

Eagle Echoes

Roundstone Elementary School is off to a great start in the new year. Welcome to our new student and new parents. Congratulations to music teacher Mary Whitlock on the birth of her new daughter, Meredith Nicole Whitlock born December 14, 1992. Best wishes to mother and daughter.

Please read our articles about Mrs. Eversole's primary class and Mr. Gabbard's 5th grade class.

MRS. E'S PRIMARY CLASS

On the last school day before Christmas vacation, the primary class of Mrs. Eversole spent the entire morning giving performances of their play, "A Gingerbread Man for Christmas." They had invited their families and all their friends in the Primary, and so many people wanted to come, they had to do six performances.

If you have never heard of this play, it is because we wrote it ourselves. We had read and listened to a lot of fairy tales and had already done two small plays with only five or six people. We wanted a play that would include all our class; be about Christmas; and also be make-believe. Well, our play had a big family; an assortment of farm animals; a runaway gingerbreadman; and a Santa Claus!

We had to practice reading the parts in the play; audition for the part we wanted; vote for the ones we thought did the best characters; design scenery, costumes and props; make some of our costumes and props; make decisions as to where and when to have the play; who to invite; how to arrange the room; who would be responsible for doing what.

At the beginning of December we had brainstormed a list of things we wanted to do before Christmas vacation. Some of them were:

1. Do a play
 2. Do something special for our parents
 3. Read Christmas stories
 4. Share with our friends
 5. Have a real Christmas tree
 6. Make Gingerbread Men decorations
 7. Have fun learning
- By having our play, we were able to do all these things and more. Two days off for snow and an outbreak of chicken pox couldn't stop us! We can hardly wait to decide what we want to learn and do next.

RES

Mr. Gabbard's 5th grade class at RES visited the Rockcastle Hospital on Dec. 15. They decorated some of the rooms with handmade wreaths. The following are letters from the students to the hospital.

On Dec. 15 my class went to the Rockcastle County Hospital. We hung wreaths on patient doors, and sang Christmas carols. We also received a tour of the hospital. My favorite part of the trip was being able to sing and hang the wreaths.

Robert Alexander

Today we went to the Rockcastle Hospital. We hung wreaths on the patient doors that we made. We also toured the facilities. We saw the Lab, Emergency Room and Respiratory Center. It was a nice trip. We really enjoyed it.

Matthew Brown

Today our class went to the hospital. While we were there we hung wreaths that we made for the doors. During our visit we toured the hospital. We got to see our former principal Bill Parsons.

received the 5-shirts they had ordered. Allen Pensol took the Cubs idea and designed a coat-of-arms divided into sections with symbols representing the various dimensions of the group: One symbol is a tiger cub, another has four paw prints ranging from small to large to represent multi-age grouping. The third symbol is a pencil representing academics and last a picture of children playing. Underneath the coat-of-arms are the words Tiger Cubs. The teachers of the Cubs primary group are Mrs. Rita Shaffer, Mrs. Lillie Parsons, Mrs. Lynn Wilson, Mrs. Jennifer Adkisson, Mrs. Darlene Harris and Mrs. Tammy Harris.

Josh Bray, a member of the STATIC primary group, drew the design that was most liked by his peers. The design, a lightning bolt inside a circle, depicts the generation of charged ideas and energies possible when students and teachers are in cahoots in education. The circle represents the unity and the word STATIC is emblazoned across the bottom of the shirt. Mrs. Sharon McKinney embellished Josh's idea which created the final logo. Teachers of the STATIC primary group are Mrs. Lajoie Graves, Mrs. Margie Bishop, Mrs. Kathy Dychehouse, Mrs. Jaleta Bradshaw, Mrs. Goldie Blanton and Mrs. Doris Wright.

Teen Center Perspectives

Each year at Christmas time the Christian Appalachian project's Outreach program is buzzing with activity as they prepare baskets of food and gifts for families in the area.

On Tuesday, Dec. 15, four hundred and eleven Tiger Cubs Basketball teams were assembled in what must have been record-breaking time! In under two hours the task was completed. A combination of organization, teamwork, Christmas spirit brought together Outreach workers, the Teen center staff, Rockcastle County teenagers and parents and volunteers.

Everyone worked hard, and really enjoyed the community effort to reach-out at this special time of year. One teen exclaimed, "I got a head rush from all that work." And another said, "It feels good to know you're helping others." Thanks to all who helped, especially our teen participants; Thomas Bailey, Angie Bishop; Debbie Bishop, Ernestine Downs, Greg Downs, Jerry Bishop,

Parent Organization Meets

The Rockcastle County High School Parents Organization met Nov. 24 in the cafeteria area of the RCHS at 7 p.m. President Joyce Cummins welcomed the parents and guests to the meeting. Two main topics of concern were expressed that would hopefully be addressed: a school calendar for the parents and the band program.

Prior to entering into those discussions Mr. McKinney questioned the manner in which the school valedictorians and salutatorians were chosen. He noted that some of the past choices had not been the top students according to grade point average. Mr. Whitaker, Guidance Counselor, informed us that both are chosen from the students enrolled in pre-college curriculum. Any lies are broken by examining the A.C.T. scores of the prospective students. This led into a discussion concerning weighted programs. Mr. Whitaker committed that the Restructure Committee had looked into that but decided against it. They are currently examining the possibilities of changing the grading requirements.

Vicky Cox raised the issue of the scheduling for the baseball program. She was surprised last year to find some thirty games on the schedule. Mr. Whitaker explained that the reason that was done was because of rainouts. The school would schedule thirty games in hopes that fifteen would be able to be played due to good weather.

Joyce Cummins began a discussion about the school newspaper with the question of whether or not it could be mailed directly to the parents. It was decided to mention this to Asst. Principal Jim Cox at the Site Base meeting the following week and see what ideas he might have for it.

The last item of interest from the parents on the evening was the band program. It was generally agreed that there was a problem in a school of 800 students which was only fielding a band of twenty members. Some parents said they felt sorry for the students involved while others mentioned their embarrassment at seeing such a small band march out onto the field for half-time activities. It was generally conceded that to just complement was not the proper avenue. Some solid ideas were offered. It was decided by the organization that they would take the matter to the Site Base committee and ask if it might be possible to form a committee to study the situation and possibly even make some binding recommendations. Any findings would then be reported at the January 19 meeting.

The remainder of the meeting was turned over to guest, Dale Whitaker. Mr. Whitaker provided the parents with some "Hands on" materials aimed at helping RCHS students to receive financial help for their college education. He informed the parents that 51 percent of RCHS graduates go on to college with 8 - 12 percent entering vocational schools and another 4 - 6 percent entering the military. The balance of those graduating either find employment or help to swell unemployment. He commented that there are abundant scholarship opportunities for students but they must begin early in pursuing them. Most scholarship opportunities are made known in December of the Senior's school year. Some are early in the year. Mr. Whitaker voiced the observation that preparation ahead of time is important for those seeking scholarship assistance.

The RCHS Parents Organization has elected its officers for the year. They are: President, Joyce Cummins; vice-president, Curtis Brown; secretary, Cheryl Brown; treasurer, Claretta Hodges; publicity, Tom Kelley; programs, Dr. John Parsons; special programs, Aninia Todd and Vicky Cox. Dues have been set at $2 per person. The next meeting of the R.C.H.S. P.O. will be January 19 at the RCHS Library. All parents with students at R.C.H.S. are urged to attend. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m.

While the injury hampered Harris, it did not keep him out of the '92 campaign in which the Rockets had their best year to date. Harris underwent reconstructive knee surgery last month at the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington.

According to doctors, the procedure will correct Harris' knee and allow him to continue his career at the college level.

Presently, Harris is undecided as to which college he will attend although he has been contacted by several. Some possible choices include Cumberland, Union, Kentucky Wesleyan, Georgetown, Campbellville and Centre.

While the selections are good, most feel that many more colleges would have been interested had it not been for Harris' injury in '92.

Harris included, "I think being hurt may have distracted other schools, maybe bigger schools," Harris said.

"The injury slowed me down and took away from my cutting ability." "Some schools may have thought that was my usual self," he added.

But for those who know him and have watched him, they know that Harris has the ability as an athlete and person to become an outstanding collegiate player, at any school.

Because, for those who know him, J.D. Harris is the best and will be remembered as such.

New Generation of sweepers/floor cleaners to be marketed heavily in 1993

Consumers, whose old vacuum cleaner is ripe for replacement, may want to consider one of a new generation of sweeper/floor cleaner that not only sucks up dirt, but allows the user to deeper clean their carpets with shampoo and water.

The trade journals are reporting that manufacturers are planning a big push to market the new sweeper/cleaners in 1993.

The deep-cleaning machines include both upright and canister styles in both faucet hook-up and self-contained configurations. The self-contained units carry their own water supply on board; the hook-up units need to be connected to a water faucet.

Several companies will be marketing the new machines, which can be used as a conventional vacuum cleaner or as a deep cleaning machine for carpets. Costs for the machines will vary between $79 and $400.

Consumers with small children or pets or high soil areas may want to look at this type of appliance to make cleaning easier, more regular and extend the life of their carpeting.

Library News

Happy New Year to everyone. I suppose a lot of New Year's resolutions have been made and already broken by now. I'm sure we all have good intentions but sometimes it's hard to follow through. I hope to have more patience and understanding and be more helpful to our patrons in this new year. With help maybe I will be able to do this.

I hope to get a lot of comments and suggestions from you, our patrons, this year. This will greatly help me in making selections of materials and in carrying out the long-range plans that have been made.

Sue Hamm has been appointed as the newest member of the Rockcastle County Library Board of Trustees. She will join the other members, Galiff Craig, Carol Bryant, Don Thompson and Allen Pensol in governing the Rockcastle County Library.

We are fortunate to have Sue working with the library board. She has the experience and creative talents that are necessary in meeting the library's goals and in implementing the long-range plans. She will play an active part in the growth and expansion of the library.

An unpleasant duty of mine is to have to continually remind people about their overdue books. This is still a serious problem. Sometimes they do not understand the part of a patron and this is not always the case. A lot of times, several reminders don't work and we never get the books back.

I am encouraging everyone that has overdue books to please return them promptly or renew them. When books are not returned, this places a hardship on everyone. I want to continue to buy best-sellers and other books that are needed but when a lost book has to be replaced this means a new book cannot be purchased.

I'd like to remind those people who participated in the local art show last year, to be planning to enter some of their art work again this year. The exhibit will be in April and this may be early to think about it but time has a way of slipping up on us. I am hoping a lot of artists will participate and you might need some time to prepare for the exhibit.

I am hoping to expand the show to handicrafts as well as art work. I will have more information on this later.

Two new books that are ready for check-out are... Dreams of Gold by Lewis Orde... Set in the latter half of the nineteenth century, Dreams of Gold is the sweeping, evocative story of idealistic Nathan Solomon. Raised to be little more than a clerk in his wealthy uncle's shop on London's Ludgate Hill, Nathan is sickened by the oppression and poverty he sees at every turn. When he can bear no more of his uncle's tyranny, he flees with only a handful of gold sovereigns to his name... to the bright promise that is in America. His cousin Leonora comes with him. Filled with dreams and desires, yearning to escape her own life of drudgery, she leaves the old world behind to seek her destiny in an unknown land.

In the years that follow, the two cousins and their families face sorrow and struggle, love and loss, stirring passion and searing betrayal. Through tragedy and triumph, their strength is challenged, their courage tested and their faith renewed. Then Civil War divides their new homeland and Nathan—who long condemned slavery—is forced to decide once and for all there his true loyalty lies. In the end they must fight to protect their future, their lives... and their priceless Dreams of Gold.

Mother Love, Deadly Love the Texas Cheerleader Murder Plot by Anne McDonald Maier... Wanda Ann Holloway seemed to have it all. Married to a prosperous oil field company owner, the mother of two happy, healthy teenagers, Wanda enjoyed her comfortable life as a housewife in Channelview, Texas, a community outside Houston.

Only one thing seemed to mar Wanda's otherwise perfect life; her daughter Shanna, then thirteen, had failed to make her junior high's cheerleading squad for two consecutive years. Wanda, obsessed about Shanna's failures, suddenly becomes convinced that other girls and their mothers had conspired to keep Shanna off the squad. Most of Wanda's anger and resentment centered on Verns Heath and her daughter, Amber, who had made cheerleader.

Anne McDonald Maier, who covered the Texas Cheerleading story for People Magazine, takes you behind the scenes of this bizarre and near-unbelievable case that made national and international headlines during Wanda Holloway's trial for soliciting the capital murder of Verns and Amber Heath.

Finally, the author (who is also an attorney) provides fascinating insight into the unusual legal technicality which later caused Wanda Holloway's conviction to be reversed and her fifteen-year prison sentence set aside.

Library hours are Mon., Tues., and Fri., 12 to 5 p.m. Wed. 10 to 5. Thurs. 12 to 8. Sat. 8:30 to 4.

A good resolution for those people who do not use the library is... Visit the Rockcastle County Public Library and enjoy the many services provided for the people of this county. This is one of the few services that is free.

Tax forms now available at the library.

Ford gets leadership post

In a hotly-contested race, Mt. Vernon's Danny Ford ascended to one of the eight leadership positions in the 100-member House of Representatives Tuesday in a meeting of Republican legislators at the Capitol.

Rep. Ford defeated two other veteran legislators to assume the role of House Republican Whip. The victory means that Ford, who already sits on the influential Appropriations and Revenue Committee, will also serve on the powerful Legislative Research Commission — the administrative arm of the General Assembly.

As the Republican Whip, Rep. Ford will compel Republican lawmakers to attend caucus and committee meetings and try to round up members for important votes. The term lasts for two years.

Ford has represented the 8th legislative district — which now includes McCreary, Pulaski, Rockcastle, and Wayne Counties — since 1981. "Since Danny joined the legislative," said Rep. Tom Jensen, who will serve with Danny as Republican floor leader, "he has established the reputation as a man of honesty and integrity who knows the issues. He will be an outstanding asset to the Republican leadership team."

"I'm grateful that this fine group of Republicans has selected me for this prestigious post," said Rep. Ford. "I'm especially honored to be in such a unique position to accomplish great things for my district. I think everyone I represent will benefit from this high-profile leadership post."

Brodhead council budgets money for fire house repairs

By: George Ferrell

The Brodhead City Council voted Monday night to give $2,000 toward the completion of a new half truck inside the city limits.

The council first voted to donate $1,000 for the project, but then decided to give $2,000 after some discussion.

The money would go toward matching a $20,000 state grant for the half truck.

Cost of the project is estimated at $40,000 of which half must be paid for by the Little League.

The council pledged the donation pending receiving $7,000 back from a local project that did not use all the funding it was allocated.

In other action, the council approved the purchase of materials for repair work on the new firehouse.

The firehouse second story is about to collapse and brick work is on the building is coming apart.

Volunteer firemen and others will be doing the work.

The council also re-hired all present employees during the meeting.

Clerk Rocky Bussell, just recently hired, read the minutes from the December meeting.

In other business the council:

- heard that a water detector was needed by the local water department at a cost of about $2,400.
- voted to pay the bills.

—reviewed a bill from Doug Brock for cleaning and sweeping the streets in front of his business.

—decided to advertise for a consulting engineer.

—heard a report on police activities given by Chief Joe Bussell.

—decided to put up a 25 mile per hour speed limit sign on Chestnut Grove Road.

Road supervisor Lakes quits

By: Ray McClure

In a move that left the Rockcastle Fiscal Court stunned, County Road Supervisor Chester Lakes resigned from the department at a court meeting Tuesday.

Lakes had been supervisor since March 1991. He plans to take a position with Commonwealth Life Insurance Co.

The court replaced him with Larry Shepherd, 41, of Quail.

Lakes came to the court meeting, told County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins he had caught up on all road work, and quit his job.

"It came as a surprise," Judge Mullins said. "We couldn't have had a better supervisor. He got a lot of work done."

Jan. 8 will be his last day of the job.

Shepherd, the son of Gilbert Shepherd, commander of the VFW Post at Lake Loretto.

Shepherd will be acting supervisor for 90 days.

"I'm sure Larry will do a good job," Judge Mullins said. The court approved the selection.

Shepherd is married to the former Elizabeth Ann Mijon. They have two children, Cindy, 21, a student at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, South Carolina, and a son Larry David, 18, a student in Industrial Machine Maintenance in Somerset.

The court will advertise for bids on construction of the Cove Branch Road bridge over Roundstone Creek. The state will pay 80 percent and the county, 20 percent.

Twenty-two work bids will be advertised for the jail renovation project demanded by the State Correction Cabinet. Architect Garlan Vanhook was in Frankfort Monday to get final approval for the project, Judge Mullins said.

Burglary

Touch of Class hair design on Poplar Street, Mt. Vernon, was broken in Saturday night.

Vandalism was a soft drink machine. Taken were various hair care products valued at over $300.

City Policeman Mike Peters investigated.

course one had to be "invited" to attend additional journalism classes and Kincer just wasn't invited.

But that didn't stop him from following his desire to work in the media field. And after working just two years for a Navy newspaper, Kincer was named the Navy's Print Journalist of the Year for 1992. He is stationed at the Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek in Norfolk, Va.

Alan is the son of Will and Maxine Broadst Kincer of Livingston and grandson of Mrs. Pauline Kincer (Wickett) of Mt. Vernon and Adolinda Kincer.

Kincer received the award after entering the Navy's Chief of Information (Ch-Info) Mapt Competition. The annual contest pits military and civilian journalists against each other in a war of words and Kincer came out a winner — a big winner. Additionally, Kincer received individual awards including honorable mention in the competition's infographics category; third place in the sports articles category; second place in the feature news or sports photography category; and first place in the news articles category. He was awarded the Navy Achievement Medal for his accomplishments.

For Kincer the reality of the news "didn't sink" until days after he was telephoned by a ChInfo representative from Washington, D.C. "I knew just how difficult it would be to win any category awards let alone Print Journalist of the Year," he said. "Last year I entered and didn't place in anything. Honestly, I didn't believe the news about this year until I saw it on paper. I didn't know how my work

This log structure was the home of Revolutionary War Veteran Reuben Pew, who came to Rockcastle County in the early 1800s to work a 400 acre farm. Old log house moved to Garrard

By: George Ferrell

Tim and Judy Williams closed out 1992 with a big project.

They moved the home of her ancestor, Revolutionary War soldier that settled of Rockcastle County in 1802.

Pew, who fought in the battles of Trenton, Monmouth and Brandywine, and who was with George Washington at Valley Forge in 1777, was discharged from the armed forces in 1781 at Bardonia after having served six months with George Rogers Clark.

He then traveled to North Carolina, probably through Rockcastle County and his later homestead, and lived and built a family in the Carolinas.

The 1802, double door log house built from Jacob Myers in this county. He followed up on that purchase in 1804 when he bought more land from Myers to bring his total up to 400 acres.

It is thought that he may have built the log structure at that time, but it may have existed for some time prior to his relocating in Kentucky.

The home has three chimneys, two stories on the main section and three log sections, and a storage cellar under the main house.

The logs are oak and they were cut to fit. The chimney still has some of the original mud around the block cut limestone rocks.

"We're going to try to put it back at least as close as we can," said Mrs. Williams.

The house will be expanded upon some, according to Williams, who said "the original part will stay the same."

The cabin sits on a plot of ground four miles from Skaggs Creek, near Rock Springs, according to Williams, who said the Old Skaggs Trace was part of the Boone Trail/Trace from the Cumberland Gap to the Wilderness Road.

The logs in the structure's kitchen are black from the open fire cooking of the early days and Williams has preserved the home's original handmade wood stoves, probably from the federal style.

"Not many people in this area realize that this was the log home built by a revolutionary war veteran," she said.

Pew was drafted into the military at the age of 16 but his grave is not recorded in signing a muster role by his employer.

Pew could not read or write and did not know that his signature completed him to serve in the military.

From there he made his way until he was discharged in 1781. Pew died in 1847 but his grave is not known at the present time.

The log structure was last lived in in 1955 and has been used for storage since that time.

Tim Williams and a work crew are busy moving the house, numbering each log and leading a section at a time on a flat bed truck.

The logs will be put back in their positions on a her father's farm in Garrard County, where she teaches English in the local school system.

"It has a separate kitchen, dog trot, and a two story center section which was probably the original part," she said. "There is a extra room on the side built probably in the 1830s and 1840s."

The link to Williams came in 1952 when Pew's grand daughter Fanny Married Henry Green Sutton and bought the cabin and land where they lived until the early 1900s.

Livingston has new councilman

The Livingston Council met Monday evening and voted to replace former council member Margaret Burdette with Herschel Nicely.

The council also voted to move the meeting time from 7 p.m. on the first Monday of the month to 9 a.m. on the first Saturday of the month.

The city has hired John Kahn as water and sewer operator.

Carol Maceon and Sam Stallworth have also been hired as local police officers for the city.

Council backs off dispute

A request by a local couple for the city to exercise its nuisance ordinance pertaining to a partially demolished building was turned down by the Mt. Vernon City Council Monday night.

Jack and Bessie St. Clair told the council in a letter that the old building on south Richmond Street near U.S. 150 has been partially torn down by contractor Cecil McCracken and no more work is being done under their contract.

The St. Clairs called the property a health hazard. They own it.

They asked that McCracken be made to continue the demolition under the city's nuisance law.

City Attorney John Cline said the council it appears to be a contract dispute between St. Clair and McCracken and would have to be resolved in Circuit Court.

Cline said the city cannot enforce a private contract.

Mayor Gary R. Cromer directed Attorney Cline to answer the St. Clair's letter.

The council approved a Model Police Policy for the city, similar to one observed by most cities in the area.

Clarice Kathy voted no. Brian King passed. Lee Krome and Bob Bailey voted yes. Mayor Cromer united the result with a yes vote. Jim Mullins did not attend the meeting.

In other business a second reading

The city will not hold a primary this year.

Viewpoints

Points East By Ike Adams

Procrastination is what Lorena has been calling my attitude toward a personal dental problem that I've had for some time now. And I've kept telling her that I'm too busy to procrastinate about anything. It's just that certain things never make a very high on my priority list and there simply isn't time enough in a day to do everything that I ought to do. When those things involve getting needles poked in me and pliers and grinders and post-hole diggers and crow bars taken to my mouth, there normally isn't time enough in a year.

Since I have to let a few things slide, not going to the dentist seems to be a reasonable thing to sacrifice. Heck I wish I had time to build a five star, fancy inn, Martin house to put up beside the garden. A real compost heap would also be nice and my truck could use a paint job.

But last summer, I was demonstrating to the little league team how Johnny Bench would do it when a certain twelve year-old kid caught my molars with the full force of his back swing. After yanking about a coffee cup full of ivory chips and bone shards out of my mouth and off the surface of home plate and then looking in the mirror it seemed apparent that the kid had accomplished, in an instant, a piece of work that would have taken a dentist's office upwards of an hour. On top of that the kid's work was accompanied by a huge burst of fireworks. I recall seeing a magnificent green and purple flash when he had made impact.

The biggest problem was that he had inadvertently extracted the last two sound, natural, upper teeth in my head. At least I thought he had. But a day or two later I discovered that he'd missed about a third of one tooth and it stuck down, like a sprout on a rotting stump, just enough to brace in the "appliance" on which most of my remaining teeth are mounted. Which meant that I could continue eating until I could afford to have a new "appliance" made. Nobody has false teeth anymore because the dentists would develop complexes about charging that much money for them.

I have this theory that false teeth evolved into appliances when a dentist's wife one day walked into the kitchen and bugged on hubby and maybe rubbed her hand across his fancy and gave him that special look that makes him putty in her hands and she says to him,

"Oh Pumpkin, look around you. Don't you think it's time we bought new appliances."

And Pumpkin says, "Why yes, these are a bit drab. How much will new ones cost?"

And she says, "I found the most darling refrigerator today for $1,600 dollars."

Next day a patient in bad need of a new set of false teeth in and starts querying the Doc about prices and she Doc says "Oh, I don't make false teeth anymore. I'm now in the appliance business and I'd like to put one in your mouth. They're ever so much more efficient than false teeth."

And the patient says, "I don't care what you call 'em Doc, as long as it looks like teeth and I can eat corn on the cob without having to slice it off with my pocket knife." So it's been appliances ever since that fateful day.

One of the things that's apt to happen in 1993 is that dentists are going to drop the term "appliance." By this summer your dentists will officially

In Kentucky, when February runs into March, there is a certain fever surrounding Kentucky basketball.

It's called tournament time. As I sit here writing my column, I am listening to Kentucky play the Georgia Bulldogs.

The UK Wildcats have a pretty tall tradition to live up to during the hoops season.

A school that has long been synonymous with basketball, the University of Kentucky is sometimes seen in one dimension -- on the hardwood.

The Cats are great and there's no question about that for the many fans who while their time away listening to or watching them play.

The University of Kentucky is also getting well known in other fields.

The UK Chandler Med-Center is competitive nationally in terms of research and developing new treatments.

Many of the academic departments have loads of scholars who are tops in their field.

As a flagship university, UK means big bucks to the state of Kentucky. Not only in terms of research dollars, but also in terms of economic input into the business community.

Of course, UK is not the only university in the state, but it is the centerpiece of an outstanding higher education system.

What most people don't know about UK could fill a book.

For one thing, in the academic fields, UK is highly competitive -- not just with other state universities, but in competitive with the best of the Ivy League and just about any higher education system in the world.

Education makes a difference to a state, a region and various municipalities across the state.

While we all watch the Cats, the university is quietly making strides in all areas.

I attended the University of Kentucky during the mid 70s into the early 80s and I was tremendously impressed with the forward looking nature of the institution.

What amazes me even more is the fact that tremendous strides have been made since that time -- in all areas -- in research, academics, facilities and just about any other area you can think of.

Now, much to the chagrin of Deeper not, dear hearts. Today I list my Mighty Meadowman Progressions for 1993. Word has it that scores of readers turned away lazily to "Heresay" last week, hoping to find a good word about someone. Alas and Alack? They looked in vain, and I apologize.

I would have relayed the prophecies if I had received them from Schlimo, harbinger of the gods. Please understand that visions of the future--of Schlimo gives them at all--usually break upon me on New Year's Day, while I'm watching bowl games, eating fried eggs sandwiches, drinking olive juice, and simultaneously giving my normals their annual trimming. So it was this year. Before I give you my heavily, religion-tinted forecast, however, some news from greater Wald is in order.

Tracy and Mel Taylor on O&E 461 are jubilant over the healthy birth of Kara Danielle, who made her debut just after Christmas at a pinch under seven pounds.

And C. S. and Carolyn McKinney report that Sherry, wife of their son, Steve, delivered Krystina Noel (7 lbs. 8 oz.) shortly before Christmas. Ta da!

Missing of James Rowe last week. I didn't know him, but my members how he kept his yard so clean and trim.

Earl Carmichael had a bad day last week. First, he backed his truck into his sister's Honda. Then he found one administrators and faculty, the higher education system has faced suaviter funding, even cutbacks.

Maybe the recession is cutting too deep?

When will it be over?

We need our state institutions funded fully so that they can continue to compete on a national basis. If we are to revolutionize industry and commerce in this state, the universities, and our flagship, must lead the way. I hope that people will see more than just Big Blue on the court and realize that our system is very dependent on the way the winds blow on higher education.

When I hear of faculty cutbacks and faculty leaving, I wince silently thinking of what an awful loss it would be to lose even one of the faculty that worked so hard to bring knowledge into the classroom.

They are truly brilliant resources, and deserve parity with their peers at other major universities.

I hope we can all cheer the Cats on (by the way), they are down a few points early in the first half and remember that it takes a university to have a halfback.

Well I better do something important like listen to the rest of the game. That's about all for this week.

Last week the little sprout that had been so dutifully anchoring my partial snuggled off somewhere between my nostril and my right eye and I'm quired that I make an urgent trip to a maxillofacial surgeon who removed it and several other fragments.

At this writing the appliance that contains most of my upper teeth is being held to the roof of my mouth with a substance that looks and smells like crazy glue mixed with peppermint flavoring. I can eat tomato soup as long as I don't chew it. I would almost kill for a good crisp cracker.

And I'm looking over a couple of big forms that I may send out to some of my friends who are dentists to see if I can get some quotes on the installation of new choppers. One more trip to the surgeon and the basic remodeling work should be finished on my mouth. Now I have to get it furnished and suddenly that's up near the top of my priority list. If I don't get back to studying soon, I'm going to have to buy some new brushes and you don't even want to hear what a decent pair of men's pants cost these days.

"Rough As A Cobb"

Nearly eighty years after the event, Wofford College, a Phi Beta Kappa campus in Spartanburg, SC, has good reason to remember baseball-giant Ty Cobb. A campus visit by the Georgia Peach in 1913 turned out to be almost as exciting and as bloody as the world war that followed a four year later.

The Spartanburg Journal of Saturday April 4, 1913, under a headline, "Ty Cobb's Bunch Play Here Today," announced "the much heralded game between Ty Cobb's famous bunch of

Lady Rockets place fourth at Mercer; McCauley named all-tournament

The Rockcastle County Lady Rockets put on a good holiday showing as they won in the first round of the Dairy Queen Holiday Classic at Mercer County last Monday night. They fell just short in the second round last Tuesday.

They defeated Burgin, 48-42 and lost to host Mercer County, 49-46.

The Lady Rockets, who are now 3-7 on the year, played North Laurel Wednesday afternoon in the consolation game of the tourney. The Lady Rockets fell short in the game, 51-38, to settle for fourth place in the tourney.

Cindy McCauley and Becky Osborne led the Lady Rockets in the Burgin victory with a combined point total of 26 points. McCauley had 14 and Osborne got 12.

"We really played good," said head coach Christy Beaver earlier this week. "We had a very sound game."

While Burgin played head-to-head in the first quarter to take a two-point lead, 9-7, the Lady Rockets countered in the second quarter to outscore them 13-7 and take a 20-16 lead into the half.

The Lady Rockets combined in the second half with a well-executed offense to post 29 points, 14 on each quarter.

Other scorers for the Lady Rockets were: Beth Anyx, 4; Danaea Ford, 5; Christy Coleman, 5; Melinda Smith, 6 and Melinda Akorn, 2.

The Lady Rockets were not as fortunate in the second round although they bounced out to an early 11-2 lead over Mercer County.

In fact, behind McCauley's game high of 19 points, the Lady Rockets carried a 21-15 lead into the half.

But it was all uphill after that. Mercer County, who boast an impressive mark of 7-4, limited the Lady Rockets to only six points in the third quarter which allowed them to take the lead for the first time during the game.

"We failed to block out throughout the third quarter," said Beaver. "I believe that was the key to us losing the ballgame," she added.

The 22 turnovers committed by the Lady Rockets made Mercer's job easier as they recorded 34 points in the second half. The Lady Rockets managed only 23 points.

Others scorers for the Lady Rockets were: Beth Anyx, 8; Danaea Ford, 2; Christy Coleman, 8; Becky Osborne, 2 and Melinda Smith, 8.

The Lady Rockets never led in their third game of the tourney. North Laurel managed only a two-point lead in the first quarter but was able to stretch it to six by the half, 26-20.

North Laurel had their biggest rally in the third quarter when they posted 18 points to bounce out to a 44-29 lead.

The only highlight for the Lady

Rockets move record to 4-6 with win and loss

The Rockcastle County Rockets moved their season record to 4-6 with a win over the holidays and a loss this week. They edged out Western Hills, 54-53, December 22 and fell just short to host Madison Southern, 67-61, Tuesday.

The Rockets didn't hit the boards against Southern according to head coach Clayton Cobb. The result was Southern turning a three-point deficit at the half into a three-point lead in the third quarter.

Another factor weighing heavily was just how physical the game was allowed to be by the officials. Wis, physical attributes not in their favor, the Rockets reached the charity stripe only four times during the game. Surprisingly, all four were from technical fouls called against Southern.

Behind Mickey McCann's game high of 27 points, the Rockets pulled back from a six-point deficit in the first quarter to take a 38-35 lead by intermission.

However, Southern managed to turn the tables in the third quarter to take a 49-46 lead by limiting Corey Craig to just 12 points, with only two of those coming in the second half.

Other scorers for the Rockets were: J.D. Bassett, 8; Michael Shaf for 4 and Brian Carter, 6.

Against Western Hills the Rockets trailed the first three periods before making a surge in the final period to win by one point.

The Rockets nailed six of nine free throws in the fourth quarter to carry the victory.

Scoring in the game were: J.D. Bassett, 8; Corey Craig, 19; Mickey McCann, 15; Michael Shaffer, 4; Mike Albright, 4; Brian Carter, 2 and Eddie Todd, 2.

In junior varsity action, the Rockets were handily defeated by both Western Hills and North Laurel to fall to 0-7 on the year.

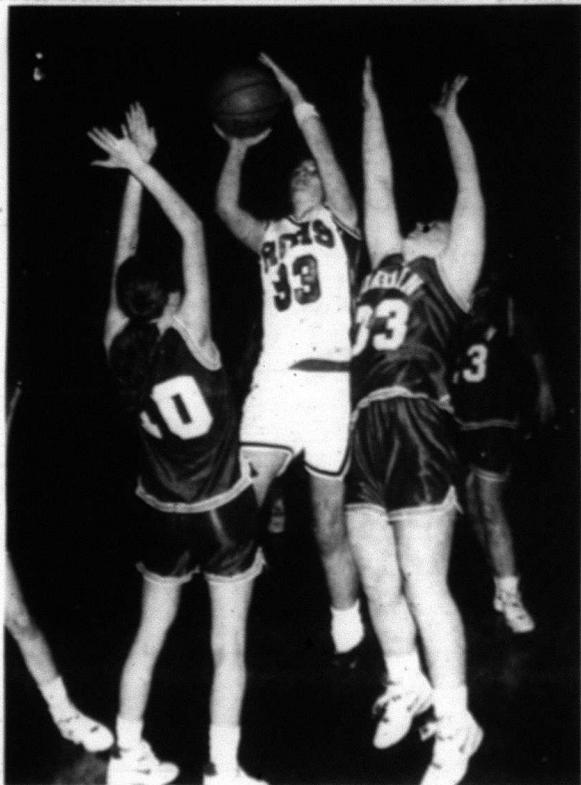

Western Hills defeated the Rockets, 77-33, while North Laurel took a 65-30 win.

Scoring for the Rockets against Western Hills were: Corey Scott, 6; Eddie Todd, 3; Scotter Cotton, 3; Willie Morris, 4; Craig Severance, 4; Eric McGuire, 6 and James Laville, 7.

Scoring against North Laurel were: Ken Hopkins, 13; Corey Scott, 2; Scotter Cotton, 4; James Laville, 5; John Hammond, 1; Chaf S. verance, 1 and Anthony Monk, 4.

In freshmen action, the Rockets suffered only their second loss of the year to North Laurel Monday night, 71-22.

Scoring for the freshmen were: Scotter Cotton, 8; James Laville, 2; James Singleton, 3; James Medley, 2; Chad Severance, 4; and Anthony Monk, 1.

Cindy McCauley goes up strong for two of her 27 points against Corbin Monday night at RCHS. McCauley was also selected to the all-tourney team last week at Mercer County.

Log House moved

Siding covered the logs for over a 100 years, until it was taken off. "It was once the siding was taken off—that was the only time people realized it was that old," she said. Mrs. Williams says the old house has a lot of memories and that descendants of those who have lived there visit the home from time to time.

Kincer gets award

would fare against the competition, but I did know what photos and stories I liked. So I just sent them in and hoped for the best."

Kincer spent his elementary school years at Livingston and graduated from Laurel County Senior High in 1984. He left the small town life he had known growing up in Rockcastle and Laurel counties to join the Navy and see the world that same year. Since he has completed two Western Pacific deployments and one Mediterranean deployment.

So why wouldn't he think his work could do well in such a competition? For one thing, he's not a designated (school-trained) Navy journalist.

Instead, his rank is that of operations specialist and he was awarded with a designation as an enlisted surface warfare specialist. As an OS, he operated radar, navigation, and communications equipment during two sea assignments in the ship's combat information center. Operations specialists also track surface ships and missiles and identify them as either friendly or hostile.

After five years of plotting and navigating at sea, Kincer became eligible for shore duty. His orders to Little Creek offered a flexible choice of duty on base because of limited traditional shore options for operations specialists. With that card, Kincer requested to work in the base public affairs office where he could resume pursuing journalism from several years ago. There, he learned to write for the base newspaper, The Gaizer, where he also takes photographs, creates computer graphics, and lays out pages. He is also a self-taught personal computer (PC) enthusiast.

Prize for becoming a staff member for The Gaizer, Kincer's only claim to fame in the newspaper was having a once-lost drawing of his high school mascot, a Cardinal, published in the Sentinel Echo. "My high school journalism teacher asked for a drawing of a cardinal to go along with the school paper's nameplate," he said. I drew, what I thought to be, a fair bird. But some time during the longest process at the Echo's office it was misplaced—I didn't think too much about it. Toward the end of the school year, Laurel Sr. High (when there was only one) won the state basketball championship. The Echo immediately dispatched a "congratulatory" advertising supplement which caught my eye."

Throughout the pages of the supplement, the bird was everywhere. Along with a modest "A.K." scribbled behind one of the legs.

"I still see it in the paper from time to time when I go home," he said laughing. "I think they've probably gone more 'mildage' out of that bird than I could have imagined!"

Since then he has taken pen to paper to create award winning hand-drawn and computer-generated graphics. His award in the "Christmas competition" in the graphics category was based on work which presented statistical information in a reader friendly picture format.

"I don't know what we're going to do with the bird to leave us," said Kimberly Darling, the base public affairs officer and editor of the paper Kincer works for. "He has become an integral part of the staff and has really put our paper on the map. The Gaizer was named the number one Navy-funded (no advertisement) newspaper for shore commands, due in large part to Alan's contributions," Darling said.

While Kincer has no immediate plans for leaving, his Virginia Beach home anytime soon, his enlistment will be up in a year. He is currently going to school at night to earn some student as he pursues a liberal arts degree.

He said he may stay in the Navy for a while and get the rating for journalism. He wants to finish his college education and eventually become a technical writer.

"I have a lot of options to choose from," Kincer said. "One of those days my wife Odessa and I plan on moving back to Kentucky—something I never thought I'd hear myself say. But I always enjoy returning home to visit. Life here is nice, well, normal. I guess everyone in the military says that about where they're raised."

Beth Amyx tries for a steal in the Lady Rockets' game against Corbin Monday night. The Lady Rockets lost, 50-46.

Church league underway with nine teams this year

Compiled by: Margaret Offutt
The Rockcastle Church League is once again underway with a total of nine churches being represented.

Action from Monday, December 28 began with Bible Baptist squaring off against Teen Challenge with Bible winning, 68-55. Teen Challenge was plagued by fouls throughout the game giving them the disadvantage. High scorers for Bible were David Bryant with 17 points and Red Bryant with 13. Teen Challenge was led by Jones with 17 and Lang with 15.

Brindle Ridge edged out Grace Baptist #2 in the second game of the night, 43-40. Grace was leading at the half but a cold shooting third quarter proved disastrous for them as they managed only two points. Brindle Ridge was led by Shannon Parkerson with 19 points and Jeff Burdette with eight. Leading Grace was Michael Price with 14 and Billy Reynolds with 11.

Wildie Christian Church, another new team in the league this year, faced Grace Baptist #1 in the third game of the night. Grace handily defeated Wildie, 75-42. Grace had four players reach double figures with Dale Robinson leading the way with 16. Scott Parrett and Jessie Makaffey threw in 13 apiece. Wildie was led by Steve Clark and Kevin Mullins with 10 each and Jeff Stevens with seven.

The last game of the night faced First Baptist #2 against Ottawa. The game was exciting for the duration as each team jockeyed for the lead. Although faced with foul trouble, Ottawa came out the winner by a squeaking score of 55-54. Leading scorers for Ottawa were Jeff Laswell and Terry Burton with 10 each and Dennis Harris with nine. Robbie Phillips had 21 and Billy Phillips had 16 to lead First Baptist.

In action this past Monday, Wildie defeated Teen Challenge, 57-40. Teen Challenge again struggled with foul trouble. Leading the way for Wildie were Steve Clark with 20 and Jeff Stevens with 11. Halford led Teen Challenge with 12 points while Jordan added 11.

Experienced Grace Baptist #1 easily won over Brindle Ridge, 63-49, in the following game. Dale Robinson again led Grace with 18 points while Danny Offutt contributed 17. Brindle Ridge was led by Chad Burdette with 15 and Ryan Loudermilk with 11.

First Baptist #2 struggled with foul trouble early on and couldn't overcome a much bigger Bible Baptist team. Red Bryant's 20 points and David Bryant's 17 led Bible. First Baptist was led by Robbie Phillips with 11 and Scottie Winstead with 10.

Excitement headlined the final game of the night as Ottawa edged out First Baptist #1, 37-36. Dennis Harris had 12 and Jeff Laswell got six to lead Ottawa. First Baptist was led by Adam Coleman's 13 points and Bucky Kirby's eight.

"Lady Rockets"

Rockets was Cindy McCauley's selection to the tournament's all-tourney team. McCauley had an impressive combined 40 points in three games.

Scoring for the Lady Rockets against North Laurel were: Beth Amyx, 7; Cindy McCauley, 7; Becky Osborne, 2; Christy Coleman, 14; Melinda Smith, 6 and Melinda Alcorn, 2.

In other action, the Lady Rockets played host to Corbin Monday night. Although a loss, they fought back from a 13 point deficit late in the game to lose only by four, 50-46.

The Lady Rockets trailed by six at the half, 22-16, and watched their deficit increase as Corbin knocked down 16 points in the third quarter to up their lead to 38-25.

But sparked by Cindy McCauley, who recorded a whopping 27 points, the Lady Rockets rallied late in the game to bring the margin within four points.

Credit one category to the Lady Rockets as they pulled down 35 rebounds during the game. However, credit Corbin for forcing the Lady Rockets to commit 22 turnovers and for limiting them to only 12 of 35 baskets from the field.

Other scorers for the Lady Rockets were: Beth Amyx, 5; Becky Osborne, 9; Christy Coleman, 3 and Melinda Smith, 2.

In junior varsity action, the Lady Rockets were also downed by Corbin, 39-26.

Scoring for the junior varsity Lady Rockets were: Melinda Smith, 11; Melinda Alcorn, 7; Jamaica Cummins, 5; Ginger Mink, 2 and Susie Carpenter, 1.

Grant deadline changes effect schools and artists

Application deadlines for school arts programs funded by the Kentucky Arts Council have been moved up for 1993.

The deadline for artists to apply for inclusion on the Kentucky Arts Council roster of artists approved to do residencies in Kentucky schools is now January 15—moved up from March 15. Due to a three year rotation schedule, a large number of artists will be moving off the roster this year making room for new applicants from all arts disciplines.

The Artist in Residency (AIR) program places professional artists in Kentucky classrooms for sessions varying in length from one week to nine months to work directly with students in areas including writing, video production, visual arts, music and photography. Artists must be approved to do residencies and schools must submit applications for AIR programs.

Schools applying to the council for AIR programs must have applications in by Feb. 15 rather than April 1. Applications for teachers to apply have been mailed to all Kentucky superintendents and instructional supervisors for the 1994 fiscal year grants.

For more information about sponsoring AIR or Arts in Education residency programs, or to request an application packet, contact John Benjamin at the arts council at 31

Fountain Place, Frankfort, KY, 40601-1942 or phone (502) 564-3757 (V/TDD).

Post-Holiday Weight Loss Tips

By Ginny Gilpatrick

Most people tend to over eat sweets and snack foods over the holidays. The result is all too often about three or four pounds of added weight. One of the same as carrying around the contents of a can of Crisco under our skin! Getting the weight off is usually much harder than putting it on, but it can be done with a little persistence.

The secret is to substitute "good food" for "bad." It is not a question of willpower, it is a question of a desire to replace some harmful habits with more rewarding ones. The process starts in the market -- or even before that with the products left on your counter at home. Then you choose those that will add to your problem, and pass them by in the supermarket substitute. Don't even push your cart down the aisle with the chips and soda. For less money you can pick out one of the most enticing boxes of low-sugar cereal, or a loaf of thin-slices whole grain bread and something good to spread on it (jam, cheese etc.) This one manoeuvre can save you about 400 calories at snack time, and probably some money as well.

Of course the best way to fill up your shopping cart -- and your stomach -- is with vegetables, whole grains and fruits; fresh is best. Did you know that the more you eat of certain vegetables, the more weight you lose? If you understand and practice good nutrition you will attain your ideal body weight. Your goal should always be good health. If you make "weight loss" your goal you will find yourself doing a lot of things that are counterproductive, like skipping meals. Any attempts at starvation will actually increase your proportion of stored fat.

Changing your eating habits is a gradual process that involves learning about how to combine and prepare foods to your liking. Better Board, led by nutritionist, Ginny Gilpatrick is a place where people meet weekly to support one another's efforts and learn about selection and preparation of foods. The new meeting time is Mondays at 8:30 a.m. An evening group will be formed if there is sufficient interest. For $10 per month, participants get a diet plan personalized to their body type and lifestyle; individual consultation on specific nutrition-related problems, and food demonstrations.

New members are welcome to just come, or they may call Ginny, at 256-3982, for more information. Better Board promotes good health. There are no prizes for weight loss and no one is asked to talk about his or her weight. Appropriate weight is a natural outcome of good eating and exercise. The reward is more energy and a sense of well-being that will not be lost as are the benefits of many novelty weight-loss programs.

All-Stars and the Wofford Invincibles, who have yet to taste defeat this season, and predicted a victory for the professionals but a lively contest nonetheless.

Reporting the next Tuesday, April 7, the same paper noted that Cobb's bunch won a close one, 9-8, but that the ninth inning proved especially "amusing." Osborne, a Wofford player, was coaching on the third base line and Ty was pitching. What passed between the man and the child could not be heard in the stands, but the Wofford boy bristled up like a Bantam rooster and wanted to fight. He was just so small and Cobb was just so big that the whole incident was really amusing. After the words, Cobb stated that he would see the player after the game. About 613 boys gathered about Cobb intent upon killing him, or doing something else equally as harmful, and the prompt arrival of officers saved Cobb's life.

IN MEMORY OF

In Memory of Ed Sowder
DAD
You're the best friend I ever had.
When times were good and times were bad.
You were always there when I needed you.
I often wondered, without you, what would I do?
Together I wanted us always to be.
I would never have you taken from me.
I couldn't bear to think we would be apart.
But now you're with God I know it in my heart.
We'll always remember you and the things you have done.
You could never say no, not to anyone.
We could count on you to lend a helping hand.
You'll be remembered by everyone, all over the land.
You were a good man, everyone would agree this is so.
I hope to see you in Heaven when it's my time to go.
Heaven must surely be, for people just like you.
Since we'll be judged by the deeds that we do.
In our mind you have left us, for a brighter place.
But you have left us memories that no one can replace.
So sadly missed, with all our love.
"James & Family"

Notice the ambiguous accuracy of the reporting: "about 613 boys" (not, "about 600"). Notice also the imaginative understatement of the boy's intent: "bent on killing him, or something else equally as harmful." (What could possibly be "equally as harmful" as being killed?)

But the story didn't end on the field. Two days later, on Thursday, April 9, the Spartanburg Herald headlines: "Tyrus Cobb and Wofford Player Fight in Hotel." Both Wofford and Cobb's All-Stars were in Greenville to play Furman University on Monday, April 6. Traveling salesmen brought to Spartanburg the suppressed news of a fist fight between Rutledge Osborne, Wofford student from Anderson, and Tyrus Cobb. One report was that Osborne publicly cursed Cobb in the dining room of the hotel; another was that Osborne drew a pistol, which was wrested from him." The Spartanburg

Journal of the same day reported that Dr. (Henry Nelson) Snyder, president of Wofford College, lectured the boys (i.e., the student body), "deplores the affair," but would not bring charges against the student or team.

The full story came out in the Spartanburg Herald of Saturday, April 11, 1913:

"Mr. Osborne yesterday admitted that he drew a pistol when attacked by Cobb, but justified it on the ground that Cobb was much larger than he and had made threats against him."

"After his trouble with Osborne in Spartanburg Saturday, Cobb, it is said, declared he would 'beat Osborne's face into jelly' when they met on Monday in Greenville. Osborne said that he borrowed the pistol to protect himself, but tried to avoid the difficulty."

"Cobb went to (Wofford) Coach McCarthy's room and asked my name. When I was told this, just before dinner, I slipped up to my room and put the pistol in my pocket. "When dinner was over, one of my teammates and I took the elevator for the room to dress. As the elevator started, Cobb and one of his men stepped in. When we arrived at the top, he grasped me by the collar and pulled me out into his room, my companion going to the first floor for the rest of the team. I was thus alone with Cobb, Coles, McMillan and another member of Cobb's team. He struck at me and I naturally drew the gun. This made him release me, but Cad Coles slipped up behind me and wrenched the gun from my hand. Cobb then jumped on me and it was an easy matter for a man of his size to beat me up considerably. I did not hunt a scrap and I hated to be mixed up in one. Cobb acted cowardly and overbearing, and I, being only a boy, acted on the impulse of the moment."

How's that for excitement? Not even appearances at Wofford by Madonna and Henry Kissinger would 'match Cobb's campus visit! Osborne later transferred to the University of South Carolina and graduated in 1916. Years later, he served as chairman of its Board of Trustees, a distinguished service recognized by the naming of the USC central administration building for him.

Cobb, passing up promising careers in boxing and gangster body-guarding, played in over 3,000 games, holds the record for runs scored, and is among the top five all-time players in RBI's, stolen bases, and hits. His hitting on a little bantam college student is not counted in his batting average.

No record exists of his ever returning to the Wofford campus. One day there was enough to wise him up fast.

Good things do come in small packages

By: Spencer Bengt

The saying "good things come in small packages" has been a bit understated in Rockcastle County for the past four years. Especially so when it has concerned one of the premier running backs in the state of Kentucky.

J.D. Harris, standing at 5'4" and weighing in at 145 lbs., has taken the phrase and turned it into fact with not just sheer athletic ability, but with personality and character.

"Everything I'd have to say about Harris would be to be good," said Rockcastle County Rockets head football coach Tom Larkey.

"He has a reputation that everybody would have to be proud of."

"He is a good student that works hard in the classroom as well as on the field. His work habits and character have helped him as a player and the team."

"You couldn't ask for a harder working individual, he always strives to do better," Larkey added.

Harris, 18, has indeed embarked upon many successful goals while at Rockcastle.

During his four year tenure, he has posted at least 10 school records while shattering all marks in the rushing category. The accomplishments have uncontestedly labeled him as, by far, the best running back to ever play in Rockcastle County.

J.D. Harris

But to Harris, the most important highlight of his career was his selection to Kentucky's 1st team all-state squad in 1991.

And that's not to mention his selection to the 2nd all-state team this past season.

But as the county's all-time leading rusher with 4,086 yards, he has done it all.

Some of his career marks include: most yards rushing in single season with 1748; most points scored in single season with 140; most touchdowns in single season with 22; most touchdowns from line of scrimmage with 20; most career points with 336; most career touchdowns with 53; most passes caught with 36; and most interceptions in one game with two. Harris also fell just seven tackles shy of the career tackles mark of 284.

Surprisingly, Harris played only one year of football before high school. He was a leading rusher as an eighth grader at Loyall Elementary in Harlan County.

It was after his eighth grade season in 1989 that parents Acree and Christine Harris decided to move to Rockcastle County.

The reason, simple.

One, Harris did not want to begin his high school career at Cawood... Two, Harris learned of the up and coming Rockcastle program from an uncle that knew Larkey...

Three, the uncle made Larkey aware of Harris... The move was made and the rest is history.

Since his first year as a Rocket in 1989, Harris has stolen the hearts of football enthusiasts in Rockcastle County.

He has been loved as a player and a person.

All the while, his contributions have been instrumental in the Rockets' back-to-back Class 2A District 2 titles in 1991 and '92.

During his tenure the Rockets have become a powerhouse not only in district play but in the area as well.

And Harris is the first to admit that the program has only gotten better.

"Everything I'd have to say about Harris would have to be good."
- Tom Larkey -

"The program was really good when I got here but it has taken a giant leap since I've been here," said Harris.

The fact that the Rockcastle program is one of the best in the state and the fact that Harris is as talented as anyone in the state has worked hand-in-hand with much credit being awarded to both.

While the Rockets have been ranked, so has Harris.

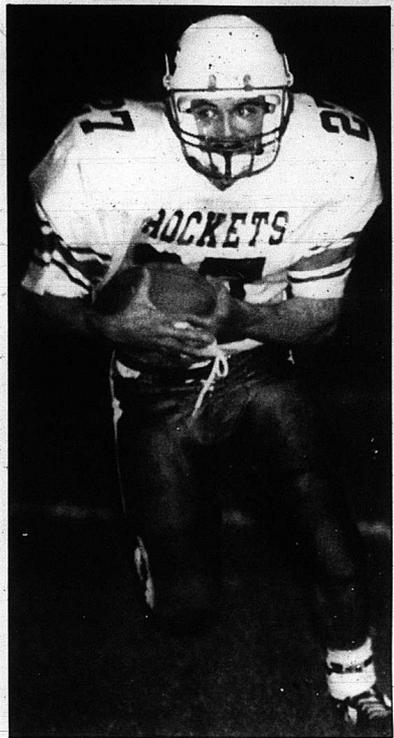

Just this past season he was a possible candidate for the state's most prestigious individual award, Kentucky's Mr. Football.

Just being in the running for such an award says it all for just how good a player he really is.

Harris, who runs the 40 yard dash in 4.55 seconds and benches 375 pounds, is that good.

But Harris, who had his best year as a junior, was plagued with an early season injury during his senior year. He suffered torn ligaments on the inside and outside of his right

Mt. Vernon Elementary School patrol

This year Mt. Vernon Elementary has organized a Safety Patrol to enhance the student's safety. Each week four students patrol the crosswalks.

These students have the responsibility to ensure the safety of all who use the crosswalks after school. These students were selected because of their desire to help others and their willingness to work.

All persons (public and students) are requested to respect the work of the Safety Patrol and observe their directions.

Bethank Hammond (the student coordinator for school safety patrol) wishes to thank all those who are helping with the program and the cooperation they have received.

General has come home to cruise the river and golf

He keeps active after 34 years with the Marines
By: K.D. Shuddy
From The Kentucky Post

Thurman Owens says a newspaper editor once suggested he write a book about his life.

"I started, but when I stopped to read what I had done, I thought it sounded pretty self-serving."

Brig. Gen. Owens, born in Livingston but a resident of Covington whenever he wasn't actively in service as an adult, had a career that was anything but self-serving.

From the day he joined the Marine Reserves in 1943 to the day he stepped down in 1977, he served his country with pride.

"I dearly loved the corps," he says, citing the reward of doing something well, the satisfaction of being part of something larger than himself, and the camaraderie with his men.

He also says he had a strong "Love of country, love of corps, love of God."

Moving quickly up the ranks, he went from reservist to second lieutenant in 1945 to first lieutenant in 1950.

In 1952, he decided to take a "regular commission," and from there he moved up. He also moved around, as many as "22 times in 34 years."

He served through World War II, the Korean Conflict, and two tours of Vietnam.

"I even spent three years on the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

He was appointed general and had an office at the Marines' general headquarters for two years.

"I was on the West Coast, then went to the Pacific, and finally retired in 1977."

But he didn't quit. "You can't... you're always available to be called up," although he doubts he will be "Now that I'm 67."

SSI is for children, too!

By: Gerry Hunt
Social Security Manager
in Richmond

When you think of a person getting disability benefits from the government, what image comes to mind? You probably think of a person who has lost the ability to work as a result of a medical condition or injury.

In 1978, he signed up as assistant to the executive director for the University of Cincinnati Foundation, doing fund-raising and those kinds of things.

In 1980, he became director; in 1984, he became executive director of the office of the president. He retired in 1990.

Currently, he is on the Boone County Planning Commission. He also volunteers on the board of directors for the Holly Hills Children's Home.

Despite those significant responsibilities, he still finds time to go out on his houseboat with his wife and child-hood sweetheart, the former Phyllis Hamer of Covington.

When they're not cruising, they visit and keep up with the families of their three children.

Daughter Cheryl lives with her husband and two sons in California; son Bill and his son live in Virginia; and son Tony, who was in the Air Force and is now in the reserves, is living in Utah.

"I play golf... and I'm a frustrated woodworker."

He collects driftwood on the Ohio River banks when he's out with his houseboat, then turns those specimens into coffee tables, candlesticks and a number of other hand-turned items for the home.

"I want to continue what I'm doing, never to retire completely... I hope to always stay physically active."

"This goal is especially important after heart surgery and a 1988 bout with larynx cancer."

"I am examined every few months, but the radiation apparently cured the cancer."

Still, it left him with an appreciation for living.

"When asked if I can characterize his career and life he laughs softly and says, 'The harder I worked, the luckier I got.'"

U.S. to count business firms in economic census

More than 3.5 million American businesses will receive 1992 Economic Census questionnaires from the U.S. Census Bureau in December.

The due date for returning the completed forms is Feb. 15. Firms receiving census forms are required by law to respond.

This is the most comprehensive Economic Census ever undertaken. For the first time, activity in finance, insurance, real estate, communications, and utilities will be measured, in addition to the traditionally covered: retail and wholesale trade, service industries, transportation, manufacturing, mining, and construction industries. Censuses now measure nearly 98 percent of all economic activity in the nation.

Taken every five years, the economic census identifies trends in business activity that are vital to measuring and encouraging growth in the American economy.

The Federal Government relies on census data to develop important measures of economic change, such as monthly retail sales and the gross domestic product. State and local agencies use the Economic Census in regional planning, economic development, and in efforts to attract and keep business activity in their areas.

While Economic Census data are used extensively by government, associations, and news media, businesses receiving census forms should be aware that they too can benefit. Businesses use the data to develop business plans, calculate market share, and compare themselves to industry averages. The economic Census also is important for business-to-business marketing; the locations of retail outlets and the design of distribution systems frequently are influenced by the results.

Application for burley quotas

Any person wishing to make an application for a new burley tobacco farm allotment should contact the ASCS Office in the county where the farm is located no later than Feb. 18, 1993.

School band to get input

The committee appointed by Ron... principal of Rockcastle County High School, to look into the school's band program has contacted an authority on building high school band programs to come and share his expertise with them. Leroy Kiner, Band Director of the Clear Fork High School Band, Bellville, Ohio will be addressing the committee and other interested parties Friday morning, Jan. 8, at R.C.H.S. The meeting is scheduled for 9 a.m.

Mr. Kiner has a history of building band programs from rather modest beginnings. He was principal of Rockcastle County High School near Northwood High School near Mt. Gilead, Ohio he inherited a group of more than 120 members in just a few years. Due to that record he was hired by Clear Fork High School in the mid-1980s to help their sagging band program. Beginning with approximately 40 band members then, this past football season the "Pride of the Valley" fielded a marching band of more than 140 members not including the flag squad. Both Northwood and Clear Fork are schools of 350 to 500 students from small rural communities.

Mr. Kiner will be sharing some concepts concerning band recruitment, practice scheduling and the like which he has used in building successful programs for Northwood and Clear Fork. School. The committee will then formulate a proposal from those concepts and, combined with information from other sources, make a recommendation for the band program at R.C.H.S. The formation of the committee is the result of the concern expressed by the R.C.H.S. Parent Organization. The R.C.H.S. P.O. meets the third Tuesday of each month to discuss the needs and concerns of parents of R.C.H.S. students. The meetings begin at 7 p.m. and convene in the Library. Parents of R.C.H.S. students are urged to attend.

Dairy program

Revised policy has been announced regarding the Dairy Refund Payment Program (DRPP). You may be eligible for a refund payment if:

"there is a change in the entity type of your dairy operation and you do not add or remove any dairy cows at the time your dairy operation was reorganized."

"you went out of the dairy business and transferred your milk marketing history to more than 1 family member"

Fairview News

By Mrs. Harbert Chastean

Hello to everyone.

We have a lovely day this Monday morning January 4, 1993. Temperature is 62 and partly cloudy. We have had so many dark cloudy days this fall and winter. It is wonderful to see the sunshine. Thank the good Lord for everything He sends, whatever it might be. He knows best.

Our Sunday School attendance at Fairview Jan. 4 was one hundred and twenty three (123). For worship service we had a large crowd. We also had a large attendance for our communion service on Sunday evening. Thank the good Lord. We also are thankful for our pastor Rev. Harvey Penso and all the other ministers who are preaching God's Word. Let's always remember them in our prayers.

It was so good to see Bill Poynter of Ohio, son of Mable Poynter of Ohio and the late Millard Poynter, who visited our church Sunday, Dec. 27. Before moving to Ohio they lived in this vicinity.

We extend our deepest heart-felt sympathy to the family of William Mink of Mt. Vernon. God bless them in this time of sorrow.

The airman is a 1978 graduate of Henry Clay High School, Lexington.

were Mrs. Irene Alexander and children Courtney and Cody and Lorene Napier of Everts.

Hubert and I enjoyed so much seeing Edd Linville of Madison County who visited us last Thursday. He had also been to visit his sister Ruth Abney and husband Joe and was going on to visit his brother Lewis and family. We have known the Linville family many years, they are good friends.

Other guests in our home have been our son Wayne and wife Carolyn and grandson Cody Chastean and our daughter Joyce Seals and husband James.

To you and yours, whenever or wherever you are, may you have the most happy and wonderful year of your life in 1993. I pray grand things will happen to you.

1930 New Year's Eve in Brodhead

By: Elizabeth F. Mullins

Brodhead High School's Night Owls group met at Isabel Martin's parlor. We danced until almost midnight.

The girls and boys would get in a circle and a caller would yell, "Boys two to the right."

Boys counted one, two girls and dance with second to his right. Then caller reversed the call and yell, "Girls three to the left."

This way there was no wallflowers, as we called those that didn't dance.

At 11:45 p.m. part of us would go to the Baptist Church; part to the Christian Church and part to the Methodist Church. We started ringing bells as soon as we got there and continued ringing them until 12:45 a.m.

All that ringing awake many sound sleepers that arose to see the fire works they knew would be somewhere near. Then, usually a gun shot or two could be heard!

All this noise awakened the Brodhead people. So lights went on almost automatically.

We knew most of them were having a New Year's snack or drink.

These were the good old days according to me, Elizabeth Francisco Mullins.
