R.C.H.S. English Dept. gets $23,970 grant to upgrade writing skills

The Rockcastle County High School English Department will' soon receive a $23,970 expansion on it a $14,000 writing grant received last year. The grant was awarded by the State Department of Education through the Language Arts Instruc-tional Committee. According to Mrs. Iris Young, English teacher and grant writer, official notification was received Nov. 11.

official notification was received Nov. 11.

The new grant will be administered in much the same way as the previous one—with one major difference. The money from the earlier grant was restricted to grades nine and 10 and to teachers who agreed to participate in the program and were named in the grant application. With the new grant, the money is available to grades 9-12 and all teachers as well.

The money from the grant will be spent in several ways which were specified in the grant application. The majority of the money is to be spent in training teachers. According to Mrs. Young, ten three-hour training sessions will be provided by consultants from either the state's Language Arts Committee or from a local college. The money will also enable teachers to visit and observe enable teachers to visit and observe other school's writing projects and to attend professional meetings. All expenses (travel, substitutes, lodging and food) will be paid for with grant money. Two thousand five hundred money. Two thousand five hundred dollars will be set aside for student

Desk-top publishers or word processors will also be purchased for $3,000. The local school board has promised $2,000 to the school as grant.

The name of the grant will continue to be the same as last year,

"Writing Across the Disciplines." In order to apply for the grant, Mrs. Young, who is designated coordinator of the project, had to write a summary of the need for such money to be spent at RCHS. She had to plan how the money would be budgeted if the grant were received.

In a recent interview, Mrs. Young said she could have asked for one of three specific grants: $5,000 for her-self as an individual teacher; $25,000 for RCHS or $35,000 for the entire for RCHS or $55,000 for the entire school system. Mrs. Young chose the second route in order to benefit all high school students. In order to qualify for the grant, certain guide-lines have to be followed.

One of the guidelines is the use of writing assessments. Writing assessments are to be given to each student, because, in the next year or so, the KEST (Kentucky Essential Skills Test) will be replaced by the Cogni-tive Skills test, which will include the writing assessment.

The assessment will probably consist of an essay question which will be graded by a select group of teachers. The purpose of these new assessments is to improve the ability of students to put thoughts and ideas into words.

Council revamps costs

By: Ray McClure

By: Ray McClure
In another effort to raise money to run the city, the Mt. Vermon City Council voted Monday night to drasttically increase the annual cost of business privilege licenses for the first time in 24 years.
The new increase touches every business in the city, as well as persons and companies from outside the city that do business in the city. The ordinance is effective Ian. I.
In some cases, the increases on about 125 businesses more than tripled. In one case, it will be over six times as much.
The council was handed an updated ordinance by Mayor Gary R.

A heardfelt thanks to the hundreds of people in Rockeastle County who worked and voted for the Bush! Quayle team on election day. It was indeed gratifying to see the thousands of volunteers who gaves oself-tessly of their time to make the Bush victory possible here in Kentucky. The election is over now and it is time to forget our differences and work together to continue to make this the greatest country in the world in which to live. Our election process may focus on differences there are among us but when all it said and done, there is much more that we share in common than on which we differ.

So, to Democrats and Republi-

Dear Editor,
On November 11, 1988, at 10 a.m., as the cool, crisp autuinn breeze, geally unfuried our national flag, five men and one woman stood shivering in the cool frost covered grass on the Rockcastle County Courthouse lawn. We were standing at the foot of a monument dedicated to the memory of the brave young men who gave their lives in defense of our great country. I stood there as the flag was being lowered and then missed again and my eyes were fixed raised again and my eyes were fixed upon a name carved deeply, not only in that stone, but in my memory. My mind went racing back over the years. He and I as just teenagers leaving Mt. Vernon for a far away distant land. We would travel together thousands of miles and follow our country's flag, no matter where it might take us. We ate breakfast that morning long ago at the home of his grandmother. Then we were off, he was never to return again. As! stood there watching our flag waving in the gentle brezer, I did not see great financial institutions, great governments, large buildings, and interstate systems. I saw a tear roil down the faded, wrinkeld face of an old grandmother, whose heart was treaking as he said, Good-bye' to aboy she had raised from childhood, for the very last time. This is not an isolated incident, but one that has been repeated many times in our beloved Rock-castle County. The next time you happen to walk past that monument infront of our courthouse, and look at those name, I hope you won't see them as just names, but see the person behind the name. Try to remember—that behind-that name was a young man who also enjoyed life. He enjoyed playing basketball in the sym at Mt. Vernon, Livingston or Brodhead, and hearing the roar of the crowd. One who enjoyed a hamburger and coke, taking his best girl to a western movie on Saturday and his dreams did not include giving his formans and not include giving his his dreams did not include giving his life in some far distant land as a sacrifice for us I would like to conclude with a poem I wrote some years ago: THE CALL TO WAR

The call to arms goes out across the land. Our Country needs us every man. Our young men now must set the pace. By law ther'er men in this human race.

Suddenly a child's whole world has changed. A kiss a tear and a waiting plane, To take him to his training place. He's a grown up man in this human race.

His training starts at early dawn. With body and soul no longer his own.

The strain of life shows on his youthful face.

He's a grown up man in this human race.

With training over, he's on his way, To a foreign land. He'll leave today. Not knowing where or what he'll face. He's a grown up man in this human ra

The battle starts, the smoke clouds rise. The shells fall heavy on every side. He prays for Gods, great love and grace. He's a grown up man in this human race.

The battle continues throughout the night. He sees friends die, left and right. The age lines deepen in his childish face. He's a grown up man in this human race.

With the battle over, the fighting through. Those surviving were but a few.

A small white cross now marks his resting place.

He'll soon be forgotten by this human race.

Microwave Your Turkey

You can cook a turkey in a micro-wave oven in just about half the time required for conventional cooking and can keep your kitchen from heat-ing up at the same time. The hollow center rounded shape of a turkey makes it a good choice of for microwave cookery. Microwaving it also means you can cook the turkey in about half the time of traditional reasting.

also means you can cook the turkey in about half the time of traditional roasting.

The ideal weight for a turkey that is to be microwaved is about 10 pounds, although this varies with the size of your oven. Avoid microwaving birds larger than 12 pounds, though the value of the turkey should fit into the microwave oven and leave a minimum. 3 min space between it and each side wall

Quail Homemakers

The Quail Homemakers held their October meeting on Oct. 24 at Christine Taylor's. Everyone was welcomed by our camouflaged host-esses when they arrived. We tried to enter as usual, but one look at each other use all title other was all it took to cause the room to fill with laughter.

We had a clown, a chef, an old man, Elvira, a Mexican, white rabbit, 2 beath of the control of the control of the yad a lady from Japan, a lady from Ha-waii, 2 lovely ladies, 4 camouflaged men and one came dressed as herself. In all, we had 19 members present and 5 guests.

Roll call was answered by telling something we never find time to get done. Debbie Brown won the game. The answers were words that had the word cat in them.

Mt. Vernon Mayor Gary R. Cromer has proclaimed the week of November 13-19 as American Education Week in conjunction with the national observance. The purpose is to acquaint the public with the work of education and with the problems of training children to be more effective citizens. The observance resulted from a meeting in 1921 of representatives of education and the American Legion, and has developed largely because of the National Education Association and the United States Office of Education. Shown with Mayor Cromer is Supt. Bige Towerty, Jr. and Virginia Hunt, president of the Rockcastle Co. Education Assn. (See story Page 22)

Like Boston, New Jersey had a "tea party" during the mounting friction between the colonies and Great Britain. At Greenwich, near Delaware Bay men in Indian costumes burned a shipload of tea from England in 1774.

A Checklist for Recognizing a Good School . . .

☐ Strong Leadership
□ Competent, Committed Teachers
☐ Guards Instruction Time
☐ Involved Parents and Public
☐ A Focus on Values and Character
☐ Fair and Consistent Discipline

There are many elementary and secondary schools throughout America where a spirit of achievement and success thrives, apparent even to casual visitors. These schools' hallways may not be new, but they are clean. Their teachers lead classrooms with vigor and easy confidence. Close study of these schools makes clear that there is nothing mysterious about their achievement.

It turns out that these schools succeed for simple and obvious reasons. They have strong principals . . . who express clear educational goals and who hold both teachers and students to high standards of achievement. They have teaching staffs of competent professionals who believe it important to shape students' character as well as intellect. They enforce discipline consistently and fairly. They have, in other words, the "hidden curriculum" of success. And, consequently, they have students who learn and grow. These are good schools, solid places conveying sound, straightforward messages about hard work and citizenship.

The Rockcastle County Board of Education is proud of the schools in our district and it is our desire to see all of them continue to grow and to improve.

As your Board of Education, we shall continue to promote quality education.

This week has been designated as a time to recognize education in our community, state and nation. We ask that all of us join in efforts to provide good schools for the children of Rockcastle County. They deserve the very best.

and he is quite determined to get it to other people and areas that want it. Hunt said that he has received some encouragement from Mt. Vernom Mayor Gary Cromer about his project, but that much, much work still has to be done before the city can get involved. The survey of residents and the feasibility study must be completed defore the city will even consider making application for a grant to install gas lines, eacording to Cromer who said that he is willing to do whatever the residents wanted. Cromer was not however as optimistic about what work would have took done in the city as Hunt. Streets would be used up an and re-built and it would be quite an extensive project, as far as a city the size of Mt. Vernonis concerned, as a city the size of Mt. But it is whatever the pople want, he said. The savings to residential users would be enemous according to Hunt who said that it takes about 11 [2 gallons of bottle gas to produce the same amount of energy that 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas does. The cost of 11 1/2 gallons of bottle gas about 99.77 or 82 cents per gallon.

However Hunt is quite realistic about the entire project. "Folks have made fun of what I am doing. They have made fun of me, but it doesn't matter." he said. "The gas is here. bits its county grow, espe-I want to do what I can to see that the gas helps this county grow, espe

Hunt has drilled four wells and hit gas in all four of them. He explained that he doesn't drill in places where there is not a good chance that there is gas, which is evident by the four for four string he has.

there is not a good chance that there is gas, which is evident by the four for four string he has.

It is not a shot in the dark by any means when Hunt drills for gas. He has studied the lands of this county for over 40 years and made hundreds of trips to Frankfort to study the maps of natural gas lands.

Hunt's most productive well is probably the first one he brought in.

On his sister Nancy's property just off the old Brodhead-Mount Vernor road, Hunt has a commercial natural gas well that has been tested. The B.T.U. is high and, according to Hunt, it has the capacity to provide 300,000 cubic feet a day is far more than enough to supply the entire city of Mt. Vernon as well as the Industrial Park.

But he says it is quite evident of what he is trying to do. He is trying to do. He is trying to help Rockeastle County.

Hunt has been appeached by several gas companies who want to buy his wells. Hunt could be a rich man in a few months, but he is afraid that the companies will sit on the gas and use it for their reserves and not develop it for Rockeastle County.

It is evident now that there is natural gas in Rockeastle County, a rer commodity that if Hunt has anything do with it, will be developed to its full potential to help out county.

The money realized by the new privilege license will amount to about $6,500 a year.

The city is faced with a lack of money in the general fund. Only last meeting, the council voted to raise property taxes four percent, the legal limit, which will raise an estimated $13,000.

Although the privilege license passed the council, another revenue measure failed.

The council turned down 6-0 an ordinance setting a vehicle tax sticker on all vehicles registered in the city.

The council could have had an S8, S10 or S12 annual sticker. If it had been S10, the city's 1,478 whicles currently registered would have brought in S14,780 a year.

Mayor Cromer told the council it was up to them to find revenue to keep the city operating in the black. He warned, come the first of the year, the city will face a financial emergency.

Night Symphony by Karen Noe When the crimson shades of sunset Rise slowly over the hills ole are quietly sleeping ams of the world they fill. But I am fully awake and lonely As I gaze over the world so cold ow it is quiet and peaceful again

I think of love life and fulfillment And of joys so hard to find
Of people and all their sorrows
And things on their troubled minds

Some people think this world is cruel And each day is a struggle to live But they don't know the joy of life For in darkness, everything is still.

The River
by Mayzell Ries
l like your poems, John,
Especially "Skinny Dipping,"
But I lived on the banks of the Ohio River

And I did a lot of rock skipping.

I watched the barges Go up and down the river And in the winter The wind from it, give me a shiver.

There was a beach In the back of our hom And a friend and I All over it, did roam.

waded the water And lay in the sun And waved at the people on the boats Boy! We had fun.

Sometimes we fished And caught a few They weren't fit to eat They smelled, P-U.

A long time ago, When I was little Dad bundled up good He was fit as a fiddle.

The river was frozen And he got his skates And once in a while, He did figure eights.

It wasn't all fun On the Ohio River There were floods, too It made us quiver.

The river was treacherous When the floods came After the snow melted, And then it would rain.

The river would rise, And get in our home Sometimes we moved out No more did we roam.

After it went down, We had a job to do Like get rid of the brush And sometimes a log or two.

And tie a rope to a log
And pull it out in the current
So it would go down the river and not bog.

We didn't have a swing Made out of a grapevine Some of the guys stole ropes from barges Our swing was so sublime.

They tied to to a big old tree And put a knot in it
We'd climb upon that big old rope
And on the knot we'd sit.

And swing out over a gulley And around to the other side And if we made it all the way, We were full of pride.

For the young they say
I know it to be true
For a seven-year-old drowned one day

I hated to leave But I went far away Away from the floods From the river one day

But I'll never forget my childhood I enjoy reminiscing But the river, I'll not be missing.

Going to the Dentist by John Holbrook

A few days ago, I broke my tooth Then the old filling really got loose. I called the dentist, he had this to say Come on Wednesday if you can find the way.

the way. need my teeth fixed I need them

So I can eat my combread and beans.

I went to London in my daughter's

Cause I didn't think my old truck would go that far.

I was greeted by someone, when I walked in, 'Have a seat Mr. Holbrook, I soon will begin. She had me sit in what looked like a

She flattened it out and stuck my feet in the air. She sat down close and said, "Open

Then looked in my mouth from side

She used these little sharp things to

To see if my teeth were rotten or if they were sound.

She said, "It seems you been flossing quite well,"

But she still scrapped on them for quite a spell.

Sometimes I'd get poked in the gum
Then I'd wish my whole mouth was

She started this machine with a buzzing sound,
Dipped it in something and moved it

The suction hose, on my lip, was hung, If the hole had been bigger, I'd lost

When she was satisfied my teeth were clean,
She shut off that ole buzzing machine.

"Step right over there and rinse out well.

Then you can have a break for quite a spell."
White by the sink, you abide, Rinse your mouth with flouride."
My lower jaw began to sag, Then I let qui just one little gag. She led me over to another chair, Saying, "Don't you leave but wait right here."

The dentist came over in a jacket

white
When I saw the needle I knew my plight.
He told me, it's going to pinch,
It took all I had not to flinch.
He stuck me then and caused some pain, ars came to my eyes like drops of rain.

With the needle he shot all around Soon my lip seemed to drag the ground.
He sat down on a funny chair,
And just like before, stuck my feet in the air.

Where I was sitting was not a bed,
But he pert nert stood me on my head.
He drilled a while and squirted some air, surely almost came out of there. Then he was finished, he turned on hs heel, Saying, "Those two, your tooth, they'll fill."

Open your mouth and let me see, She told the other, mix about three. She filled that hole with a crunching

I wanted to hit the ground at a run.

Then I remembered that little red wagon.

Next time I go and the dentist is there,
Next time I go and the donist is there,
Lell you what I'm going to do.

I thought of this idea, I am braggin,
'I'm taking along my little red wagon.

I'll get the softest pillow I can find,
Put my lip in front and set there behind.

People will look and say, "How neat," As I go slowly down the street. There are something I always miss, So for a moment I will reminisce. Remember back when the drill was slow slow I grab the chair and never let go. ith chill bumps all over, even up with child bumps an over, even up my spine.

I was a long way from being fine.

Today's dentists have something they call a dam

That's just one more thing in your mouth to cram.

When you mouth is filled to over-

There are so many things they want to know. Most of them are really smart galore,

They seem to think there's room for sound,
Then she scrapped it all around.
When they were finished and completely done,

And if that really isn't enough, Sometimes the assistant is quite But I was slow, cause my lip was dragging,

Then I remembered that little red rough.

They stretch your mouth as big as a sack,

With their two hands and hardware

sack,
It's a wonder it ever goes back.
Just this thought I want to say,

Aren't there more big mouths around today.

You should be allowed time to howl
When they are doing a root canal.
Are there more to say, "Yes, there
'tis."

But this poem's too long as it is. You know next time your lip be drag-gin! So take along your little red wagon.

Panel looking at number of counties

A special legislative panel, study-ing the possibility of reducing the number of Kentucky counties, is planning a series of hearings and is inviting the public to take part.

The Special Commission for the Study of the Consolidation of Coun-Study of the Consolidation of Coun-ties will begin traveling around the state to obtain public comment early next year. In the meantime, the panel would like to receive written comments, suggestions and inquiries from those interested in testifying. The dates and locations of the public hearings have not been finalized.

The commission was created by the 1988 General Assembly to study the number of counties in the state. Although Kentucky is 37th in size and 23rd in population, Kentucky ranks ahead of all but two states with 120 counties

The 23-member commission is comprised of legislators, county offi-cials and citizens from all seven of cials and citizens from all seven of Kentucky's congressional districts and is co-chaired by state Sen. Delbert Murphy, D-Owensboro and Rep. Adrian Arnold, D-Mt. Sterling. Its recommendations will be pre-sented to the 1990 General Assem-

A Veteran's Day service was well attended on Nov. 11th at the Cumber-land Memorial Gardens between London and Corbin at Lily. The serviice began at 11 a.m. and was quite a lengthy one. It was for the entire community. American flags were placed on graves of veterans interred at the Gardens. The Laurel County at the Gardens. The Laurel County High School band and choral group, consisting of 115 members, enter-tained prior to the service and also participated in the service. The Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine and Coast Guard flags made the back-ground for the guest speaker, Briga-dier General Julius L. Berthold, assistant adjutant General of Kentucky. Memorial wreaths, represent-ing the Spanish American, World War I, World War II, Korean and

Thanks and praises to the Lord was the theme of the Thanksgiving lesson given by Arlene Marshall at her home on Tark Hill, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.
Besides minutes read by Elizabeth Mullins, she read a thank you letter from Mike and Brenda Disken for our group's monthly donation to use in their missionary work. Then all our members signed a note to send to them.

We made plans to send Brenda some clothes for a Christmas present.
Maybe we can save certain coupons for the Pinwell family. They were our visiting minister and his wife, son and daughter, recently.
We decided we should have a committee to plan to enterain our visiting minister. One of us will ask the church board about this.
