First Baptist Church

First Baptist Church was established in 1887

In 1887 John Caldwell Carmical and fellow members of the Hope Well Baptist Church began First Baptist Church on November 28 with 16 charter members. Those first members were: Krysiel Arnold, J.L. Arnold, H.H. Baker, H.C. Gentry, Mrs. Amanda Baker, P.D. Colyer, Mrs. Rebecca E. Gentry, Susan Polard, James Livesay, Sarah A. White, Lydia White, Sarah F. Carmical and Mary Kit Carmical. The population of Mt. Vernon was 400. The first services were held in the Courthouse. Later the church moved into the old Christian Church building and remained there for 10 years. This same building later became the offices of the Mt. Vernon Signal Newspaper. The Lambert Law building now occupies this same space.

First Baptist Church continued to grow and in 1897 built a building on Williams Street on what is now the parking lot for Food Fair, and the present homestead of Mrs. Lidge Woodall. In 1929 the church moved to its present site on West Main Street. The first service on the present site was Sept. 15, 1929.

First Baptist Church is the parent to at least four present churches in Rockcastle County. All together eight missions were started by the church: Gum Springs, Flat Gap, Chestnut Ridge, Sand Springs-Roundstone, Northside, Hummel Grove, and Well Hope. A number of young men in recent years has been called out of the church and ordained to the gospel ministry: Rev. Clinton Helton, Rev. Albert G. Griffin, Dr. John Meadows, Dr. Jerry Hopkins, Dr. Robert Fields, Rev. Larry Harmon, and Rev. Bruce Treon.

Records show that the monthly income of the church in October, 1932 was $108.18 and the pastor was paid a salary of $75 per month. On May 31, 1939 three men were elected as deacons: Clyde Linville, Everett Chaney, and C.H. Philbeck. On February 2, 1949 more deacons were elected: Grant Banks, George Parrett, Hubert Hodge, Charles Machal, Ed Denny, Virgil Stokes and R. B. McKenzie. August 3, 1955 new deacons were elected: Ervin Hunt, Everett Pardue, Preston Nunnell, Eldon Coldiron, Johnny Sams, Benton Stokes, Bill Bailey. On June 9, 1965 the following were elected deacons: Jack Dailey, Harry Harmon, Charles Baker, Ernest Stanley, and H. Lee Durham. On June 3, 1977, Don Putnam, Elwood Treon and Floyd Owens were elected deacons. The last deacons to be elected to date were on January 15, 1984: Kenneth Cummins, Kevin Fletcher, John Hale and Alfred Cummins.

First Baptist Church began a live broadcast of the Sunday Morning Worship Service on the first Sunday station W.R.V.K. went on the air. The church has not missed a Sunday broadcast since going on the air live. The following men have served as pastor: J.C. Carmical, W. Briscoe, E. Edgar Allen, Rev. Jamison, Rev. Mitchell, T.C. Duke, Fred Jones, A.A. Webb, W.S. Taylor, J.W. Mahan, E.S. Caylor, W.C. Younce. Former pastors who are still living are: Dr. Wendell Belew, Dr. Raymond Lawrence, Rev. Lee Hopkins, Jr., J. William Hall, Rev. Ray Cummins, Rev. Jack Bruce, Rev. Raymond Roaden and Dr. Charles Hedrick.

Through the past one hundred and one years, First Baptist Church has made its impact upon the community and surrounding areas. The church continues to provide worship and ministry that touches hundreds of lives today. Dr. Charles Hedrick, present pastor, came to the church in July, 1981. The church has seen nearly 200 additions to membership since 1981, and has nearly doubled its income. Many new areas of ministry have been designed to seek to reach and minister to the total family.

OUR WAY OF LIFE WAS BORN OF OUR WORK AND OUR PRAYERS

The life we live has come to be A model for the world to see: It didn't happen just by chance That our great nation could advance, In ways we asked the Lord to bless: We carved it from the wilderness, By working hard without complaint And using with enough restraint Each resource, so we'll still provide For future needs to be supplied. Our House of Worship thus commands The efforts of our brains and hands. So learn the lessons of your creed, Which say the Lord fulfills each need While teaching us to work and pray; Then let's enjoy this labor Day.

County raises taxes; wants water plant grant

Brodhead gets grant for sewer

By: Ray McClure

After weeks of waiting, Brodhead has finally received a grant to upgrade its sewer plant.

The Appalachian Regional commission in Washington announced Friday it had approved a $150,000 grant in Distressed County Funds for the city.

The grant will go with a $130,000 loan from the Farmers Home Administration and a $20,000 grant from Area Development Funds through Cumberland Valley Area Development District to fund the $300,000 project.

City officials were pleased with the grant that will finally get the project under way. However, best estimates are that construction will not begin until about April. Design plans will have to be made and approved before work can start.

In making the announcement, the agency said the money will go to "provide additional waste water capacity so the city can meet the required Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) waste water effluent standards."

The Brodhead project has been discussed for over two years, but never got off the ground until the EPA fined the city $2,500 for polluting Dix River.

The final reading and publication of an ordinance increasing sewer rates to pay off the loan has been made. The loan is for 40 years at five percent interest.

Sewer rates will be increased to 100 percent of the water bill. In the past it was 75 percent of the water bill, meaning a 25 percent increase.

'Pot' found

Three Pulaski County men bow hunting near Dix Springs last weekend, got more than they bargained for when they accidentally walked into a marijuana patch.

According to Deputy Sheriff Delmo McClure, the three men separated to hunt, and later one heard shots. When the other two men failed to appear deputies were called.

Deputies found the "pot" patch and cut 29 plants over eight feet tall. The two men had been hiding from the gunfire. When deputies neared the patch they heard someone running and found a cold, open can of beer.

When the probable land owner was questioned, he said he knew nothing about the marijuana, and the path to the patch was made by his dogs. He was not identified pending action by the grand jury.

Onlookers watch last Thursday as members of the Rockcastle Co. Rescue Squad and the Mt. Vernon Fire Department cut an Ohio man from a pick-up truck at the intersection of 70 and the Ottawa Road. The man's pick-up collided with a car being towed by Ralph Carpenter of Rt. 3, Mt. Vernon. He reportedly received a broken hip and arm in the accident.

In from the outdoors

Freddie Noe retires after 26 years

By: Ray McClure

After 26 years on the lookout for poachers, checking licenses and dodging snakes, Freddie Noe has called it quits.

Rockcastle's conservation officer retired Oct. 1, but says he will keep in touch with the outdoors since it had been a lot of his life all these years.

"I'll relax for awhile, do a little fishing and hunting," he said. He did not elaborate on any other plans that he might have during his retirement.

Considering his military service, schooling, and other Conservation Department incentives, Noe has accumulated 32 years of work in the field.

He leaves the department with a sergeant's classification.

"Since I was young, I enjoyed hunting and fishing," Noe recalled. "Then Irvin Smith, conservation officer here at the time came along and talked frequently with classes at school. He encouraged me to be a conservation officer."

It is not always an easy job, but it has its rewards. "You have to want to go into conservation," he related.

"You've got to enjoy that kind of work and love the outdoors. But the hours are long."

Noe described the duties of a conservation officer as "primarily law enforcement." He checks hunting and fishing licenses and duck stamps when he finds hunters out in the woods or along creek banks. He also answers public complaints about poachers or other infractions.

He reported deer is the animal most poachers seek, and there is considerable rabbit and squirrel hunting out-of-season. He also watches for illegal nets in rivers.

Noe said he gets all kinds of excuses from outdoorsmen, but mostly "I left my license at home. Some don't even bother to make an excuse and accept their fate, he added.

Noe described the county game population as "stable" with the deer population increasing all across the state. Last year, 36 deer were killed in the county during hunting season.

Hunting and fishing have increased remarkably over the years, according to records kept by the officer.

Foxhunters here Monday

For the third straight year the Kentucky State Foxhunters Association will hold its annual field trials at Brodhead fairgrounds beginning Monday, Oct. 17 and continuing through Thursday, Oct. 20.

About 100 riders and 250 dogs are expected for the 77th annual event. Registering of the hounds will begin at 10 a.m. Monday at the fairgrounds. A burgo supper will be held at 6 p.m. at the fairgrounds. The bench show follows at 7:30 p.m.

On Tuesday, the first cast of all age and derby hounds will begin at daybreak. At 7:30 p.m. a banquet and business meeting will be held at the Rockcastle County High School cafeteria.

During the evening a hornblowing contest will be conducted.

At daybreak Wednesday, the second cast of all age hounds and the final cast of derby hounds will be held. Derby trophies will be presented at 5:30 p.m. at the fairgrounds.

At daybreak Thursday, the fourth and final day of foxhunting and final cast of all age hounds will be held. All age trophies will be presented in the afternoon at the fairgrounds.

Field judges will be from Ohio, Tennessee, Indiana, Connecticut, Illinois and Kentucky. A director of the association is David McCauley of Mt. Vernon. The public is invited to the events.

Monthly bills are unpaid

By: Ray McClure

The Mt. Vernon City Council "bit the bullet" at its meeting Monday night.

With the city general fund broke, the council voted to raise property taxes six percent, effective with the 1989 tax bills.

Faced with no money in the general fund to pay monthly bills, the council decided it had no alternative but to raise taxes by the full amount prescribed by law. It was the first tax increase in eight years.

Best estimate, based on a $32.5 million property tax assessment, is that the four percent would bring in only about $13,000 additional tax money.

The tax measure passed on a motion by Councilman Earl Nichols, seconded by Billy Ray Dean, Billy Swinney voted "yes." Tommy Bussell abstained. Wayne Adams and Clarence Kirby did not attend the meeting.

"We just don't have the money to pay our bills," Mayor Gary R. Cromer told the council. "We've got to find some revenue if we are to keep operating."

He reported the city failed to pay $2,000 in bills last month. This month's bills total $10,032.

The information came as no surprise. The city has been virtually broke for several months, operating as one official put it, on a shoestring.

Money in the water/sewer fund cannot be used for general fund (operation) expenses.

The vote on taxes came after a lengthy discussion by the council on "funding alternatives," meaning in this case, a vehicle tax sticker for residents living inside the city limits.

Under that plan, each vehicle whose owner has a Mt. Vernon address would have to purchase a sticker for his vehicle. That would include cars and pick-up trucks, but not tractor/trailers and campers. No specific amount was discussed, but estimates were $10 to $12 yearly for each vehicle.

Under the Monday night proposal, the parking meters would be removed and a two-hour limit placed on parking. Non-residents would be identified if there were no sticker on their vehicle.

Persons using the city parking lot at the depot to park all day while they work in other towns would be charged an annual fee, at least enough, according to the proposal, for the city to recover the $200 yearly fee it pays the railroad for the lot.

The proposal was met with some skepticism, and the council finally decided to meet at a called session later to discuss the proposal and other alternatives.

The council approved the appointment of John Clontz as city attorney, effective Jan. 1. He replaces his father, Carl, who served in that capacity for 25 years.

On the recommendation of the Mt. Vernon Housing Authority Board, the council approved hiring Mrs. Sherry Robinson as executive director replacing Mrs. Ginger Fletcher.

Mrs. Ellen Millers of the council decided to close a section of Parsons Street on Fairground Hill that is becoming a "speedway and dangerous to children." She set off for speed breakers on the street.

The council also approved a bid by Paul Cummins for a year's lease on a lot owned by the city on old Broadhead Road now leased to Joe Martin. Cummins bid $260. Martin had one dollar. Cummins will take 1988's.

Blue room keeps attendance up at high school

By: Jeff Hammond

It has been dubbed the "Blue Room" by teachers and students at Rockcastle County High School, but no matter what it is called it is making a difference in the attendance at the high school and could mean extra dollars for the county school system in the coming year.

The "Blue Room" as it is appropriately named because of the blue color of the walls, is actually a detention or time out center where students are sent for punishment for school code violations such as tardiness, fighting, disrupting class or other acts of mischief that would otherwise result in suspension.

Last year, according to RCHS principal Ronnie Cash, the high school suspended 87 students for a total of 483 days lost in attendance. Each day that a student is suspended from school he or she is counted as being absent. This year instead of sending students home they are sent to the "Blue Room" where they are required to work in an environment that is closely watched by the teacher that has sole responsibility of the detention center, David Perkins.

While in the detention center students are not allowed contact with other students. They must constantly devote their time to their studies and even lunch is taken to them. They are not allowed to smoke, buy soft drinks and must listen to classical music.

The school system received a grant from the state department of education for the detention center. The results, according to Cash, have been phenomenal.

"It is one of the most positive things that has been done at RCHS since I have been here," Cash added. "Last year, Tony Collins from the state department came, looked over the school and said that our attendance was keeping us from being a top notch school."

Rockcastle School Superintendent Bigg Towery, Jr. agrees with Cash. "Attendance and achievement go hand in hand," Towery explained.

So far this year a total of 25 students have been suspended but only two have been sent home. In those two cases the individuals had alcohol on the school campus. "Our goal is to have zero suspensions," said Cash. The high school has been the one school in the county that has been bringing the average daily attendance (ADA) down. This reduction of the overall percentage attendance in dollars coming into the school district from state coffers. The state department uses the ADA to determine how much money a school system will receive.

It costs the school system an average of $8 each day that a student misses. If you multiply the number of suspension days by this amount you can easily see the importance of the detention center from a monetary standpoint. However, not only are the days lost by suspensions down, but absenteeism is down school wide.

So far this year the high school has been averaging 97.2 percent. Last year the highest average for any school month was 94.2 percent. "Our goal is 95 percent attendance, we may do even better than that over the course of the year," Cash said.

"You can look at the school systems with the highest achievement scores and they are usually the ones that have excellent attendance," said Towery.

The detention center has been very helpful in increasing attendance, however, Cash attributes the success of this year to two factors. "The posi-itive attitude on behalf of the teachers and students has made the difference in our school."

Last year the high school would have 60-70 students absent on any given day. This year the highest number of absences has been 40, out of a total of 925 students in the high school. The least number of absences was Sept. 23, when the high school had the best attendance of any school in the county with 98.3 percent. Only 15 out of 925 students were absent. Simply unheard of at the high school says Cash.

In addition to the measures that have been taken to improve attendance, the school board approved the employment of former coach and teacher, Preston Parrett to work three hours per day strictly on attendance. According to Cash, Parrett checks students' excuses in the mornings, and makes phone calls to students that are absent. "If a student has been absent two to three days Parrett will make a home visit," Cash added.

"What do the students think of the detention center when they find out how consistently, are not allowed to smoke, buy soft drinks, and listen to

RCHS Basketball Coach David Perkins is the teacher that has the responsibility of the detention center. The detention center has been named the "Blue Room" by students and teachers. According to Principal Ronnie Cash it has helped attendance.

The Rockets, now 6-2 on the year, must play district rival Cawood at home this Friday night. The Rockets still have a chance of making the playoffs if they win their remaining district games against Cawood, Knox Central and Whitley County.

Turnovers cost Rockets game at Wayne Co.

By: Jeff Hammond

At times last Friday night the game between the home-standing Wayne County Cardinals and the visiting Rockcastle Rockets, resembled, as one Rocket fan put it, "Flag football."

The reference to flag football was made because of the high number of penalties called, primarily against the Rockets, by the referees.

Regardless of the brand of football the Rockets came up on the short end of a 20-16 score. The loss was the second of the season for the Rockets who are now 6 and 2.

The Rockets racked up over 140 yards in penalties in the first half alone included in those were: unsportsmanlike conduct on Chad Hodges, Chuck Shields, Adam Coleman, Chuck Napier and Chad Burdette. Suffice to say there is no love lost between these two teams.

Wayne County came into the game wanting to avenge last season's defeat at the hands of the Rockets. Last season the Rockets defeated Wayne 6-0 in a game that favored Wayne County.

Wayne County picked up some costly personal fouls of their own in the first half. Unfortunately, at least for the Rockets, the Wayne County penalties did not lead to scores by Rockcastle.

The Rockets scored first on a 85 yard kick returned by senior quarterback, Chad Burdette. The extra point run was good by Kevin Rowe and the Rockets led 7-0.

Two turnovers cost the Rockets eight points. Wayne's first turnover which came with 2:00 remaining in the first half.

Senior defensive back and tight end, Chuck Shields fumbled a punt and gave the Wayne County offense excellent field position which promptly resulted in a Cardinal score with 3:11 remaining in the first quarter. The extra point attempt by Wayne County runner James Sloan was no good and the Rockets retained the lead.

The second quarter was dominated by the Wayne County offense and the personal fouls called against the Rockets. On one series of downs the Rockets had the Cardinal facing a third and 44 yards for the first down.

Personal fouls and pass plays brought the Wayne team back into the game. Facing a fourth and six with 6:33 in the second, Wayne scored their second touchdown of the game and took the lead into the dressing room.

The Rocket defense, playing against a huge line of Wayne, managed to stay close even though they had to be fatigued by playing the majority of the second quarter on defense.

The second half was not penalty free, however, it was better than the first. A fumble recovery by Shields or Hodges, they each had a fumble recovery on the evening, gave the Rockets the ball with 4:04 left in the third.

The Rocket drive began on the 39 yard line and was culminated with three yard touchdown pass from Burdette to Shields. The extra point pass was also good to Adam Coleman and the Rockets had regained the lead 16-12 with 11:06 left to play.

The Rockets got the ball back on an interception by Dane Cox. All appeared to be going well until the next play when the Rockets returned the favor to Wayne on a fumble. Wayne took over on their own 39 and marched in for the score. The extra point run was good by Wayne's James Sloan and the Cardinals had taken the lead for good.

The Rockets got the ball back with 2:32 left but could not get into the end zone before time ran out. The Rockets were led on defense by junior linebacker Dane Cox's 17 tackles and 1 interception, Chuck Shields had 14 tackles and 1 fumble recovery, Kevin Rowe 11 tackles, Chad Hodges 13 tackles, Adam Coleman 10 tackles, Chad Burdette, Les Scalf and Scotty Hines 8 tackles each, Chad Merritt and Bobby Hayes 6 tackles.

On offense Kevin Rowe had 38 yards on 10 carries, Dane Cox had 27 on 8 carries, Les Scalf 32 on 3 carries, Mike Spires 18 on 5 carries, Chad Burdette 41 on 5 carries and an 85 yard kick return for a touchdown.

Burdette was also good on 2 of 10 passes, Chuck Shields had 1 reception for a touchdown. Adam Coleman had 1 extra point pass reception. Adam Coleman continued his outstanding punting with 5 punts for 191 yards and a 38 yard average.

The good news, even though the Rockets lost the game, is that it was not a district contest. This Friday night the Rockets face Cawood at home in what promises to be a do or die game for the Rockets.

Both Cawood and Rockcastle have one loss in district competition at the hands of district leader Bell County. The winner of Friday night's game will be in excellent shape to come in runner-up in the district and still make the playoffs. Cawood's record defeated Knox Central 27-0 last Friday night.

According to Coach Tom Larkey, "Cawood has a better team than Wayne and has few, if any weaknesses." This Friday night is also Little League night. All Little League football players will be admitted free and will be recognized at halftime.

Terri Sayble, a teacher at Roundstone Elementary is shown with her good friend, Pamela McCrosky and Pamela's fiancee Steve Hamilton of Lexington, shortly before Pamela and Steve's wedding last Friday. they would be in each other's wedding. Well, Pamela set her wedding date, which was fine until, Terri suddenly became ill. Pamela and Steve then decided to have their wedding in the hospital so Terri could serve as maid of honor. Terri says she will do the same if Pamela is in the hospital when she decides to get married. WHAT FRIENDS!!!!

Arlington's lady of leisure takes others' fun seriously
By: Virginia Smock

Editors note: The author, Virginia Smock, is the wife of Mickey Smock, who grew up in Mt. Vernon, the brother of Mrs. Dennis Nickey, Donna Brasher, of which the article refers, is the daughter of Margurite Brown, Brasher and granddaughter of Mrs. Sam Brown, and a sister of Clark Brown and Mrs. Joe Hansel. Reprinted from the Arlington Times Newspaper.

Donna Brasher, Arlington's director of parks and recreation, sat in her glass-walled eighth-floor office and gazed out at the city. "My primary duties are to act as steward of public park land and to provide leisure programs to the community. A person's leisure preferences change every six months, so we offer a wide variety of activities."

Arlington City Manager Bill Kirchoff describes her as "one of the ten best park and recreational directors in the country. She's a phenomenal department head and a real dynamic person. She is the catalyst with the ideas, direction and pace for her staff."

The Arlington Association of University Women recognized these characteristics by naming her "Woman of the Year." She was also honored by the Park Board of Arlington and is the current president of the Texas Parks and Recreation Society.

Ms. Brasher grew up in Kentucky and Texas with her grandparents, while her father was in the military. She attributed her career decision to these circumstances. Her grandmother constantly took her to the Louisville Parks.

interest and love of recreational activities -- not just purely athletics -- helped me to make friends and settle in.

She received her undergraduate and master's degrees in recreation administration from Texas Women's University. Her first job was a civilian with the U.S. Army Special Services in Germany, programming activities for military personnel and their dependents.

She later moved to Dallas, where she worked with the Dallas Association for Retarded Citizens as a program director, after which she taught in the Dallas public schools.

Ms. Brasher returned to her real love with the City of Grand Prairie in their parks and recreation department. She subsequently relocated to Austin as superintendent of its tennis and aquatic programs, eventually becoming community services director in charge of parks and recreation.

She came to Arlington 3 1/2 years ago, bringing with her both experience and enthusiasm to her new job. "The growth of this community was so rapid that the resources had not kept pace. My greatest challenge, and one of the most difficult things I've faced, is to provide equal services to all parts of this community," she said.

"Fortunately, I have never worked with more competent and genuinely committed people than those in city management. They give me back the energy to accomplish the things I do. You can't fail to be successful with that kind of backup. When we get awards, we want to give them to everybody because they've all made such major contributions."

The department has recently received a great deal of recognition. The management administration award was given by the Texas Recreation and Parks Society and a design award will be presented at the Park and Maintenance National Conference for the Allen Bolden Pool in Vandergriff Park. "It is the only pool that has recovered all its operating costs since it was opened last year," she proudly reported.

Ms. Brasher listed the innovations implemented since she arrived, but gave all the credit to her staff. Funtimes, a colorful quarterly publication, not only lists information on the recreational activities available, but also shows the public what is being done with their tax dollars.

The "Adopt a Median" program has increased the number of trees and flowers on the streets. The satellite program -- opening school facilities after school hours and in the summer for use in areas where there are no city parks -- is paying its own way and is the ideal athletic program.

"By charging user fees, we've generated about 800 more softball teams than we have ever been able to accommodate before."

Ms. Brasher's enthusiasm seems to have spilled over into other Arlington organizations as well. The Junior League, Arlington Independent School District and the Parks and Recreation Department have combined forces to start a "park pal" program, teaching children about the environment and how they can care for it. The Arlington South Rotary Club has designated an area in Vandergriff Park called a "freedom park" which will be accessible to the disabled.

A number of jogging and biking trails have been added because of numerous requests.

"I see things more as opportunities than problems," she said. "I like to go to a community that has undeveloped park land, and, working in concert with the citizens, make sure that they will have what they want and need when it becomes a reality."

To Ms. Brasher, the formation of the River Legacy Foundation illustrates how the concept of a park along the Trinity River in North Arlington will be accomplished by dedicated, civic-minded people.

"So many people in here do so much related to parks and recreation, that no one person can take credit. There are a number of special interest groups, staff and volunteers that have made the park systems what it is and can be."

Cash also had lots of praise for the senior class. "They are one of the best behaved classes ever to go through the high school."

Did You Know!

Governor Mike Dukakis is an enemy of the tobacco farmer! How could he be so insensitive to the plight of the American farmers throughout the south and right here in Kentucky. Beginning January 1, 1988, no one applying to serve in the state of Massachusetts as a "public safety employee" will be permitted to smoke. Does this just mean on duty? Or does it apply inside the home of any taxpaying citizen? The law applies both on duty and off duty!

The rule covers "the inhaling, exhaling or burning of any lighted cigarette, cigar, pipe or other product containing tobacco." Correspondent Wayne Rush of Byte magazine, comments: "Considering the other provisions recently passed in that state, I suppose it is safe to say that you can do nearly anything you wish with a camel in Massachusetts except smoke one."

Dukakis' state personnel administrator David Haley tells us why Dukakis insists upon such a law: "The statute" Haley explains "calls for termination of an employee who is found after a hearing to have violated the prohibition. Since smoking has been established as a contributing factor for hypertension and heart disease, disability retirement due to hypertension and heart disease should eventually be reduced." Haley adds proudly that "it is believed that this disqualification of smokers for public employment may be the first such ban of a statewide basis." Has Mike Dukakis gone mad? What would national legislation of this type do to Kentucky's tobacco industry? With this in mind, consider Mike Dukakis' view on aiding America's hardworking farmers. Dukakis said during the September 25th debate that the U.S. Government has been spending too much money on America's farmers. He said, "I also believe that we need an agricultural policy which doesn't cost us $15 to $20 to $25 billion a year that it's been costing us over the past three or four years under this administration." Obviously, Mike Dukakis from Boston, Massachusetts, doesn't understand the plight of the family farmers in Kentucky or anywhere in America. The Reagan-Bush administration has rescued family farmers from the devastating effects of the grain embargo of the previous Democratic Administration of Jimmy Carter. Farmers will find no friend in Mike Dukakis. During the debate, he revealed what many farmers fear: that Dukakis has no understanding or compassion for farmers and his Administration will cut FEDERAL AID TO FAMILY FARMERS.

In 1965 there were 2,589 license issued totaling $8,667. In 1987, there were 4,672 issued totaling $47,836.

Noe also reported four bobcats were taken last year in the county and called the big cat the most difficult to take and the most difficult to find.

"They stay out of the way of people," he said. "I've only seen a few. They are in the county, but I doubt many people have ever seen one."

Noe and his wife, Lorene, live on West Main Street near the high school. Their son, Fred Jr. is a student at Berea College.

Jennings Family Reunion

The family of the late Melvin and Rachel Jennings of Orlando, held a reunion, Sunday, Oct. 2 in the Fellowship Hall of the Richmond Pentecostal Church in Richmond, Indiana.

There were approximately 100 children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren that enjoyed games and dinner.

VOTE FOR
Debbie Reynolds Whitehead
School Board Candidate Division 4 - Precincts: Climax and Orlando

I would like to take this opportunity to present my family - my husband, Tim, my 2-year-old daughter, Kasey Leigh, and my stepdaughter, Michelle Nicole.

These two children provide my basic interest for the desire to become a member of the Rockcastle County Board of Education. These children and yours must receive the best education possible. They are our future and should be provided plenty of opportunity.

Thank you for this occasion to present my family.
"Your Support and Vote will be Greatly Appreciated."

School Notes

Mt. Vernon Elementary Principal Johnny Hale is shown with a plaque presented to his school on behalf of the school board in appreciation of the attendance increase at the elementary school. Mt. Vernon Elementary had the highest percentage increase of any school in the county. In addition to the attendance award, Mt. Vernon Elementary also qualified for a Flag of Progress sponsored by the Kentucky Educational Foundation and the Kentucky Department of Education. To be eligible for a flag of progress a school must: decrease their dropout rate by .5 of a percentage point, increase by 5 percentage points in grades 3, 5 and 7 the percent of students scoring at or above the national median of 50 NCE as compared to the previous years, improve attendance by 2 percentage point or achieve 95 percent percent attendance or better, and have no accreditation deficiencies.

Livingston Elementary principal Jerry Mink is shown with a plaque presented to his school for having the best percentage attendance of any school in the county. Livingston, according to Mink, has won the award each year since its inception in the 1980-81 school year.

Student records to be on computer

Rockcastle County High School is in the process of computerizing student records. We have purchased a microcomputer system called "Schoolmaster", which will provide school-level control of three main areas of student records. Those three modules are: attendance tracking, grade reporting, and scheduling.

In the attendance module, Schoolmaster provides period-by-period attendance tracking capabilities and automatically prints and addresses parent information letters.

In the grade reporting module, Schoolmaster produces detailed grade reports with teacher comments; keeps complete academic history records, including GPA and class rank.

In the scheduling module, Schoolmaster uses sophisticated scheduling techniques to maximize class balance and minimize scheduling conflicts.

Schoolmaster presents records information on the computer screen or in printed form. A variety of reports can be printed to give school officials quick and easy access to student information so as to work with an individual student or particular groups or classes within the school.

The scheduling component was used this past summer to schedule students into classes for this year. We are presently working to set up the grade reporting system and hope to be able to report the first six weeks grades using this system. The report card is in the form of a green and white grade sheet. One copy will be given to the student and a carbon copy will be kept by the school. The report will show for each class the name of the class, the teacher, the grade the student earned during the grading period, and comments from the teacher concerning student's performance in class. The comment section is optional. Teachers may give comments but are not required to do so.

After the grading component is set up, we plan to start working on the attendance records. When this part of the program is completed, attendance information will also appear on the report cards.

Since this is a new and different way of reporting grades, we hope that parents will not hesitate to call the school if they have any questions concerning their child's report card.

Computerizing student records has been a very time-consuming and costly endeavor, but we feel the results of updating our system will be most worthwhile due to the vast amount of student information that will be available to us in an extremely quick and organized manner.

We expect report cards to go out some time this week.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

The use of questions has long been used by God and his servants as a means to teach people and to impart knowledge. The Lord Jesus was asked questions on many occasions which gave good opportunities to teach God's truth. For instance, Mt. 19:16, he was asked, "Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?" In Mt. 22, he was asked concerning: paying tribute or taxes to Caesar; about the resurrection of the dead; and about the great commandment of the law. Then Jesus asked in Mt. 22:42, "What think ye of Christ? Whose son is he?" They said, "David" then he asked how David could call him Lord in Ps. 110:1 by inspiration? No one was able to answer him! Some questions were sincere, some were asked the Lord to trap him. Those questions that sought to "trap" the Lord, really only "trapped" those who asked, like those examples in Mt. 22. Sincere questions give evidence of a searching mind, that is seeking for truth; like in Act. 2:37, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" Or, when the Phillipian jailer said, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" Act. 16:31. When Jesus was 12 years old, the "scholars" at the temple were astonished at his questions and his answers that he gave.

You'll have, beginning this Saturday at 12:00 noon, the opportunity to call in your Bible questions over WRVK Radio (1460 am). Every Saturday, for 1/2 hour, we will be having a live call-in radio program, to answer your Bible questions. You don't need to give your name, just state your question to be broadcast over the air, and we will seek to give you a Bible answer to your question. Our purpose is to teach God's Word and make known his truth... We hope to build a good listening audience in the county with folks who will feel free to call in Bible questions. We hope, folks, we will be like those noble Bereans who "searched the scriptures" Ac. 17:11. Be sure to tune in this Saturday and every Saturday at 12:00 noon.

Vocational Education Student Assessment at Rockcastle County High School

Rockcastle County High School has developed and implemented a comprehensive program of Vocational Education Student Assessment. The plan basically involves assessing the students, developing an ERP or Remediation Plan, and implementing the student plans through instructional endeavors.

The purposes of Vocational Assessments are:

(A) To assist the student in setting or redirecting vocational goals.
(B) To assist the student in developing potential awareness and his/her potential for vocational preparation programs.

(C) To assist vocational education in an appropriate placement for the student.
(D) To provide a data base for "School Records" Cont. from A-8

ACT+ program, which is a comprehensive assessment service designed to give 10th grade students an edge in planning and preparing for future academic and career success.

P-ACT+ scores and interpretive materials will help students identify their academic strengths and weaknesses and, on the basis of their performance and their post-secondary plans, select the courses they will take in the junior and senior years of high school. Practice with the P-ACT+, combined with good course selection decisions, will also help students perform their best when they take the ACT Assessment.

The P-ACT+ includes:
Four academic tests—Writing Skills, Mathematics, Reading, and Science Reasoning.

An interest inventory that facilitates career and educational planning.
A study skills assessment that measures students' knowledge of study skills.

An educational/occupational plans section that, when combined with the test scores and interest inventory results, provides schools with a powerful counseling tool.
A student needs profile that identifies areas in which students perceive they need assistance.

P-ACT+ will be given at RCHS on Tuesday, Oct. 25. The cost is $5. Sign-up and preparation begins this week.

For more information, call Jamie Worley or Dale Whitaker, Counselors at RCHS, 256-4411.

Attention: RCHS Juniors:

Juniors at RCHS will have the opportunity to participate in two assessment programs this fall. They are the Preliminary scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT) and the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery (ASVAB).

The PSAT is a multiple-choice test that measures verbal and mathematical reasoning abilities important to doing college work. There are 65 verbal questions and 50 math questions.

The PSAT lets students compare their ability to do college work with the ability of other college-bound students. After the test students will receive a Report of Student Answers and a test book so they can review their performance.

The PSAT gives students practice for taking college admissions test. It is also the first step in entering the scholarship programs conducted by National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC).

The PSAT will be given to Juniors at RCHS on Tuesday, Oct. 18. The cost is $5.25. Sign-up and preparation began last week.

The ASVAB, sponsored by the Department of Defense (DoD), is a vocational aptitude (ability) battery consisting of ten short tests which cover the areas of General Science, Arithmetic Reasoning, Work Knowledge, Paragraph Comprehension, Numerical Operations, Coding Speed, Auto and Shop Information, Mathematics Knowledge, Mechanical Comprehension, and Electronics Information. The results of the ten composite scores. The academic composites are Verbal, Math, and Academic ability; the occupational composites are Mechanical and Crafts, Business and Clerical, Electronics and Electrical, and Health, Social and Technology.

The test results may be used for college preparation counseling, vocational counseling and entrance into the military.

The test will be given to Juniors at RCHS on Wednesday, Nov. 9. There is no charge.

No studying or special preparation is required to take the ASVAB. Getting a good night's rest and arriving on time to take the test are the two most important steps one can take to prepare.

For more information, contact Dale Whitaker or Jamie Worley, Counselors at RCHS, 256-4411.

Under this Assurance, this organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the ground of age, race, color, sex, religion, or national origin in its policies and practices relation to treatment of beneficiaries and participants including rates, conditions, and extension of service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in any meetings of beneficiaries and participants or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization.

Identity of complainants will be kept confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of the Rules and Regulations.

HEAP reports winter plans

Kentucky will offer federal Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) benefits again this year, but there are some changes in the program to aid low-income Kentucky families with their heating bills.

There will be only two phases in the 1988-89 program, according to Commissioner Mike Robinson, whose Department for Social Insurance administers HEAP in Kentucky. HEAP helps its beneficiaries pay the cost of electricity, gas, wood, coal, bottled gas or other heating aid during the winter months.

Applications from eligible households with an elderly or disabled family member will be accepted statewide beginning Oct. 17. A total of $5.9 million has been set aside for that portion of the program.

On Jan. 9, the application process will begin for all eligible families with a heating crisis with $9.7 million in assistance available.

"Last year, late congressional action reduced the appropriation, forcing us to cancel the application period for the general population of eligible clients," Robinson said. "This year, Kentucky's share of HEAP funds is simply isn't enough to justify having three segments, as we had done prior to 1987."

"The money available for a general population segment wouldn't last more than few minutes in several places. It wouldn't be fair to have people stand in line just to be told no more money was available."

Robinson added that most Kentucky families eligible for the general application period would normally qualify for the crisis HEAP period as well.

A major change affecting this year's winter heating program is a large infusion of state funding to supplement reduced federal support.

Kentucky will have $15.6 million available for heating assistance this winter, compared to $15.5 million, which aided 135,556 families last year.

However, the 1988-89 HEAP budget includes $3.2 million from the state's Low-Income Energy Assistance Trust Fund, which was established from several nationwide crude oil and petroleum overcharge settlements.

"What this means is that we have a good chance of being able to help a comparable number of Kentuckians this year," Robinson said. "Without this trust fund money, the program would almost certainly have benefited fewer families."

As has been the case in past years, applications for the elderly and disabled segment will be handled beginning Oct. 17 at offices of the Department for Social Insurance or at specific locations announced in each county.

The "crisis" phase opens Jan. 9 to any eligible household without heat, facing the loss of heat within five days, facing disconnection by a utility or needing heating system repairs. Applications for the crisis portion of the program will be taken by the state's 23 community action agencies.

Kentuckians wishing to apply for HEAP aid must bring with them the household's most recent heating bill, social security numbers of everyone in the house and proof of family income (check stubs, benefit checks, direct deposit stubs, award letters, etc.).

Anyone who is unable to apply in person because of illness or disability may designate in writing someone else to make the application. In some special cases, other arrangements may be made through the Social Insurance office.

I'm not really sure how it happened but it seems that I have been thrust into the middle of controversy at Mt. Vernon Plastics.

Rumors are rampant that some things, or most, for that matter that have appeared in the two stories I recently wrote about Plastics are erroneous.

It seems that some folks at Plastics would like others to believe that these stories are only fragments of my imagination. Well, while the stories may contain some incorrect statements, you can rest assured that none of them were made up by this reporter. I never has been or never will be the position of this newspaper to print anything other than what we believe to be the truth. Newspapers get sued for printing lies, and so they should. We don't print them intentionally and when we do, and I am sure that it happens, it is usually incorrect statements made to us by others.

I really have no idea about what is going on at Mt. Vernon Plastics. Only those directly involved really

Tuning in on KET

The Great Political Upset of 1948

Nov. 2, is the 40th anniversary of the greatest upset in recent American political history—Harry Truman's win over Thomas Dewey. The Great Upset of '48 capturing the drama and suspense airs Wednesday, Nov. 2 at 9 p.m. on KET.

Almost nobody believed Truman could win in 1948. The deeply divided Democratic Party seemed to be falling apart after Henry Wallace broke away to form a new Progressive Party and many Southerners backed the states' rights candidate of Strom Thurmond. By contrast the Republican Party was well organized and confident; Dewey and Earl Warren constituted a dream ticket.

However, Truman logged more than 21,000 miles on the Ferdinand Magellan, his campaign train, in what was to be the last campaign by air. He made 356 speeches from the rear platform in towns across the country in this whistle-stop campaign. Although crowds gathered at every stop—many of them urging him to "give 'em hell, Harry"—only a few members of the accompanying press corps seemed to recognize what was happening.

Some pollsters were so sure of a GOP victory that they stopped polling. Newspapers and magazines were printing stories about the coming changes in Washington. Truman, meanwhile, was building a solid coalition of support among blacks, labor unions, and farmers.

On the evening of Nov. 2, 1948, radio announcers began to report Truman winning urban and rural precincts and his tally slowly grew. Many voters sat by the radios throughout the night until it became apparent in the early morning that the Truman-Barkeley ticket had been elected. Extensive television coverage and computer-projected results were still in the future.

Paul Duke, long-time moderator of Washington Week In Review, narrates the dramatic story of what happened that evening and makes extensive use of newsreels and early television film, interspersed with interviews of campaign workers and political reporters as well as others who were involved. Among those interviewed are Margaret Truman, Thomas E. Dewey Jr., Clark Clifford, James Reston, and Eric Sevareid.

Dear Children

We are home in Heaven, dear ones Oh so happy and so bright; There is Perfect joy and beauty in this everlasting light.

All our pain and grief is over. Every restless tossing passed. We are now at peace forever. Safely home in Heaven at last.

And He come himself to meet us. At that beautiful gate, with arm to lean on, could we have one doubt or fear.

You all must not grieve for we love you all dearly still. Try to look beyond earth's shadows and pray and trust your father.

They still work, waiting for you all. You must not idly stand. Give your heart to Jesus and work and not idly stand. And, when life is all completed, He will gently carry you all home and in that rapture what a joy it will be to see you all coming home. Oh what a happy day it will be when our mother and dad calling supper time, it's time to come home.

We miss you, Momma and Dad

Staying Home Alone

By Cheryl Witt
County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

Fire is a major cause of death in the home among school-age children. Each year nearly 400 children between five and fourteen years old die in home fires. Reducing the injuries just begins due to fire requires teaching children both how to prevent fires and how to behave correctly if a fire does occur.

Should Children Try To Put Out Fires: Three ingredients - air (oxygen), fuel and heat - are present for a fire to start. Almost anything will burn if the combination of these three elements is right. However, if you remove any one of them, the fire will die. It is usually difficult to keep the fuel from a home fire. Heat is usually removed by putting water on the fire. However, water cannot be used on all fires. Using water on electrical fires may result in electrocution. Pouring water on burning liquids, such as grease, often causes the flames to spread. These types of fires must be extinguished by removing the oxygen. Oxygen can be removed in any ways: putting a cover on a burning pan, sprinkling baking soda (not baking powder) on a small fire, rolling on the ground to smother flames, using some types of fire extinguishers.

Putting out fires, even small ones, requires extensive knowledge. Choosing the wrong technique can actually make a situation worse and may lead to serious injury. For this reason, it is not recommended that children, especially children alone, attempt to put out a fire, even a small one. In the event of a fire, the child's only responsibility should be to get everyone out to the house and call the fire department from a neighbor's house.

When And How Fires Begin: The majority of fires begin in the living room, in the family room (34%), in the basement (26%) and bedroom (12%) are two other likely places for fires to start (Peterson & Heagle, 1984). Fires occur at all hours of the day.

Statistics show that most fatal fires begin at night, and in many cases, the victims never wake up before they are overcome by poisonous gases and smoke. Unfortunately, the human nose is not an effective smoke detector when people are asleep. After a few breaths of smoke, the nose adapts to the substance, and the person "smells" nothing unusual. Smoke, not flames, is the leading cause of death from fire.

A fire progresses in three phases. During the incipient phase there is little heat, however, deadly carbon monoxide gases are being produced at a rapid rate along with some visible smoke. The fire then moves into the free-burning phase where oxygen-rich air is drawn into the flames, and the heat begins to radiate. Toxic gases spread out across the ceiling and begin to move room downward. Ceiling temperature during this phase can reach 1300 - 1500 degrees Fahrenheit. As the fire progresses through the latter stages of phase two, most of the oxygen is consumed and the fire is reduced to the smoldering phase. Burning is reduced to glowing embers, and the area is completely filled with dense smoke and gases. The temperature throughout the areas will be above 1000 degrees Fahrenheit, and any introduction of oxygen into the area will cause an explosion.

The incipient phase of a fire can last from several minutes to many hours. A smoke alarm can detect a fire during these early phases when there is usually time to escape. However, without an alarm most people don't realize there is a fire until it reaches the free-burning phase. Once flames break out, a person has an average of only four minutes to escape before being overcome by toxic gases and superheated air. The extremely rapid spread of fire once flames break out also makes it very risky for individuals, especially children home alone, to attempt to put out a fire. The few minutes spent in this attempt may allow the fire to progress to the point where escape is impossible. This is a second reason why children should never attempt to put out a home fire.

Escape A Fire: In order to successfully escape a fire, it is essential that children know at least two exits from every room in the house, how to unlock all doors and windows, and remove screens. Furthermore, these skills must actually be practiced, not merely talked about. Research has indicated that actually participating in fire drills reduces the chances of panic and injury, and that trained and informed people have a much better chance of surviving a fire. Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
I spent Olympic Week in Lexington with my sister and husband from Sun City Center. We were 'boy-sitting' with Alex Young, while his parents, Byron and Judy Young attended a doctor's convention.
We were so happy that Byron still wants his wife to accompany him after 26 years, that we boy-sit, willingly.

Every night and part of the days, we watched the Olympics. We hated to miss anything. We loved every 'acc', although I never liked boxing, I enjoyed it. Youngs being in Korea gave us an incentive to watch it also. We'd heard so much about Korea and its people from the Youngs.
They spent 13 months there as he, Byron Young, was inducted into the U.S. Army after his 5 years of specializing in neuro-surgery. They loved the Koreans.
Their son, John, called from Princeton University, N.J. to check 'acts' of Olympics with his 15 year old brother, Alex.

So you see, some others did look at it. I write a chapter on 'My Memoirs' some mornings. Last one was 'Brothead's Swimming Holes'. One before that 'Music in Brothead and My Life'.

I traveled to Berea Tuesday to play bridge with Inez McKinney's club. And I won! I love to play! Can't get a foursome here.
I rode with Inez to Louisville last week before the Olympics to visit former Brotheadian. We spent the night.

You see, my primer, (1st school book) had "Come" on first page; "Go" on the next page, "Come and Go" on the third page, so I've liked "Come and Go" All my life, but I sat and watched the Olympics.
Sincerely,
Elizabeth Mullins

Dear Editor,
I would like to publicly thank each one that donated to the United Way Campaign for Rockcastle County. A special thanks to Citizens Bank, Cox Funeral Home, Dowell and Martin Funeral Home, Foodtown, Mt. Vernon Dairy Freeze, Rockcastle Manufacturing, S & T Hardware, Save a Lot, Saylor Pharmacy, Sparks Flower Shop, Wayne Stewart, and Thrifty Lumber Company.
Since last year we have been able to direct our donations back to Rock-castle County. Before this time people were hesitant to give as the citizens of Rockcastle County did not receive any benefit from the donations. If you did not designate a non-profit organization, then I have designated an agency for you to insure the funds are returned to this county.

Your support has made the United Way Campaign a success.

Dear Editor,
First let me say I am no spring chicken. I have heard quite a few debates. I have participated in one. The Senators Bentsen and Quayle had some trouble, up-holding the protocol, that normally goes along with the VPs status. I may be mistaken, but I got the impression that it was ludicrous.
Two senators, representing the greatest country in the world, denigrate each other, resembling two dogs fighting over a bone. Of course Senator Bentsen has more experience than Sen. Quayle. Bentsen has twenty-six years experience over Quayle, having lived that long. It's possible that Quayle can have accomplished the same thing in his time. Some people accomplish faster than others. To mention a down-fall against Sen. Quayle because of that is purely infantile.

Senator Quayle will be persecuted a lot more, for the very reason that Martin Luther King, John Kennedy, and Bob Kennedy was murdered. Because of his eloquence, youth, and fine appearance, there will be the same poisonous jealousy.
May God go with the Senator Quayle and keep him safe and alive.
Yours
Margaret Dyehouse

Dear Editor,
For many reasons your vote on Nov. 8 will be one of the most important of your life.

Amendment #2 on the ballot, the homestead deed amendment, is probably less understood than the lottery amendment, but equally deserving of your approval. If passed, it will allow landowners some protection when minerals are extracted from their property.

Land speculators and representatives of large mineral holding corporations traveled through the Appalachians coal fields buying mineral rights. In many cases, they bought only the mineral rights with the landowner retaining ownership of the surface land.
It is estimated that 80-90 percent of the mineral rights in Eastern Kentucky are controlled by large energy and land holding companies that bought the minerals around the turn of the century or have since acquired them from the original purchasers.

Some coal companies interpret broadform deeds to allow them to extract the minerals anyway that is convenient. But opponents of the broadform deeds agree that the deeds were signed before the surface mining technology to remove coal was initiated; therefore, the deeds should apply only to deep mining.

Kentuckians everywhere are paying for these displaced people who have been turned away from their land often without any visible means of support. We must put a stop to out-of-state mineral owners dictating a way of life in our Commonwealth where they don't even reside or pay taxes.

Until this amendment changes the Constitution to protect all our citizens, none of us in Northern Kentucky, Central Kentucky or West Kentucky can feel totally free of circumstances that occurred 100 years ago in East Kentucky. Kentucky is the only state in the union that still recognizes the validity of broadform deeds.

Vote "Yes" for Amendment 2.
Sincerely,
Rep. Gregory D. Stumbo

Residents must not mind however, because their is never much said about the problem in the county.

Baby Panda documents each step in Chu-Lin's development, placing special emphasis on the bonding between Chu-Lin and his mother.

At the age of five and one-half months, Chu-Lin made his first public appearance. The Madrid Zoo hosted a panda "coming-out" party. Among the guests were Spain's King Carlos and hundreds of children who welcomed Chu-Lin with a song. The excitement of the event is captured on Baby Panda.

This special provides a historical overview of pandas, including their origins in the bamboo forests of eastern China. Baby Panda also highlights the extraordinary relationship between the panda and bamboo, which accounts for up to 99% of its diet.

Because the panda population is somewhere between 700 and 1,000, Baby Panda stresses the importance of increasing the population of this endearing and endangered species.

Mrs. Morgan's class first to start pottery projects

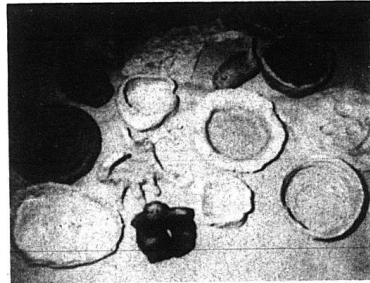

Mrs. Patsy Morgan's sixth grade class was the first class to receive clay for pottery at BES. The clay was prepared by Stephen Trebolo and Adam who dug it on the farm of Charles Brooks near Copper Creek. The sixth graders enjoyed making pots and clay animals.

Potter's clay is relatively expensive when shipped here, so Trebolo decided to try to utilize local material. Consulting the map of the Brodhead Quadrangle of the Kentucky Geological Survey, Trebolo saw a rock formation which he hoped would provide the clay. The rock is called the Nancy Member of the Borden Formation. This rock is a nearly siliceous clay shale and is probably suitable for brick and tile manufacture. It is bluish-gray or olive-gray in color. There are huge deposits of this shale in Rockcastle County, the formation being approximately one hundred feet thick.

The shale was air dried, then ground in a tractor-powered feed grinder. The pulverized shale was then sifted to remove large particles. After mixing with water, the clay was kneaded to make it uniform.

Trebolo says he doesn't know if the clay will make high quality pottery after it is fired in a kiln. A potter in Berea told him it has possibilities, suggesting that the students fire their pots the way the Indians did. In this process, a pit was dug then lined with combustible material like hay, straw, leaves, or pine needles. Then the pots were placed on this material and covered with more organic matter including dried cow manure. The whole mass was set afire and the pottery was processed by the heat into much needed bowls, pots, plates, etc. The heat changes the clay into a form that is not damaged by water. Trebolo hopes to try pit firing some pottery.

The Brodhead PTA has furnished an art supply room where teachers may obtain needed art supplies such as paper and paint. Clay is being added this year and teachers are free to use it in their art curriculum.

Molasses Festival at Renfro

Richard Mullins tests the molasses at the Renfro Festival. Renfro officials said the crowd was the largest since the festival started eight years ago.

Thousands of persons converged on Renfro Valley "Lasses Makin' - Country Music Festival."

It was by far the largest crowd to attend the festival. At times the crowd virtually overwhelmed the area. Parking was at a premium.

In addition to the favorite molasses making, there were six barn dances with standing room only, and one gospel sing. There was a record number of booths featuring arts and crafts.

A wagon train came from various areas of Central Kentucky for a three-day stay.

The overflow from the festival affected motels that were filled as far away as London and Berea. One group stayed in Lexington, another in Corbin. An arts and craft fair in Berea only added to the scarcity of motel rooms.

Mrs. Ann Henderson, manager of the Renfro complex, said she was very pleased with the turn-out. "The festival seems to get bigger each year," she said. "The weather has been good to us and that has helped."

"Only one Renfro sponsored festival has been plagued with rainy weather and that was about eight years ago."

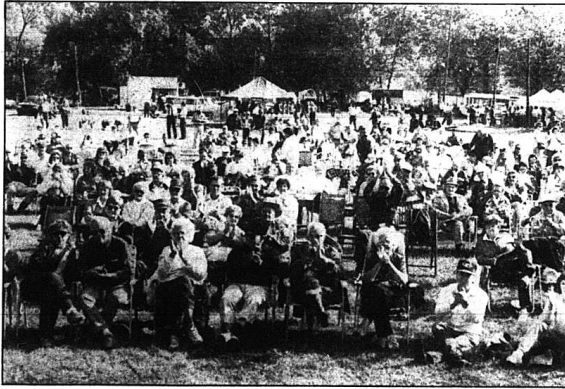

Booth owners at the festival reported a brisk business during the three days of the festival. There was an abundance of arts and crafts for the thousands of visitors who visited the festival.

Ray McClure

One of the booths at the Lasses Festival featured the John Lair Bugle Club, a group of old-timers who subscribe to the Bugle, a newspaper about things happening to Valley folks, and who remember John Lair. At left, part of the early morning crowd that got choice places in front of the outdoor stage at Renfro's "Lasses Festival" Friday through Sunday. There was live music during the three days.

Lasses makin' time at Livingston

Jimmy Taylor is shown removing the cane stalks after it has been run through the press. Taylor, and his wife, Ina, grow the cane that Livingston Economic Alternatives in Progress (LEAP) will market and sell. The Taylors grow approximately three-fourths acre of cane.

Jeff McNutt, marketing director for LEAP, is feeding the cane stalks into the press where the juice is collected for cooking down into sorghum. Assisting McNutt is Ben Taylor, son of Jimmy and Ina Taylor.

Earl Baker of Livingston keeps close watch over the molasses. Baker has been making molasses for many years. "I learned it from my family, we always made them when I was growing up," said Baker. LEAP intends to market the sorghum, along with other products they make, in craft shops, restaurants, novelty shops and other such establishments in the area.

Senior citizens compete and win in senior games

By: Shirley Cummins, Senior Citizens Director

The J.M. Felner 4-H Camp at London was the stomping ground for 60 participants in the Cumberland Valley Senior Games on September 16. Seniors from Bell, Harlan, Jackson, Laurel, Knox and Rockcastle counties gathered to compete in the games of checkers, horseshoes, washers, spincasting, shuffleboard and softball throw. Each of the participants were enrolled to play in their own age group and for individual points.

Rockcastle County senior citizens met at the Livingston Center for breakfast at 8 a.m. before leaving for London. Each one had "winning" on their mind and bringing home the awards meant so much to each of us. At 9 a.m., Rockcastle Co. registered twenty-three persons for the competition. Rain was threatening, but the morning remained crisp and cool, as John Bruner, director of Cumberland Valley ADD conducted the opening ceremonies. A balloon launch was prepared by Ted Gibso and staff at D&W Cafeteria.

Soon the games were underway, horseshoes clanging against the stakes and rods and reels whizzing as the participants demonstrated their skills. In the men's spincasting event for ages seventy five and up, Ed Jones of Brodhead, 92, won the bronze medal and Tommy Howard of Mt. Vernon won the silver. Rose Wilson took the gold and Jean Jones the silver in the women's event. Both ladies are from the Brodhead Center. For the men's competition, 60-67, Albert Lunsford, Brodhead, won the Gold Medal, Perry Bowman won the silver and Harold Jones the bronze.

Trophies were presented to winners of the game of washers. Perry Bowman of Mt. Vernon won first place and Rosie Mink of Livingston won second in the 60-67 age group. Walter Carpenter of Livingston won first in the 68-74 category and for 75 and up, Hazel Stepp took first place and Rebecca Jones took second place.

Checkers, a game always played at senior centers, and played by John Northern at the Brodhead center ever since it has existed. He has challenged many persons over the years, and awaited the opportunity to compete for an award. The chance finally arrived and John Northern was rewarded for his efforts with the first place victory. The second place award also went to a Rockcastle Countian - Frances Mullins of Livingston. These were the only awards presented for checkers with Rockcastle defeating Knox County.

In the men's division of softball throw, Harold C. Jones won the gold medal and Mary Wallace won the gold in the women's division. Tommy Howard won the bronze medal in the shuffleboard game with Clara Mae Jones winning the gold for the women and Jean Jones the bronze.

The game which probably displayed the most excitement and energy for the day was the horseshoe pitching competition. Rebecca Jones took the gold medal in the event for 75 and up; Ed Jones the silver for 75 and up; in men 68-74, Tommy Howard won the gold and in the women's group 60-67, Mary Wallace won the bronze medal. Perry Jones won the gold medal for men 60-67 and Harold Jones the bronze.

The closing ceremonies were conducted by staff of Cumberland Valley ADD. Rockcastle countians conquered twenty-five of the 52 awards presented. We were well prepared for the games and look forward to next year when we plan to compete again. The enthusiasts of Rockcastle County Senior Citizens will never be forgotten. At our return to the Livingston Center, each participant was presented with a ribbon and certificate so that each would have a momento of the event.

Other participants from Rockcastle County were: Clarence Adams, Bill Brown and Irene Taylor of the Brodhead Center; Todd Mink, Richard Mullins and Charles Elliott of Livingston and Evalena Bowman, Sally Mullins and Pearl Newton of Mt. Vernon.

We would like to express our appreciation to the Bank of Mt. Vernon for sponsoring Rockcastle County in the Cumberland Valley Senior Games.

DAR News

By: Mary Walker

The Rockcastle Chapter DAR and the Berea Laurel Ridges Chapter DAR joined for a luncheon meeting on Oct. 8, in the Anna Hutchins Room of the Berea College Alumni Building. Mrs. Wilson Evans, Vice Regent of the Berea Chapter, presided with Mrs. Stephen Owens, Regent of Rockcastle Chapter, giving the invocation. Mrs. John Anderson gave the President General's message.

The program following lunch was a brief genealogical workshop. Mrs. Ernest Byington of Versailles, DAR State Chairman of Lineage Research, told of records available to those doing genealogical research. The records of lawsuits are fascinating and often give information not available in usual sources. Militia records may be found in the Virginia State Library. Some deeds can prove lineage and also military service. Settlement of estates usually mention all the children as well as the widow. Deeds may trace movement of a family or individual. Poll taxes will list men sometimes at 16 but usually at 21 years of age. Funeral home records give more information than death certificates.

The second speaker was Mrs. Philip Bonham, of Cincinnati, a great niece of Miss Janie Ransley. Mrs. Bonham, inspired by Miss Ransley's recording of Rockcastle court and cemetery records, has, with the assistance of Pat Hiatt and Debbie White, recently published a monumental volume of Rockcastle County cemetery records. Records from more than four hundred cemeteries in Rockcastle County were copied by Mrs. Bonham and members of Rockcastle County Historical Society and Rockcastle Chapter DAR. Some of her suggestions for those searching in cemeteries follow.

Do not go alone to isolated cemeteries. It is best to wait until the grass is cut before going into the country cemeteries. While recording records always give the correct directions for reaching the cemeteries. Give the date the records were taken. Remember that cemeteries were called by different names by different generations. Those recording cemetery records should take with them a base map to record the location. (These maps may be ordered from the state for $1.75. Take along a compass and wear warm clothes. Never wear perfume or hairspray as they attract bees and wasps. Take along a sack of cheap flour to dust the tombstones to bring out inscriptions. If possible look for more than one place to verify dates. Check everything. Mrs.

Bonham closed the program with a display of books of census records, marriage and family records of Rockcastle, Madison, Garrard, Pulaski and Lincoln Counties.

Both speakers interspersed their remarks with bits of humor and stories of human interest. Chapter members and guests were most appreciative of this informative and entertaining program.

Frederick the Great always insisted his coffee be made with champagne instead of water.

Fire Season Open

With the official opening of the fall forest fire season, it is now illegal in Kentucky to have a fire within 150 feet of any woodland or brush area. Officials with the Division of Forestry are particularly concerned about fires this year because of the lingering effects of the summer drought, Director Donald Hamm said.

This year the division will start its "Target Arson" program, which will pay up to $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and indictment of a woods arsonist.

Callers who want to report suspicious activity may call 1-800-277-ARSON (1-800-272-7766). Callers may remain anonymous.

Jean Jones-Brodhead, Silver medal, spincasting and bronze, shuffleboard.

Rosemary Wilson-Brodhead, Gold medal, spincasting and 2nd place, washers, 60-67.

Tommy Howard-Mt. Vernon, Silver medal, spincasting, 75 and up. Bronze medal, shuffleboard and Gold Medal, horseshoe pitching.

Hazel Slemm-Mt. Vernon, 1st place washers, 75 and up.

Clara Mae Jones - Mt. Vernon, Gold Medal, shuffleboard.

Rebecca Jones - Gold Medal - horseshoe pitching, 75 and up and 2nd place washers.

A barn belonging to Chester Isaacs on Copper Creek Road near Conway was destroyed by fire early Friday night.

Fire Chief John Cox said the barn was engulfed in flames when Mt. Vernon firemen arrived.

Lots in the fire were tobacco and a pig. A nearby garage with a car caught fire but was extinguished. Other pigs escaped.

The fire is believed to have started by a heat lamp used to warm the pigs.

Computers for CAP

The Christian Appalachian Project is moving into the age of high technology through a gift from American Telephone & Telegraph Company and a telephone industry fellowship group.

The Telephone Pioneers of America, through AT&T, has sent six truckloads of used computers, televisions and slide projectors and office furniture to the project warehouse in Floyd County.

Glen Taul, a spokesman for the project, which helps the poor of Appalachia, said the equipment would be used at Mountain Christian Academy near Martin or given to Appalachian groups.

An AT&T spokesman estimated the equipment's worth at $45,000 to $48,000.
