligible voters are defined in the referendum rules as "tenants and sharecroppers sharing in the proceeds of the sale of bovine animals" as well as "owners of farms on which bovine animals are produced." Each person qualifying will have one vote. A producer will vote in the county where his principle place of business is located. More details on the referendum are available at the county Extension office or from Clay A. Colson, president, Rockcastle County Livestock Improvement Association.

One reason Bro. Joe feels at home at Renfro Valley is that while at Mt. Zion he preached every Sunday afternoon on the church sponsored radio program on WRVK which can still be heard every Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. led by Bro. Rick Goodman who is now pastor at Mt. Zion.

Bro. Joe feels that Mt. Zion was an important stepping stone to prepare him for his calling as an evangelist. He gave up the pastorate at Mt. Zion to go into full time evangelism. In the past year he has preached in numerous churches in Ohio, Michigan, and Tennessee and has seen over 1,000 people give their hearts to the Lord Jesus Christ. Surely the Lord has called this man to be an evangelist. He feels the Lord is leading him in this Crusade at Renfro Valley and is planning another in Hazard soon.

The Rockcastle Baptist Association of Churches as well as the Mt. Zion and Lynn Camp Associations are backing him in this effort. He needs the prayers and support of every Christian. Everyone is invited to come and bring someone who needs Christ with them. The song leader, Denny Allen, is a dynamic young musician who has given his talents to the Lord. Come and hear him play the saxophone to the glory of God.

Support these men in prayer and attendance the week of August 30-September 3 at 8 p.m. Special singing beginning at 7:30 p.m.

BREATH OF LIFE WEEK SEPTEMBER 11-24

Mrs. Bertie Rice has been named Livingston Chairman of the Breath of Life Campaign to fight children's lung-damaging diseases, according to Jay Crouse, president of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Mrs. Rice will lead local volunteers in raising funds to support research and care programs for children affected by lung-damaging diseases like Cystic Fibrosis, severe asthma chronic bronchitis, and bronchiectasis.

The Breath of Life Week will be September 11-24 with a door-to-door drive scheduled during that time. Approximately one of every 1,500 babies is born with Cystic Fibrosis, which is still incurable. C/F is inherited when both parents carry the recessive gene for C/F. It is believed that one in twenty persons, or a total of ten million Americans, is a symptom carrier of this gene. Current research funded by the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is seeking a practical test to identify these carriers, as well as a cure for C/F and better methods of treatment for all lung-damaging diseases.

Because of improved treatment developed through research, many C/F patients are now living into their teens and young adulthood. This same treatment is also benefiting and often curing children suffering from other lung-damaging diseases. Even with this progress, the need of millions of children who struggle to breathe grows larger, and with it the need for more volunteers and more funds.

Everyone can help. The job cannot be left solely to dedicated parents of C/F and lung-damaged children. The cause is great enough to engage the attention and support of men and women everywhere, who care about children—and lung disease.

Most people don't realize that there are millions of children in the U.S. affected by lung-damaging disease, for some of these children breathing is a struggle rather than the natural function we, who are lucky, take for granted. The Breath of Life Campaign supports not only research, but diagnosis and treatment of children with lung-damaging diseases in C/F centers across the country. There are more than 110 of these Centers, which also provide for educational programs and research.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

By: Robert L. "Buddy" Cox

Do you ever feel an emptiness or unfilled desire in your life? If so, have you ever considered your view is perhaps nearsighted, instead of farsighted enough to vision your capabilities? The plain fact is that every one possesses certain energies and resources that are often unused or wasted.

Very few people, of course, can be a Benjamin Franklin, a printer by trade who also became a scientist, inventor, philosopher, diplomat, educator, politician and public servant. He is an excellent example of a self-made man. He was the 15th child born to a poor couple. His father was a soap and candle maker. Franklin only had two years of formal education. He refused to limit his energies, resources and abilities. While we may not be able to duplicate his feats, we surely can strive for his idealism, his thinking and his step-by-step progress in a way of life. When depressed by our own limitations, a reminder of a man such as Franklin, a man undaunted by difficult problems can be a sobering and helpful experience...Cox Funeral Home, Mt. Vernon. TOM, FOREGROUND, AND WILLIAM CRAIG WORK ON BRASS RUBBINGS...they learned technique in England

By Geraldine Satterwhite

They rub the right way

A bit of Merry Old, England comes home with most Americans who spend some time there.

But more than a little of the country they grew to appreciate during four years there followed the Jennings Craigs to Abilene in 1973 when Craig, then a master sergeant in the U.S. Air Force, was transferred to Dyess from the old country.

Their home at 3601 S. 29th is filled with English antique furniture, copper, brass, stoneware and all types of glassware and they're not sure just how many brass rubbings (her special interest) or clocks (his).

It's not that they planned it that way. Part of it just evolved naturally, and part was purely accidental.

Both natives of Mt. Vernon, near Berea, Mary Louise Linnville and Jennings Craig were married there in 1955 after he had already served in the Air Force four years. There were stationed in South Carolina until 1958, then at Waco until 1959 when they were sent to Germany for three years.

That was before the days of their interest in antiques. "And we traveled," Mrs. Craig said, "everywhere, and to Rome twice. Camping was big in Germany then, although it wasn't here. I did collect a number of Hummel figurines."

The lived in Long Island, New York, in 1962-65, and it was there that William, II, older of their two sons, was born. Craig was in Thailand in 1965-66, and Tom, who's eight, was born while the family was in Columbus, Ohio, in 1966-69.

They had lived in a mobile home during their years of traveling around in the States, and when they left for England in 1969, there was no furniture to move. There was government issued furniture for a time at Upper Heyford near Oxford, and when it came time to buy their own, the Craigs discovered their taste running the English antiques.

It wasn't so expensive then. "Mrs. Craig said, "Some of the English were getting rid of their old furniture for nice new things."

Times have changed, however. Even the young are becoming more heritage-conscious, and before the Craigs left they were offered three times the prices they had paid for some items in their collection. Prices have increased even more since.

The antiques are just furniture to the two youngsters who are growing up with them. Footboards and headboards of the early 1800's twin beds in their room have been restored with new caning. A marble-topped desk is one they put to practical use.

Soon after the Craigs got to England a friend suggested to Mrs. Craig that they really should do some brass rubbings.

"Not me," said Mary Lou Craig firmly. "...Not in those cold old churches."

Then one day she did consent to go along to a church near her home. And she was hooked.

Brass rubbings are made by securing a special paper with masking tape over brass plaques or figures—some bigger than life-size, some smaller—found over tombs and on walls in churches throughout the country, then rubbing over the plates with a hard wax crayon to reproduce the image. The result is actually a clearer picture than that visible to the naked eye on the original. Mrs. Craig prefers to work with gold wax on black paper, since the effect is more like the original brass.

The brass plates represent the people buried in the tombs, and many of Mrs. Craig's subjects date back to the 1300's. A person who had enjoyed a good reputation in his community is a very dignified figure on the plate atop his tomb. The fellow who was less popular, the village, perhaps, might be represented as a skeleton with snake-like worms twined around his bones. A wool merchant was likely to be pictured standing on a bag of wool beside a small sheep; a pair of scissors might be included on the plate atop the remains of a tailor.

Many a legend is brought to life by Mrs. Craig said. For instance, a man in the dress of a soldier stands with his legs crossed is believed to have been on the Crusades.

She of Mrs. Craig's brass rubbings is from the tomb of Sir Thomas Bullen, father of Anne Boleyn, Queen of Henry VIII. The family drove for four hours to make the rubbing in which she was especially interested because her grandmother's maiden name was Bullen. Anne, she reasoned, must at some time have decided to change the spelling of her name.

And then there's Sir R. DeBures, 1302, who stands almost ceiling high and is considered by Victoria and Albert Museum as the best military brass in existence.

The National Brass Society, Mrs. Craig said, is placing restrictions on brass rubbing in some areas as it has been found the process wears the brass. In some cases replicas of the brasses are being used, and Mrs. Craig owns a brass replica of a figure known as The Lace Lady because of the intricate pattern on her gown. Her own rubbing of the figure, however, is from the original, and because of the restrictions, she believes rubbing from originals will someday be quite valuable.

Craig received from the Air Force in 1974. He is employed in the engine-erment department at Hendrick Memorial Hospital.

The bit of England the Craigs miss most is one they couldn't bring back.

"The slow pace of life. They don't get in a hurry."

ramblings...

by perlina m. anderkin

Once again we have received an unsigned letter to the editor from a resident of Tyree Street in Brookhaven. We must again state our policy to not print letters without signatures. In this particular case, we are going to repeat the gist of the letter as a public service to the residents of Tyree Street, from who the letter purportedly comes. The letter concerns the illegal operation of CB radios in the area of Tyree Street which is tearing up television, telephone and radio reception. The writer wants it to be known that they have the necessary address and telephone number to notify authorities of the radios being operated on too high power frequency and will take this step if the CB operators persist in their actions.

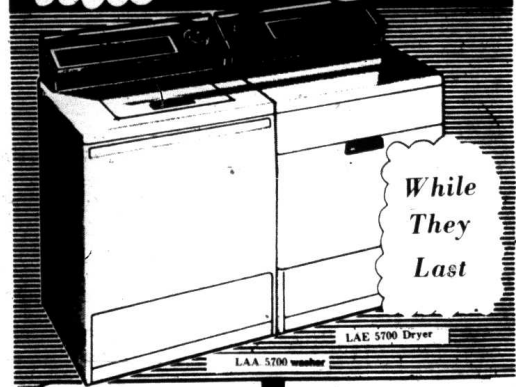

I have been a little disturbed the past two weeks over the attitude of the Republican Delegation to the National Convention who have let it be known that they just might decide to cast their votes for the Presidential nominee the way they want to rather than they way the presidential primary election law was set up. This really tears me up. How dare they even consider ignoring the mandate of the voters of this state for their own wishes. I am not sure of all the ramifications of the law but I do know that test delegates are bound to abide by the law, at least on the first ballot, to cast their votes as the candidates received the popular vote. Tonight (Tuesday) there is a floor fight scheduled over whether or not to allow the delegates to cast their ballots as they wish rather than as mandated by their state law. It should be interesting and will be history when you read this article but you can be assured there will be no increased newspaperwoman if our state law is ignored for the whim of the chosen few.

Governor Carroll has announced his 14 appointees to the new Kentucky Court of Appeals. From our district, John D. White (Republican) of Manchester was selected for the first division and Robert L. Dowell (Democrat) of Edmonton was named for the second division. As part of Governor Carroll's press release on the appointments, which will be found in its entirety on the front page of the Signal, the second paragraph states "The new intermediate court was created with the approval by the voters last November of changes in Kentucky's Constitution that provide for sweeping reform of the Commonwealth's Judicial system." This struck me as just a little far-fetched, particularly the "sweeping reform" part, when I realized that 11 of the governor's 14 appointments were Democrats. Don't worry Democrats, I am not knocking Governor Carroll, since I am sure a Republican governor would simply have

Holding down health care costs... What we're doing. What you can do.

Like just about everything else, the cost of health care has been going up. Obviously, some price increases are unavoidable. But, at Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky, we're working to help avoid unnecessary cost increases.
For instance, we work with doctors and hospitals to pinpoint the factors that affect the cost of health care and to help find ways to keep them contained.
We keep a close watch on the cost of services. And we agree to pay only for justifiable increases.
In addition, we support community health planning. This is an important tool in planning appropriate care while avoiding expensive duplication and unnecessary facilities and services. You can help by using health care services wisely. For example, don't ask for admission to the hospital unless your doctor says it is medically necessary. Perhaps you can get the treatment you need on an outpatient basis.
If you are admitted to the hospital, don't stay any longer than necessary. Unnecessary use of health care services contributes to increased costs for everyone.
Together we can help avoid unnecessary increases in the cost of health care.

Lower Tobacco Yields Predicted

By Bennett Beach

With burley harvesting well advanced for mid-August, and a USDA crop estimate just out predicting lower yields, tobacco growers and others over the burley belt are eyeing the 1976 flue-cured crop as being marketable.

Generally, but not always, the flue-cured sales supply an early indicator for the burley market which follows. This year the news from flue-cured sales is good, with many grade prices above 1975.

The Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association is particularly interested in the reports of flue-cured selling well above support levels.

The August 12 burley estimate issued by the USDA set production for the eight-state belt at 629,478,000 pounds, down considerably from last year's harvest of 639,567,000 pounds. Yield from the 279,100 acres in the eight states is estimated at 2,256 pounds per acre, also down from 1975 yield of 2,282 pounds.

There are sharp differences, but also many similarities in this year's situation between burley and flue-cured: Flue-cured underwent a 15 per cent crop cut for 1976; burley a 5 per cent reduction.

Flue-cured is supported at $106.0 this year, over $93.2 in 1975. Burley supports for 1976 are up 13.7 per cent, or $109.3 compared with $96.1 last year. Burley exports are up sharply, flue-cured down. For the first seven months of 1976 burley exports totaled 63 million lbs., 28 million above a year earlier.

Starting in the Georgia-Florida belt early in July and moving northward, the flue-cured auctions have been going for about six weeks. They will continue in the Eastern No. Carolina, and Old and Middle Belt, until about the last week in November when burley sales open.

With the four flue-cured belts holding auctions, the Federal State Market News latest reports give the following:

Georgia-Florida: Most grades up $4 to $12 above support levels. Loan deliveries 22.5 percent; same period last year 21.7 percent. Season's sales 105,121,730 pounds, avg. $106.35. Same days last year avg. $94.32.

Border Belt (S.C.N.C.): Season's sales 39,134,927 lbs., avg. $99.32. Same period last year $97.142 lbs., avg. $99.32.

The Mt. Vernon Signal P-16 Thursday, August 19, 1976

Urava averages up $1 to $4 over previous week. Loan deliveries 32.3 percent; same period last year 40.5 percent.

Eastern No. Carolina: Season's sales $1,294,823 pounds, avg. $95.25. Same period last year $2,446,672 lbs., avg. $85.77. Stabilization Corp. took under loan 31.1 per cent, as compared with 49.4 per cent last year.

Old and Middle Belt: Season's sales 33,864,359 pounds, avg. $89.08. Same days last year 5,073,943 pounds, avg. $85.46. Season deliveries to Stabilization Corp. 30.4 per cent, compared to 63.4 per cent, same period last year.

However, the offerings in the Old Belt on early sales were comprised mainly of primings and non-descript grades.

Kentucky Afield

By John Wilson

Some people collect stamps, while others collect political campaign buttons, old knives, butterfly wings, sea shells or just about anything else.

But a guy who collects fish scales has got to be a little weird, right?

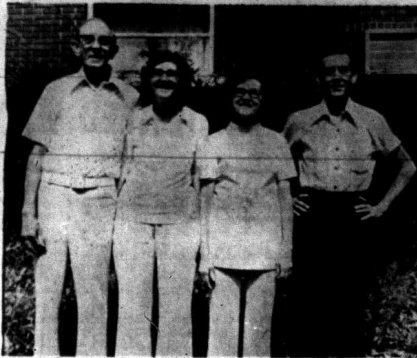

Well, not necessarily. Particularly if he's collecting scales in the name of science and especially if his collecting activities may ultimately lead to better fishing for Kentucky's anglers.

Jim Axon, a fisheries biologist with the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and the leader of the fisheries division's predator fish program, has a whole laboratory full of scales, all carefully cataloged and sorted. And he spends hours staring at the scales in a section through a microscope.

But Jim isn't content with the scales he has - he wants more. In fact, he'd like to have scale samples from every legal sized rockfish, musky or walleye or from every bass of five pounds or more that's caught in Kentucky.

And like all good collectors everywhere, Jim is willing to trade for these scales. In exchange for a few scales from any of the above fish, Jim will send the angler who submits them a lapel pin the shape of the fish caught and a certificate of achievement suitable for framing.

That's really a good deal for the fisherman - a pin to decorate your fishing hat and a certificate to hang on the wall in exchange for a few scales that have to be taken off before the fish fry

Jim is willing to offer such a good trade because the scales can provide him with much valuable information about stocking success, growth rate, adaptability of these important game fish. Under microscopic examination, the scales reveal a great deal about the fish from which they were taken and, by extension, about all the fish stocked at that particular time in that particular body of water.

The information obtained from this study will be used in planning future stocking programs around the Commonwealth - programs which will benefit anglers in the future.

Jim has been collecting scales for over a year now, and he says the response from anglers who know about the program has been very good. But he is worried that scales from some fish are not reaching him because fishermen haven't heard about the good deal he's offering.

Jim has posters explaining this program, along with supplies of postage-paid envelopes for mailing the scales, at just about all docks on the lakes where musky, walleye or rockfish have been stocked. But he thinks that those fishermen who don't use commercial docks may be unaware of the program.

For example, Jim feels that many of the anglers who own land on Nolichucky River Lakes and have their own private docks may be catching walleye and not sending in the scales because they don't get to a dock with a sign

reversed the figures out just once I would like to see the politicians actually mean "sweeping reform" when they say it. Or, do you suppose they have a different dictionary for politicians as opposed to the one we ordinary mortals use?

Didn't really mean to get off on politics this week especially since I am once again beginning to feel "light-hearted and gay" with the opening of school only a week away and discussing politics usually tends to dampen my spirits considerably. I don't even know why I get excited over school opening with the cost of getting four children ready to go just with the bare essentials.

Of course with my oldest, a sophomore in high school, I don't have to be concerned. He's the only kid in the school that can make it the entire year without needing money for paper, pencils or other superfluous items. He's either the biggest bum that ever lived or the most disinterested - I think it's a little bit of both.

Building?

It's just as easy to build a home that's an energy saver as it is to build an energy waster. And those electric bills for heating and cooling come in month after month, year after year. We can help you keep them down.

Insulate!

Make sure your insulation in ceilings, walls and floors meets today's standards. Heating and cooling costs are directly related to your home's insulation. Thicker insulation means thinner electric bills.

Think Heat Pump!

A Heat Pump uses electricity much more efficiently, reduces heating costs substantially.

Seal Your Comfort In!

Insist on storm doors and windows and proper caulking and weatherstripping. Install attic ventilation.

... And ...

Landscape to provide shade; choose roofing that reflects sunshine, double-glazing for picture windows.

VOLUME 89 - NUMBER 50

Berea Woman Dies In One-Car Accident

Hazel Brewer, 35, of Hunley Street in Berea was killed Saturday morning, August 14th approximately eight and one-half miles north of Mt. Vernon, when her car left the road at the intersection of U.S. 25 and 1505 at Conway.

Mr. Brewer was apparently traveling south when the lost control of her vehicle. The auto skidded approximately 500 yards before coming to rest off the highway. Ms. Brewer was thrown from the auto and apparently knocked unconscious at that time. She was pronounced dead at the scene by coroner Bill Dowell who listed cause of death as drowning. Ms. Brewer was thrown into approximately 6 inches of water in a ditch at the side of the road. Ms. Brewer was taken to Wray Funeral Home in Berea.

Instructions For Obtaining Personalized Auto Plates

If an automobile owner wishes a personalized plate, he picks up an application at the County Clerk's Office. He fills it out and mails it to the Division of Motor Vehicle Tax in Frankfort.

With the application he sends $25.00 in the form of a money order, certified check or cashier's check. Personal checks will not be accepted. This must be done on or before September 1, 1976.

Later in the year, the owner will get a letter from the Department of Transportation noting that his plate, as ordered, will be at the County Clerk's Office when he goes to renew his registration for next year.

The auto owner then pays another $12.50, the regular fee, and will be issued a 1977 decal which he will trade in to the clerk. For an extra $1.00, the clerk will give him his personalized license plate. Persons wanting personalized plates may apply for any combination of from one to six letters or numbers that do not resemble any usual configuration occurring on Kentucky plates.

Rockcastle County To Receive $43 Thousand For Economic Aid and Road Funds

By: Roger Colburn
46 coal-producing counties in Kentucky will be allocated a total of $12 million for roads and $5 million for economic aid projects. Rockcastle County will receive a sizeable allocation of these economic aid funds - a total of $47,556 will be allocated to this county with $46,343 being in the form of economic aid and $1,212 for road funds.

The road allocation is based on tonnage produced in each of the counties. Muhlenberg County received $1.9 million in road funds because of their massive production. On the other hand, Rowan county received no road funds because their total production was 7 tons of coal. A total of 131,705,378 tons of coal was produced in Kentucky in the year ending June 10, 1976. The State Department of Transportation will administer the spending of the road funds after they receive recommendations from county fiscal courts.

A more complex formula was used to calculate the economic aid funds taking into account such factors as value of coal produced and per capita income in the county. This method of distribution benefits the poorer coal counties which paid a low severance tax. The formula also insures that counties which paid less than $10,000 in severance taxes get back more money than they paid. For example, Rowan County paid only $4 in severance tax but will receive $51,087 in economic aid funds. These funds will be used for economic aid projects excluding roads and schools.

The projects will be selected by a "coal severance economic aid board" created in each coal county by a 1978 law. Members of the board will be the county judge, mayor of the largest city, a member picked by the school board, and two county residents appointed by the governor. Rockcastle county's board will be composed of Judge Hubert Thacker, Mayor Roland Mullins, Dr. Rudolph Burdette, Clyde Lantive and Wayne Stewart.

Since the road funds are small, they will be applied to the upkeep of coal-hauling roads. Judge Thacker stated he has hopes that Rockcastle county's board will agree to using the economic aid funds for development of the industrial park leased by the county. This "severance tax package" replaces the 1974-76 program of sending half of the surplus coal severance tax revenue back to the coal-producing counties.

KINDERGARTEN REGISTRATION IS AUGUST 27TH

Kindergarten will begin Monday, August 30th.

Governor Carroll Announces Members Of Kentucky Court of Appeals

Gov. Julian Carroll today announced the names of the individuals he has selected for appointment to the new 14-member Kentucky Court of Appeals. The new intermediate court was created with the approval by the voters last November of changes in Kentucky's Constitution that provide for sweeping reform of the Commonwealth's judicial system.

The Kentucky Court of Appeals is now broken down into judges from two divisions each of the Commonwealth's seven Supreme Court Districts. Gov. Carroll's procedure for selecting the individuals who will man the new Court of Appeals was thorough. Initially, he received from the Judicial Nominating Commission on June 29, this year, a list of 42 names of individuals chosen, according to law, for him to consider. He then had sixty days in which to make his choices.

BOUND FOR GERMANY
Sp4 Terry W. Belcher of Ft. Campbell, Kentucky, son of Billie Langford will be leaving for Germany around or on August 17th. He will be accompanying the 101st Air Borne Division along with the other 12,000 troops. They will be participating with the NATO Countries in Reforger. The trip is expected to last 2 months. His wife, Arky Hayes Belcher and daughter, reside in Mt. Vernon.

Each of the 42 nominees was subjected to a criminal records check by the Kentucky State Police to insure that nothing in their backgrounds would appear to jeopardize their integrity. Then, the Kentucky Bar Association certified that each of the 42 is in good standing professionally, with no complaints or charges lodged against them that are either unresolved or that had been resolved unfavorably.

Next, each of the nominees was personally interviewed by Jackson W. White, Secretary of the Cabinet. The interviews were in-depth and lengthy, undertaken to acquire an insight into the individuals' philosophies about the jobs to which they applied. Sec. White then shared the results of these interviews with Gov. Carroll, who then talked personally with 20 of the nominees, to better acquaint himself with those about whom he did not have sufficient personal knowledge.

KENTUCKY UNEMPLOYMENT RATE DOWN
The state's unemployment rate dropped to 5.9 per cent in July, down from June's rate of 6.5 per cent, according to figures released today by the Department for Human Resources. Most of the decrease is due to college and high school aged youth discontinuing their search for summer employment and therefore dropping out of the labor force, said Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for Human Resources.

Individuals and organizations offered by the nominees as references were interviewed by Sec. White, either by phone or by mail, along with others in the legal profession or in nominees' home communities whose knowledge of him was considered useful in making the choices.

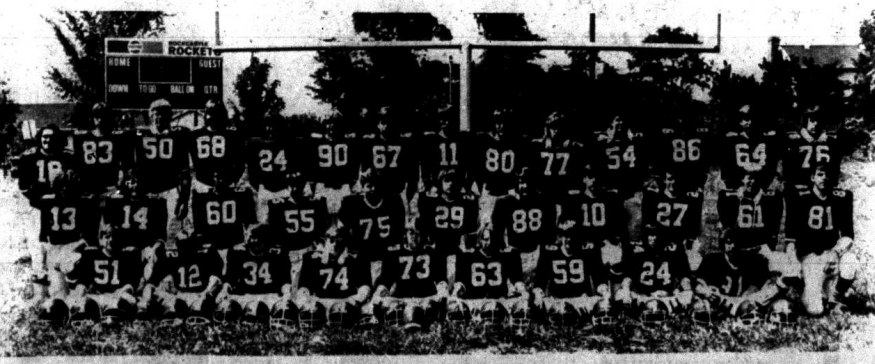

The 14 new judges will be sworn into office in ceremonies scheduled for 9:30 a.m. August 17, in the Kentucky Supreme Courtroom. Families and friends are welcome. Members of the news media are asked to observe the court's role barring the use of motion picture cameras or flashbulbs during the ceremonies.

Compared to last year, 21,000 fewer persons are unemployed and 31,500 more are working in Kentucky. Most of the year's improvement has been in the nonagricultural area, with notable increases in numbers employed in construction, electrical machinery and service industries.

The names of Gov. Carroll's appointees, their districts and divisions, are as follows:
First District, First Division, Roy N. Vance, Jr., Paducah; 2nd Division, Warren B. Miller, Dixon, Ky.
Second District, First Division, William M. Gant, Owensboro; 2nd Division, Charles H. Reynolds, Bowling Green.
Third District, First Division, John D. White, Manchester, Ky.; Second Division, Robert L. Dowell, Edmondton, Ky.
Rockcastle County is included in the Third District.

Fourth District, First Division, Joseph H. Eckert, Louisville; 2nd Division, Boyce F. Martin Jr., Louisville.
Fifth District, First Division, James Park Jr., Lexington; 2nd Division, Anthony M. Wilhoit, Versailles, Ky.
Sixth District, 1st Division, Charles Bruce Lester, Newport; Second Division, Robert F. Greene, Burlington, Ky. Seventh District, First Division, Elijah M. Hogge, Morehead; Second Division, Harris S. Howard, Prestonsburg, Ky.

REVIVAL TO BEGIN AT SKAGGS CREEK BAPTIST
Revival services will begin Sept. 27th at the Skaggs Creek Baptist Church at 7:30 each evening. Rev. Harvey Halcomb will be the evangelist and Bro. Eld Gibbs, pastor, welcomes everyone. There will be special singing each evening.

Where Does It Stop?

By: Roger Coldren

As the American Experiment in Freedom continues to unfold before the world, it may become apparent that though we still place high value on individual freedom, we are beginning to decrease the value of individual life. Talk of everything from Euthanasia to abortion prevails society. By a large bloc of society, the "in people", it is considered only proper to condemn the death penalty and endorse abortion. Additionally, it is perfectly alright to end the life of an individual who is dying.

At this point, an analogy must be made. Reference will be made to this analogy later. Pretend you are holding a candle with a wick at each end. One will represent the aborted pregnancy; the other Euthanasia or "mercy killing". Now light the candle at each end and let it burn.

Now, contemplate for a moment where life actually begins and ends. Life is not simply the existence of a heartbeat or brainwaves. Presence of life and of the soul is not a physical quantity which can be measured by any machine yet devised by man. Simply the signs of life are measurable quantitatively. Long ago, scientists discovered the make-up of protoplasm, the living matter of all things which have life. And yes, the combination of carbon, nitrogen, oxygen and all the other organic molecules do not produce any form of life matter.

Now, consider again the candle. Burning a candle at each end will inevitably end with burned fingers. A domino theory is applicable when considering abortion and Euthanasia. Legislation now in effect and under consideration would remove some restrictions on laws forbidding the taking of human life. And, no matter how liberal that legislation, there will always be a group demanding more liberal laws.

Consider this as your fingers are aching because of the burning candle. Legalize abortion at two-month fetal development. Then legalize at 4 months. Then 5 and finally abort a child 2 weeks before delivery and kill it. Murder would be necessary because life would be more or less self-sustaining. Later, the child would be carried full term, delivered and killed after natural delivery. This would significantly reduce danger to the mother over early abortions. And, if that is considered legal and right then it cannot be considered wrong to murder a child at any age if, of course, it is unwanted, unneeded and unloved. Later, of course, the elimination of unnecessary adults could be dealt with - only those who are parasites on society.

But, we also have the candle burning on the other end. Those who are terminally ill can have their life ended if the law and the doctor see fit. This, of course, is only for those who are terminally ill and close to death at any rate. But, we can abstract the closeness to death because it is simply relative.

Only those who will die in two weeks from terminal cancer can be mercifully killed. Then, those who will die in one month. Then, six months, a year, two years, five years, those in whom a carcinoma has been discovered. Then, why not include heart disease, Hodgkins disease, then all dread disease, then all fatal disease, then all that could be fatal, then all who contract an illness - condemned to death because you contracted a common cold?

Where does it stop? The candle will only stop burning in the middle. Candles, by nature, consume themselves. Mankind, by nature, could also consume itself. The candle need never be lighted. No burned fingers and no self-consumption. The taking of life is murder at any age and at any stage of development. A fetal heartbeat is perceptible at 2 weeks after conception. The brain fetus is recognizable as a human being at the age of 2 months. Life at any age is human life. Taking of human life at any age is murder.

Instead of deciding how long we will allow the candle to burn before we extinguish it, we should never allow it to be lighted. Life is not created by man but by Divine Providence, whatever it is conceived to be by personal preference. Man has no sanctimonious right to destroy what he cannot create but does have the sacred trust to preserve all life in all form and stages.

BRYANT BROS.

MAIN STREET PH. 256-2911 MT. VERNON

APPEARING IN THE TAMING OF THE SHREW at Berea College is scheduled for nationwide showing at 10 a.m. Sunday, September 5.

"Of Mind and Matter, a Portrait of Berea College" features five students with varying interests and views, talking about their goals and the future of the Appalachian states from which the Kentucky liberal arts college draws 80 per cent of its 1500 students. Also interviewed are President Willis D. Weatherford and LeRoy Jones, director of the college's Appalachian Center.

The labor program, in which every student at Berea works throughout his four years, and the college's role in the developing region are discussed from sometimes divergent viewpoints.

Student jobs range from old-time craftsmanship in such student industries as weaving and woodcraft, to computer programming and scientific research. Berea is a non-demonstrational school with a Christian emphasis, founded in 1855. It accepts only students with limited funds; the cost of education is guaranteed by loans and grants and the student can earn his board, room and fees.

Featured students are Randall Lawrence, a history major from Welch, W. Va., who toured with the college's Puppetry Caravan workshops for three summers; Sharon Jones of Maryville, Tenn., sociology major who worked in a student-staffed literacy program; Phillip Wiseman, philosophy major and teaching assistant who was Student Association president, from Spruce Pine, N.C.; Catherine Moore of Owingville, Ky., a music major; and Sally Campbell, English major active in dramatics, from McRoberts, Ky.

CBS SPECIAL TO FEATURE BEREA COLLEGE

An hour-long CBS special on Berea College is scheduled for nationwide showing at 10 a.m. Sunday, September 5.

"Of Mind and Matter, a Portrait of Berea College" features five students with varying interests and views, talking about their goals and the future of the Appalachian states from which the Kentucky liberal arts college draws 80 per cent of its 1500 students. Also interviewed are President Willis D. Weatherford and LeRoy Jones, director of the college's Appalachian Center.

The labor program, in which every student at Berea works throughout his four years, and the college's role in the developing region are discussed from sometimes divergent viewpoints.

Student jobs range from old-time craftsmanship in such student industries as weaving and woodcraft, to computer programming and scientific research. Berea is a non-demonstrational school with a Christian emphasis, founded in 1855. It accepts only students with limited funds; the cost of education is guaranteed by loans and grants and the student can earn his board, room and fees.

Featured students are Randall Lawrence, a history major from Welch, W. Va., who toured with the college's Puppetry Caravan workshops for three summers; Sharon Jones of Maryville, Tenn., sociology major who worked in a student-staffed literacy program; Phillip Wiseman, philosophy major and teaching assistant who was Student Association president, from Spruce Pine, N.C.; Catherine Moore of Owingville, Ky., a music major; and Sally Campbell, English major active in dramatics, from McRoberts, Ky.

FEEDING FOR SUMMER MILK PRODUCTION

Summer months are a difficult time to maintain high milk production in a dairy herd. The optimum temperature for maximum production is between 20 and 80 degrees F. When the air temperature is higher than this, especially if humidity is high, energy normally available for milk production is needed to overcome heat stress. In addition the cow's appetite suffers, and flies are a problem. Some management suggestions to avoid costly slumps in milk production and feed efficiency are the following:

1. Provide shade and good air movement for the cows. This can be in the form of trees, artificial shades, or sheds with openings so prevailing winds will move through the barn.
2. Rotate and clip pastures, so the limited grazing time can be used for quality forage intake.
3. Provide supplemental high-quality forage such as vegetative green chop, silage, or high quality hay.
4. Feed about 15 percent more grain than normal because grain produces less body heat and provides more energy intake needed because of the cow's reduced appetite.
5. Provide clean, fresh water close to where cows are fed, milked, or pastured.
6. Control flies through spraying or forces exposure to fly protecting insecticides.

FAT TEST PROBLEMS IN HOT WEATHER

For reasons not well-determined, fat test declines in most milk produced in the summer months. Some herds have more problems than others. If your fat test is considerably below breed average this summer the following changes have helped in some herds.

1. If your cows' diet is excellent low fiber pasture or corn silage and pelleted feed, try including some ground grain and non-pelleted protein supplement in the grain ration.
2. Include magnesium oxide in the grain ration at a level of 10 lbs. per ton of grain mix.
3. Keep cows as cool as possible by providing a shady, well-ventilated environment.

4. Provide fresh cool water and make it readily available.
5. Include highly digestible fiber sources in the grain ration such as best pulp or wheat bran. Other grain mix additives which have helped with low fat test are dried whey, sodium bentonite and baking soda. These additives are not readily available in most feed mills, however, and baking soda has the disadvantage of decreasing palatability when open appetites are usually not the best anyway.

PLANNING YOUR CALVING SEASON

It would be ideal if all cows could freshen September 1, and stand dry during July and August. Hot weather is not only hard on cows, it is unpleasant for the man who milks the cows. With a good feeding program there are two good reasons why fall freshening is a desirable goal for dairymen to strive for.

1. More total milk can be obtained from the same cows.
2. The milk price is more favorable. As mentioned before, the optimum temperature for milk production is between 20 and 80 degrees F. If cows freshen from August -15, through November 1, most of the lactation falls during a time when temperature extremes are not frequent and of short duration in Kentucky. The breeding season occurs during the cool fall and winter months when conception rates are highest. For pasture programs the cows get a strong stimulus to produce during the latter part of the lactation on lush early spring grass. However, to make fall freshening work the dairyman must feed high quality forage and a balanced grain mix in adequate amounts for top production. Fluid milk marketing organizations pay a premium for fall produced milk, and the manufactured milk is almost always higher from fall to early spring.

Some methods used to obtain fall freshening cows are: 1) when you buy cows try to purchase those that freshen in late summer and early fall; 2) make every effort to maintain a 12 month calving interval on present fall fresheners; and 3) exert more culling pressure on spring and early summer freshening cows. There will always be some that freshen at this time, but make sure they are above average cows.

CHECK YOUR VEGETABLES BEFORE YOU BUY

Frequently, vegetables available in the market or grown in the home gardens show physical disorders which make them unappetizing and unpalatable. Some of the more common disorders, encountered in several vegetables, their causes and prevention are discussed below:

Broccoli

most common disorder of broccoli and is a result of subsistence. Holding it in vegetable for prolonged periods or at high temperatures after harvest leads to yellowing. Yellow broccoli is tough and has poor flavor.

Tipburn

A disorder which causes the edges or larger portion of cabbage leaves to turn tan or brown. Leaves near the growing point of the head are usually not affected. This disorder is frequently seed after a head is sliced, when it is evident as a brown band parallel to the cut surface. Tipburn is more common in large heads and late in the growing season, although the exact cause of this condition has not been established.

Cabbage

Cabbage is subject to solar injury and, if exposed to intense sunlight, the outer leaves will blister and eventually develop a paper-like appearance. The outer leaves should be discarded since they are subject to decay.

Cauliflower

This vegetable may develop a disorder known as "riciness" which is characterized by curds that are loose instead of compact. The florets are separated instead of being tightly held together. Riciness curds have a very strong flavor and are unattractive. This condition is a sign of senescence and occurs before or after harvest. Riciness of curds is best prevented by harvesting cauliflower at the period of maximum usefulness and by storing near 32 degrees F and under high relative humidity.

Cauliflower curds not shaded from direct sunlight will develop a discoloration that ranges from yellow to brown. This discoloration is caused by a few hours exposure to the ultraviolet component of sunlight and may develop before or after harvest. Browning can be avoided by keeping curds shaded by leaves during growth and by preventing exposure to sun at harvest.

Celery

This vegetable frequently appears acceptable externally but is found to be pithy. Symptoms include hollow petioles and tissue that is white, spongy and dry in appearance. Pithiness is a sign of senescence and affects only the outermost (oldest) petioles are affected. Pithiness may be induced by cultural practices that block normal growth, delay in harvest or prolonged storage.

Boron

Celery plants frequently develop a disorder known as black heart in which leaf tips or entire leaves blacken. Black heart results from a deficiency of calcium during growth; however, affected tissues may darken after harvest. Sprays of calcium salts have been effective in preventing black heart.

Celery plants deficient in boron may develop isolated brown cracks on their petioles. This condition may occur in any age plant when there is a deficiency of boron in the soil. Cracking can be prevented by proper fertilization.

Rockcastle Recollections

By John Lair

I acknowledge with thanks additional information on early doctors who practiced their profession in Rockcastle County. J. B. Proctor, now living in Richmond, Kentucky, and still along in his eighties, remembers in his boyhood a Dr. Hundley who rated well in his profession and was always ready to answer calls. Mr. Proctor remembers being told of an incident when a man whose wife was very sick came to the place in Boone Hollow where Dr. Hundley boarded and wanted him to go to her assistance. It was about midnight and raining very hard and the doctor himself was not really well enough at the time to stand the exposure of such a trip. However, he knew of a man a short way down Boone Hollow who had whiskey. He lived along the road to the patient's home. The doctor told his caller to go ahead to this man's house and buy a pint of moonshine and join him as he came by

This was done, and they galloped on through the storm to the patient's relief. When the husband asked the amount of his bill the doctor informed him it had already been paid. It is said that neither of the men suffered any ill effects from their ride.

Richard Mullins had previously told me many things about Dr. Hundley and he, too, agrees that he had the reputation of being one of the best in the county. Richard, however, spreads a cloak of mystery about the doctor by telling how he would sometimes get on his horse and ride away on some secret mission and be gone for five or six weeks without any body knowing where he was or what he was about. Since a few remnants of an early counterfeit ring, once very famous, were still in existence, suspicious-minded neighbors suspected that these secret missions were in some way hooked up with that operation, but nothing was ever brought to light to support such suspicions.

So far as I know Dr. Hundley was never married, but boarded for many years in the Boone Hollow community and his grave is in that area. Mr. Proctor also remembered a Dr. Crocker who practiced largely in the Brush Creek and Crooked Creek sections for a number of years.

Richard Mullins also told of a Dr. Cotton in the Brush Creek country who treated patients for many years. He believes that he was not a licensed physician but was very adept at the use of home remedies, digging and preparing his own roots and herbs.

Many people in Rockcastle County knew and remember W. R. Gott. While undergoing treatment at Hot Springs, Arkansas he became acquainted with some outside practitioner who was selling a blood purifier of his own that relieved Gott so effectively of his ills that he paid the man a considerable price for the prescription and brought it home with him and started treating patients of his own. The treatment started creating quite a furore. Many patients enthusiastically reported marvelous cures. Of arthritis, rheumatism and other impure blood complications; others, particularly local doctors, pronounced it a big fake. A local druggist was so sold on the effectiveness of the remedy that he bought the prescription from Gott, or at least bought a sizeable interest in it, and started in bottling it.

Gott sold his medicine all the way from five to fifteen dollars a bottle and was soon delivering it to patients in surrounding states. He was able to show marked improvement, if not outright cures, and his medicine enjoyed a wide sale, with he himself as the only

Civil Action File No. 3097

STELLA M. AKER, Individually and as Administratrix of the Estate of RICHARD H. AKER, PLAINTIFF

V. NOTICE OF SALE

STELLA MARIE AKER, an Infant, ET AL., DEFENDANTS

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Rockcastle Circuit Court rendered on July 23rd, 1976, in the above cause, a partition action, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House door on Main Street, in Mount Vernon, Kentucky, to the highest bidder, at public auction on the 3rd day of September, 1976, at Two O'clock P.M., or thereabout, the following described property, to wit:

Located in Rockcastle County, Kentucky, and being all of Lots No. 1 and 7 in the Fugate Sub-division as shown by plat of said Sub-division, of record in Plat Book 1, page 36, in the office of the clerk of the Rockcastle County Court, Mount Vernon, Kentucky and reference is made to said plat for a more complete description of said lots.

The property shall be sold to the highest bidder on terms of ten (10) percent per cent of the purchase price in cash at time of sale, the balance in six (6) months, with the purchaser being required to execute bond with surety thereon to be approved by the Commissioner, to secure the unpaid balance of the purchase price; said bond to bear interest at the rate of seven (7) percent per annum from date of sale until paid. The purchaser shall have the privilege of paying all of the purchase price in cash, or paying said bond before maturity by paying the principal and interest accrued to the date of payment. salesman on the road. I remember that when I was a young boy showing signs of an interest in writing and advertising he talked with me frequently and at length about his plans and ambitions for wide-spread sales and mentioned once that a drug concern in Philadelphia offered to build a factory and go in for national sales of his medicine, paying him a royalty on all sales. Having kept the entire sales money so long himself, he was unwilling to let anybody else if on any part of it, so the deal never went through.

Somewhere along the line he picked up the assumed title of "Doctor" and went merrily on with his sales to individual patients.

Many people claimed his remedy cured them. Those of more doubting nature claimed that many patients claimed they were cured just as they could stop taking the medicine, which was said to have a most vile and unpleasant taste that couldn't be gotten rid of between doses.

(Mrs. Gott was a descendant of Dr. Thomas Walker, the first white man to visit the Rockcastle area. She had in her possession years ago a hand-written copy of Dr. Walker's Journal of 1780, the first I had ever seen of it.)

Sometime in the early 1920's Dr. John Baker was located in Mt. Vernon, but after a few years moved his practice to Berea, Kentucky, where he was long the leading practitioner, retaining many of his Rockcastle patients throughout the remainder of his life. Dr. Baker was long prominent as a member of the staff at Berea College Hospital and is generally spoken of as one of the top medical men of Rockcastle's past.

Mrs. Mary E. Adams has reminded me of a Dr. Will P. McKee. She says that he was located here around 1877, later removing to Eustis, Florida. She also gives further information on her grandmother's brother, Dr. J. J. Brown, Dr. William A. Brown, Dr. Stephen U. Brown and James Brown, who was a druggist. I am also in receipt of a letter from Elizabeth G. Huff giving a more detailed account of the life of her father, Dr. Gravelly, mentioned in one of my earlier installments.

I am in hopes that someone will send in the necessary information on Dr. Price, of the Level Green section, and more on Dr. Taswell and his earlier practice.

I am pleased to have been able to learn more about Dr. Josiah Joplen, previously mentioned as the first licensed physician to practice in Rockcastle County. I am able to report that he was born in Virginia in 1800, coming to Mt. Vernon, Kentucky about 1820, remaining here until his death in 1882. A recent letter from Clyde Richards, Hamilton, Ohio tells me that he is buried in an unmarked grave in the oldest section of the Mt. Vernon Cemetery along with others, one of which was (Cont'd to P-11)

HOT PACK OR RAW PACK?

Both methods of packing foods into jars have their advantages. Raw pack is not an accurate term. The fruit or vegetable is packed into jars raw and unheated, but then you add boiling water, so "raw pack" is a better description of the method. With the hot pack, there is a short preheating or precooking step before food is packed into the jars.

Raw Pack - This is quicker and easier than the hot-pack, but foods do have to be processed longer in the boiling-water-bath canner. In the pressure canner, processing times are usually the same. That's because raw-packed foods are thoroughly hot by the time the 240 degree F. temperature is reached.

Just put prepared raw fruits into hot, clean jars and cover with boiling hot syrup, juice, or water. If you are canning tomatoes, press them down into the jar so that they are covered with their own juice. Don't add liquid. Pack most raw vegetables tightly because they shrink during processing. The exceptions to this rule are starchy vegetables such as corn, lima beans, and peas - they expand during processing, so pack them loosely before covering with boiling water.

Fill jars to within 1/2 inch of top with boiling water or other liquid, then remove any air bubbles by working the blade of a table knife gently down the sides. Add more liquid if necessary to cover the food.

Wipe jar rims with a clean cloth, close jars, and process as directed in your canning manual.

Hot Pack - Preheating or precooking makes the food pliable so that it can be packed more tightly into the jars. Some fruits keep their color better when hot-packed.

Heat fruits in syrup of water. Preheat tomatoes and juicy fruits without adding liquid and pack them in the juice that cooks out. Precook vegetables in water or steam.

Pack the food in hot, clean jars. Cover with the cooking liquid or boiling syrup. Fill jars to within 1/2 inch of top, unless your directions call for 1 inch headspace.

Remove air bubbles with table knife blade, wipe jar rims, close jars, and process as directed in your canning manual.

Leaving Headspace - Follow the directions for each fruit or vegetable on how much headspace to leave at the top of the jar. This gives the food room to expand and also leaves space for the liquid to bubble up during processing.

Without this headspace, some of the food might be forced out of the jar with the air, causing a deposit of food on the jar rim that would ruin the seal.

If you leave too much headspace, food at the top of the jar might discolor, or the jar might not seal if all of the air is not exhausted during processing. The vacuum created between the top of the food and the lid is what helps cause the jar to seal.

ADDING VEGETABLES TO TOMATOES

If you add low-acid vegetables such as corn/green pepper, okra, onion and celery to tomatoes or tomato juice, be sure to process them in the pressure canner instead of the boiling-water-bath canner. Use the processing time given in the canning manual for the vegetable you are adding.

CAN CREAMED CORN IN PINT JARS ONLY

For safe processing, use pint jars only when you are putting up cream-style corn.

Prepare the cream-style corn immediately after picking, husking, and washing the vegetable. Cut corn from the cob at about center of kernel and scrape cobs.

For Raw Pack: Pack into clean pint jars to 1 1/2 inches from top. Do not shake the jar or press the corn down. Fill the jar to 1/2 inch from the top with boiling water. Wipe jar rims clean, adjust jar lids, and process in pressure canner at 10 pounds of pressure for 55 minutes.

For Hot Pack: After cutting corn from the cob and scraping cobs, add 1 pint boiling water for each quart of corn and heat to boiling. Pack hot corn to 1 inch of top of pint jars. Add 1/2 teaspoon salt to each jar. Adjust lids, process in pressure canner at 10 pounds for 55 minutes. After processing, remove jars from canner and complete seals, if necessary.

It is well remembered by older people in the county as once being occupied by Devil Bill's family during his lifetime. A recent letter from Bill Thompson, presently living in Florida, adds the information that his father, Logan Thompson, often told his children about Dr. Joseph Joplin, who had brought him and his three brothers and two sisters into the world. One of the brothers was named Josiah Joplin Thompson as a namesake of the doctor.

In the beginning of the paper on the doctors of Rockcastle I was not at all certain that I would be able to write a single complete article on them. This is the third installment and the end is not yet. I have not even begun on present practices. Mt. Vernon's excellent hospital and associated activities. Incidentally, I have had more volunteer assistance on this than on any other subject. I have written on, and I hope the good work continues.
