The Mt. Vernon Signal Thursday, February 17, 1977 P-9 was born and somehow survived. But, in the lean days that followed, Thomas Lincoln lost the "hill farm" to his creditors. So they moved to the cabin on Knob Creek.

In later years, young Lincoln recalled many childhood memories of life on the farm, carrying water from the creek, eating corn in Hodgson's Mill 'arther up the creek where it was ground into coarse meal.

Thomas Lincoln, the father, was a restless man, ever seeking new frontiers. He left Knob Creek for Indiana's Western frontier in the late autumn of 1816. Young Abe, large for his seven years, helped his parents pack their meager belongings later to be carried across the Ohio. They were the first pioneers to claim a squatter's tract in Pigeon Creek in Southern Indiana. That winter was one of the most rugged in the life of the Lincoln family. They lived in a half-iced log and bough camp in lieu of a four walled cabin. The solitary family drank melted snow, lived on the flesh of wild animals and fish and used raw furs to keep themselves from freezing to death. Abe's school days were few, but he made the most of what he could get to study. Reading books and writing on slates with light and heat from the fireplace. How many today are willing and how the spark to make the extra effort to accomplish a honorable place in life. "My earliest recollection was of the Knob Creek place," wrote Abraham Lincoln describing his childhood memories in the Hills of Kentucky. "Our farm was composed of three fields. It lay in the valley, surrounded by hills and deep gorges."

That was a hard life. "Down on the Farm."

IN MEMORY
Of George W. Allen

The rain patters on the rooftop and the wind sweeps down the chimney. As I sit waiting by my window for my health to return. I look out and can see the birds flitting around seeking their mates who are not far away. I can see the tiny birds coming to life again. Still I wait and wonder when I can feel their soft, sweet fragrant petals as I always like to do.

Then I wonder again, knowing I am not young any more, why I love so much the youthful beauty of nature. Why? Because God gave me this nature to love and enjoy.

As a stream flows on its way to the sea, our lives are the same. Life starts out so small and grows on and on till we get out to sea, then our lives are soon finished.

We now have time to sit and wonder what we have done with our small life that God gave us. My walk through life has been an open one. I have not done as much for my friends as I could or should. I have been too busy with my home life. Then when we have time to think, we wonder why our life has been so full with hope, that the beauty of things has been passed by. But raising a family is filled with love and work which words not mind.

I, as a father, am waiting for the thing I want most, to be well so I can truly enjoy my loved ones.

As we grow older, we see that we have lost some of the beauty of life by not being with our friends as we once did. Those were the happiest days for all of us. But people now are too busy, they no longer have time for a chat or a smile.

But sometime everyone will have to wait by the window, then they too, will have plenty of time to think of an unused smile that would have driven away a tear.

Jeff Burdette, senior guard for RCHS, drives on a Pulaski County Maroon during action Monday night at Pulaski County. Burdette got 13 points in the game which the Rockets lost.

Rockets Defeat Berea; Lose Next Three

The RCHS Rockets defeated Berea last Wednesday night 50-46, avenging an earlier loss to Berea. Scoring in that game for the Rockets were: Larry Harmon, 12; John Nugent, 10; Jeff Burdette, 9; Steve Centers and Frankie Durham, 8 each and David Pensol, 3.

A long trip for the Rockets to Middlesboro was next on the agenda last Friday night and there they came up on the short end of things 74-54.

The Rockets looked very tired no doubt as a result of playing so many games in a three-week period.

Steve Centers and Larry Harmon each had 12 points in the game. Jeff Burdette and David Pensol got 10 each, Eddie Thompson, 3, Frankie Durham, Tim Arvin and Jack Farthing accounted for 2 each and Warren Cash got 1.

The Rockets then journeyed to Pulaski County Monday night to lose another 53-48. The Rockets led at the end of the first quarter 13-6 but were behind at half time by 4 points due to having scored only 7 points in the second quarter.

Larry Harmon was high scorer for the Rockets with 14. Jeff Burdette got 13, David Pensol, 11, Frankie Durham, 8, Eddie Thompson, 2.

The Rockets were also on the road Tuesday night at Madison Model where they lost 68-59.

The Rockets played right with Model, leading at various times but again, the Rockets just seemed to run out of gas near the end of the game.

about 70 calories, too.

Coffee, without milk and sugar added, provides essentially no calories. Use hot chocolate made from a home recipe or a commercial mix. It costs a little more than coffee, but for the extra cost, it furnishes the nutrients of milk as well as some iron (from the cocoa). A 6 ounce cup provides 140 calories or more.

Use fruit and vegetable juices. Some cost no more than coffee and provide vitamins and minerals.

Shoppers can compare prices on their own. For example, a pound of regular coffee will make 50 cups of coffee on the average. At $3.19 a pound, a cup of coffee costs 6.4 cents.

Over or Under-Spending

Some people spend more than they can afford when buying a house. Equally painful is the mistake of buying the cheapest possible house and then suffering through its shortcomings.

I have no intention of stating how much anyone can afford for a house. This is a very personal decision. There are guidelines of monthly averages that lending institutions use for housing expenses. But like the 'height/weight' charts printed on scales - these are only averages.

Don't hold back if you feel you can exceed the guidelines. When you are willing and sufficiently disciplined to economize on other expenses, you can get a better house than the average calls for. A good house may seem costly, but the rewards are well worth it. Investing in a house that a little more expensive gives you an excellent inflation hedge while your whole family enjoys a better place to live. And often, the resale opportunity is brighter.

"Mental Health Matters"

BASIC NEEDS OF CHILDREN

The basic needs of all children include warmth, shelter, food, clothing, love and emotional support. Sometimes a family may provide very adequate shelter and food, but neglect the emotional needs of young children. Love and emotional support in the developmental years will go a long way toward assuring emotional and mental health when children grow up.

In what ways can parents provide the "quality of love that is needed?" First—through tender, gentle, yet confident physical handling of the infant, we demonstrate love.

Second—talking, humming, or singing to the infant are expressions of love. Third—a simple act, like looking into your child's eyes when you talk to him or her communicates respect and love.

Fourth—Smile for your child frequently when you are happy about what he does or says.

Fifth—Allow the young child to touch your face—to be physically close when he wishes.

Sixth—gentle handling of the baby during bath and feeding times, as well as playtime, tells the infant that "you love him." a child sufficiently loved in infancy will be able to give love as an adult. *****

Cold Weather Cost City Estimated $115,000

Estimated cost of the cold weather, thus far, to the City of Mt. Vernon, is expected to be $115,000.

The city council met Monday night, February 14th and a cost estimate was presented by city clerk Mary Craig. The breakdown is as follows: $10,000 for water service lines; $10,000 for main water lines; $12,000 for water meter replacement and repair; $3,000 for sewer lines and sewer plant; $20,000 for water plant repair; $5,000 for city building repair and $60,000 for street repairs. Labor costs have not been figured into the estimate.

Mrs. Craig also reported to the council that several citizens have complained because they received water bills even though their lines were frozen and they had no service. It was decided by the council that since the meters were not removed and were still, technically, in service, the patrons were obligated for the minimum charge.

There has also been complaints of overcharging during the months that water usage is estimated by the water utility. Mrs. Craig explained that overcharges for any given month were credited to the next month's bill.

Discussion was initiated by Oscar Fain, a local businessman, about burglaries in the area and action, by the council, was requested. Assistant Police Chief John Grider was at the meeting to make suggestions including the formation of a businessmen's group to draw up a plan for combating local crime.

Officer Grider's other suggestions included an additional cruiser to patrol the city at night. If two cruisers were on duty, Officer Grider reasoned, each could patrol one-half the city. Alarm systems and additional lighting for stores were also suggested as police aid.

For homeowners, Officer Grider emphasized the Operation Identification program. Under O.I., an engraving pencil is available for loan to any citizen with which he or she permanently mark valuable items. Serial numbers are then recorded making those items nearly impossible to sell.

The City of Lexington has initiated a program through which CB radio owners organize for the specific purpose of crime prevention. The program has been so successful there, that a similar organization may be started soon in Mt. Vernon. Officer Grider said that the real key to crime prevention in Mt. Vernon is citizen cooperation and support.

It was also suggested that a 1934 curfew law, adopted by the city, be enforced. This law states that streets must be clear of juveniles by 10 p.m. However, there is a constitutional question about enforcing of this curfew which would have to be clarified before it could be enforced.

The council passed an ordinance at the meeting which should lead to better police protection. The police training incentive program was adopted for the Mt. Vernon Police Dept., which means that officers covering areas of the School of Law Enforcement for training.

In another matter, Wayne King, manager of the Lake Linville Recreation Area, requested that the Council extend the period for boating on the lake to include the period from Memorial Day to Labor Day. It was again explained to Mr. King that lake has spanned during the month of May and the first 10 days of June should be allowed for the tiny fish to develop. King also reported that advertising for the lake facilities was progressing.

Vernon, is presently doing special graduate study at the Universita degli Studi di Napoli. His studies include courses in Latin historical linguistics, Roman imperial history and archaeology, and papyrology. He specializes in which he is translating fragments of the Greek papyri found at the ancient Roman city Herculaneum which was buried by the volcanic eruption of Vesuvius in 79 A.D. In addition to regular classroom work, Mr. Tyler is also doing research for his thesis in an area heretofore relatively unexplored. He is attempting to theoretically reconstruct the complete design, purpose, importance and living habits of the residents of the ancient Roman villa of Oplontis located just inside Pompeii. The villa, reputed to be the lavish summer house of Poppaea (second wife to the emperor Nero), has only been under excavation for twelve years.

Mr. Tyler, aided by Dr. Alfonso De Francisci, director of all archaeological work in the Naples-Pompeii area and director of the National Museum of Naples, will be researching his project at Pompeii, Naples, and Rome. Mr. Tyler will complete his work in Naples in late June of this year.

After enrolling at Naples in November of last year, Mr. Tyler spent 3 months competing requirements for a diploma in the Italian language at the most rigorous of Italian universities, the University of Rome. Then, in October, he toured 9 other European nations. In addition to many Common Market nations, and Scandinavia, he was also invited to visit Poland and then through East Germany into Berlin. He most touching part of the trip for him was the crossing of the Berlin Wall, the most riotous example of political triumph over humanly. Returning to Italy, he visited major northern cities including Milan, Venice and Florence.

Mr. Tyler's expenses were made possible by a $700 award given by the Rotary Foundation of Rotary International. Mr. Tyler had been sponsored for the award by the Perseo Rotary Club and rotary district 674.

FROZEN WATER PIPES THEY'RE A DISASTER

At best, frozen pipes are a nuisance, at worst, they're a disaster, as many Kentuckians have discovered this winter.

When the pipes and water valves froze in Providence leaving residents with no water, it was definitely a disaster.

For help, Providence turned to the division of sanitary engineering in the state Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection. Prepared for such an emergency, division director Nick Johnson located a nearby dairy which delivered water in milk cartons until the central water system was restored.

During the course of the winter, the division has assisted about 25 communities with similar emergencies, according to Johnson. Usually, only communities with special problems call on his division for help. Johnson said, "We can't help with money, but we can provide advice which comes from long, as well as wide-ranging, experience."

Alternatives Cut Coffee Costs

If the price of coffee is taking a lift out of your coffee break, you should take a look at alternatives. A cup of regular coffee made with some brands costs about 6 1/2 cents. A cup made from other brands costs about 5 cents, and a cup of coffee made from regular instant costs less than 2 1/2 cents. If consumers are willing to switch to tea, they can cut costs further. Tea costs less than 1 1/2 cents a cup, depending on how you make it.

The cost of coffee almost doubled in the past year increasing up to over $3.00 per pound in some areas. The majority of adults have coffee every day. Even with inflated prices, most people are likely to drink coffee. But there are things they can do to hold down the cost. They can also switch to beverages that might cost more but will provide nutrients that a cup of black coffee will Unit prices are shown on the display shelf in many supermarkets.

For those who are cutting down on coffee and trying another beverage, we suggest: Drink tea or a cereal beverage at a third or a half of the cost of coffee. You can often save more by making tea with loose tea leaves or instant tea instead of tea bags. Use bouillon occasionally, unless you are a low-salt dieter. Drink milk made from nonfat dry milk powder. It costs less than coffee. Unlike coffee, it provides important nutrients - calcium, protein, riboflavin and many others. A 6-ounce cup of milk (cont'd to Page 10)

Farm News

Deadline - farm news briefs

By Gary Huddleston

Kentucky Farm Bureau officials are calling for a big vote of approval for continuing burley tobacco quotas and price supports in a producer referendum scheduled later this month.

KFB President Bob Wade said the current burley quota program, which combines poundage limitations and federally guaranteed price supports, will expire after this year if producers do not vote to extend it for a third three-year period. The poundage system was first approved by growers in 1971.

Wade said support for the program has been overwhelming in both prior referendums and said there's every reason to believe that the 95 percent-plus approval registered in 1974 will be exceeded this year.

The referendum will be conducted by mail. USDA officials have announced, and growers have been asked to mark their ballots and return them, postmarked no later than Feb. 22-23.

In other tobacco news, Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland has set the total 1977 production quota at a base of 637 million pounds, about the same as last year. The action is in line with recommendations from most segments of the tobacco industry, including Farm Bureau, the Council for Burley Tobacco and the Burley Farmers Advisory Council.

The Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service would like to hear from you. If you're a farmer...

Jim Koepfer, head statistician in the service's Louisville office, said his office mails crop reports to any farmer who requests them. Reports are prepared regularly on a wide variety of agricultural topics, including planting intentions, crop production totals, weather summaries and costs of farm input items.

Information for the reports comes from individual farmers who serve as volunteer crop reporters. Koepfer noted. He said he would like to add to his network of reporters, as well as boost the number of farmers who receive the reports.

Our reports are based solely on survey responses from Kentucky farmers, Koepfer noted. The figures on planting intentions, production estimates and input costs are valuable management tools for farmers and information gained from individual farmers is kept strictly confidential.

Koepfer urged farmers who are interested in becoming volunteer reporters, and farmers who simply want to receive the reports, to contact his office immediately. Drop a letter to Jim Koepfer, Statistical Reporting Service, USDA, P.O. Box 1120, Louisville, KY 40201.

There's no fertilizer shortage yet, but industry officials are expressing concern over the effects of natural gas curtailments on supplies of nitrogen fertilizer in Southern farm states, including Kentucky.

And, American Farm Bureau officials say the situation could worsen in coming years if gas prices aren't allowed to rise, thus discouraging uneconomic use of the fuel and freeing more gas for essential industries, such as fertilizers.

National news reports indicate several fertilizer plants in the Southeast have been either shut down or operations have been cut back because of natural gas shortages. The cutbacks have come at a time when factories are normally producing at their peak to meet spring planting demands.

Natural gas is critical for nitrogen fertilizer production because it is both a raw material for the product and a fuel for the production process.

A Farm Bureau spokesman said in Chicago recently that current gas shortages are partly the result of government price controls on the clean burning fuel which have been in effect more than 22 years.

He called the price levels unrealistically low, noting that gas now moving in interstate pipelines under old contracts is priced at 32 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, while the same gas produced and sold in a single state is bringing up to $2.00.

President Carter's emergency natural gas legislation, which temporarily raises some gas prices and diverts the fuel to hardest-hit areas, is no substitute for a long-term national energy policy, AFBB said. That policy, if developed, will have to include permanent deregulation of natural gas, or next winter will be colder for many gas users, than 1977, the spokesman said.

Local DeLaval Dealer

Attends Special Convention

G.D. Burton of Broadhead attended the 1977 DeLaval Dealer Convention at the Peachtree Plaza in Atlanta, Georgia February 3-4.

While at the convention, Burton received a sneak preview of DeLaval's new product lines, met with engineering experts for the dairy and farm equipment company and learned more about financing the sale of his DeLaval products.

"The information our dealers gained here will enable them to better serve their customers back home," explained Raymond C. Rabner, Director of Marketing and Sales for the Farm

Division of the De Laval Separator Company. "We designed our program to bring dealers up-to-date on De Laval's marketing strategy and service programs," he continued.

The two-day convention included remarks by sales, service and engineering personnel, as well as several exchange sessions in which the dealers discussed subjects of specific concern to their De Laval franchise.

Burton joined 80 other people directly associated with De Laval dealerships, as well as 15 people from De Laval's Foughkeissie, New York office at the Atlanta meeting.

'Go Ahead' Signed On Adair Beef Plant

Final papers have been signed assuring the completion of the Adair Beef Plant Cooperative to a fully operational stage, according to Robert Lipp Faulkner, Chairman of the Board.

Tuesday night, signatures were affixed to the papers which granted the cooperative new financing sufficient to complete construction. The signing took place in the conference room of the plant's nearly complete facility off East 80 W Columbia.

The money came from a set of twelve lenders, including eleven members from the Beef Plant Cooperative and the builder, John Horne of Central Contracting, Inc. of Nicholasville.

Work on the construction of the plant had stopped in October of 1974, fully twenty seven months ago. At that point the plant was 80 percent complete, with a total cost at the time of $450 to $475,000.

Horne has 180 working days from February 1, to complete the project. But the Co-op hopes that the work will be completed earlier.

Already completed are the offices, the basic structure, the sewage treatment plant and lagoons, roads, and much of the landscaping.

The plant is situated on 42.7 acres of what was once known as the Billy Cundiff farm.

Refrigeration work is one of the biggest jobs to be completed now.

Also outstanding is the electrical and plumbing work for the chill units and the kill floor.

Overhead rails are yet to be put in, and inside equipment, including meat vats, scald vats, and the kill platform, is yet to be completed.

An experienced plant manager who will be brought in during the latter part of construction will mostly likely be from a Chicago packing house.

The plant construction had been halted in 1974 because building costs increased faster than had been anticipated when construction was started in 1973.

The Cooperative made numerous attempts to get new financing but was turned down on the attempts, most of the time in the eighth hour.

Management never thought it would have had trouble raising the money to finish the plant. A MAI (master Appraisal Institute) appraisal valued the plant in early 1975 at $690,000. Also at one time there were thirty guarantors who would have guaranteed $600,000.

Bill McClelland, Chairman of the Cooperative's finance committee, is the man most of the people in the co-op give credit for getting the final package worked out.

Now, the capital financing worries are behind the Co-op. The new money takes care of construction financing 100 percent.

The Co-op is presently defending an action by the attorney general attempting to place the sale of membership within the purview of the Consumer Protection Act. But the officers are pushing ahead with their plans despite this since the Co-op feels it has good and valid defenses.

They look forward to the time when the plant will be processing 100 to 125 animals a day. That's how many beef cattle could be killed in an eight hour shift. The plant can kill for up to two and one half shifts per day.

Faulkner, of the management company, and Overstreet, general manager, estimate that up to $1 million worth of beef could pass through the house annually.

We plan to start up in a modest way, however. At first, the employment will be held to 12 to 16 persons, including 8 to 12 laborers, a foreman, a plant manager, a secretary and a bookkeeper.

Even that number will translate into a new payroll of around $100,000 annually.

The Co-op has some 2300 member producers, whose average investment is $340. The investments are from a low of $150 to a high of $5,000.

The Week at Livingston

By Eva Black

Back in the early 1900's when Livingston was a booming railroad town, Uncle Bill Owens was a call boy for the L & N Railroad. Uncle Bill was a news correspondent for the Mt. Vernon Signal. That was when everyone went by train, so with Uncle Bill working at depot, he always had a long news. Every week Uncle Bill started his letter off with "Livingston awoke this morning to find everything wearing a white bonnet...with no train running anymore for transportation and all roads covered with ice and snow that has no been very much traveling and very little news."

Since the 29th of December, we would have started out letter off "Everything wearing a white bonnet..." We are really glad to see the ground again.
