Looking back after 91 years with Mrs. Lucretia Robinson

Written by Viola Robinson Monter
About her mother
Mrs. Lucretia Robinson

Mrs. Lucretia Robinson was born February 6, 1892 in Claiborne County, Tennessee, the third daughter of Wm. W.J. and Mary Eliza (McGuire) Alcorn.

Her earliest memory is of their adventurous journey from Tennessee to Rockcastle County in Kentucky when she was four years old. Her family came by train but, in order to get to the railroad station, they had to cross a river in an open boat, probably a ferry.

She remembers that her older sisters were afraid of the rough crossing but she was too interested in watching her father who was urging, pulling and tugging at a mule which was reluctantly swimming behind the boat on a halter.

Lucretia remembers very little about the train ride, but she does remember that the family stopped at her Grandfather McGuire's place at Red House in Madison County for a rest and visit before again boarding the train for their destination and future home in Rockcastle County in the area of Goodland and Cookburg.

Lucretia also remembers that her first school teacher was Sam Brown of Mt. Vernon in the year 1897 when she was five. Another of her early teachers was John McCracken but the one she remembers most vividly from those early years was Mr. Chestnut.

Her great teacher before he became a wonderful doctor. She says that Mr. Chestnut made her stand in the corner or, as the term was used in those days, "stand up."

The reason for this punishment was because she had not completed her assignment in spelling.

Mr. Chestnut's method for teaching spelling was to assign a number of words and the student learned to spell the words and then think of another word which was completely different but had the same meaning. The word in this case was "looked." Lucretia had not tried hard enough to think of a synonym for "looked" and Mr. Chestnut reminded her that an excellent word was "gazed." He then had her "stand up" and "gaze" for a while. She never forgot that experience and considers it a profitable lesson. This seems like a great way to teach spelling and build vocabulary at the same time.

The following incident points up the fun-loving, sparkling personality of Lucretia which she has repeated throughout the years and which has endeared her to people of all ages. One day, when Mr. Chestnut "took up books," he removed his watch from his pocket, held it in his hand and announced that he was going to allow fifteen minutes for Lucretia Alcorn to laugh. He added that if any of the students cared to join in, they were permitted to do so but Lucretia had to laugh for the entire fifteen minutes. She says quite a few of the students started laughing at her because she had to laugh and soon the entire schoolroom was in an uproar. I'm sure this experience taught her not to find too many things to giggle about during study time.

Those early school years were at the Solie Griffin School on Crooked Creek. The three teachers mentioned must have been qualified because it is very evident that Lucretia received a good basic education and she never hesitated to use everything had learned. She always used correct grammar and, as a child, I thought she talked a little "proper." By the term "proper," I mean she pronounced some words differently from the way most of the people spoke. For example, she pronounced l-a-u-g-h-e-d with a broad "a." I wondered why and where she learned to talk in that manner. When I began to study Latin, I knew that somewhere along the way, she had a teacher who had been a student of Latin or Greek. That teacher was probably Mr. Chestnut. He, no doubt, was studying for his medical degree during those years when she was in school.

The full name of Lucretia's father was William Wallace Joshua Alcorn. With a name like that, his mother must have dedicated him to the service of the Lord at the time of his birth. In any case, he studied for, and became a Baptist preacher. Lucretia has his "papers," both his license to preach and his ordination papers. The church which they attended during her girlhood was Corinth and she remembers Bro. Dillard Parker being their pastor. Rockcastle County history records him as being a great man of God.

Lucretia married while quite young but, before she met the man of her choice, she had other beaux. One suitor was Cleveland Cox. Her youngest daughter and a group of other young people were exploring Phillip's Cave and found Lucretia's maiden name scratched in the cave. Not long ago, she was wondering who did it and another daughter said, "Ah, Mom, Cleve Cox probably did that during the time he was carrying a torch for you." She replied, "That could be it."

The young man who won her heart and hand was a fine, handsome, hard-working, honest man from just over the line in Jackson County by the name of John Ernest Robinson. They were married on December 10, 1908 at the home of her parents. She says they had a large wedding with all the friends and neighbors from the entire countryside in attendance. She remembers that her mother boiled a ham and roasted a turkey. They also had lots of vegetables and pies and cakes aplenty. It seems the ladies of the neighborhood tried to outdo each other when it came to baking because it was they who furnished many of the desserts.

Lucretia and Ernest were married by a Reverend Solomon but there were other preachers in attendance. When asked if the turkey by chance had been a "wild" one, she said, "No, Pa bought it from Mrs. Anglin." Witnesses to the wedding were Joe Hampton and Frank Hampton. In those days, it was customary for weddings to be witnessed by mature, responsible, adult men. Not too many decades prior to that time, there was a $100.00 bond requirement when applying for a marriage license. (The writer injects this information for the benefit of Lucretia's children and grandchildren who might wonder why she had no bridesmaids, etc.) In any case, it was a gala affair. The following day, Ernest and Lucretia went to the Robinson household and were feted again. I remember my family folklore properly, the second day of feasting and entertainment was called the "In-fare Dinner." At the time of their marriage, Lucretia was two months short of being seventeen and Ernest was a few months less than twenty-one.

Ernest and Lucretia had very little in the way of material things with which to begin their new life together but they did have their love, their faith and their family.

They worked hard and managed well and soon they were considered to be in comfortable circumstances. This same tenacity, honesty, hard work and a devout faith in God enabled them to become comfortably prosperous during their 67 years, 2 1/2 months of married life. Lucretia was widowed February 29, 1976.

Ernest and Lucretia became the parents of nine children, eight of whom are still living.

One son is a retired dairy farmer of Rockcastle County, one daughter has been a resident of Berea for years; the youngest daughter lives in Frankfurt and the youngest of the "clan," a son, lives in Independence. The other four live in the Greater Cincinnati area.

I'm sure mother considered her greatest accomplishment in life that of rearing her children according to the Golden Rule and knowing they are fine christian ladies and gentlemen. Three of her sons are diligent, active laymen in their respective churches. She gives her late husband equal credit for the success in the proper rearing of their children.

In her own words, not very long ago, she remarked, "I know that Ernest was the best man, husband and father who ever walked in shoes like theirs," then added, "God gave him to me."

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson enjoyed traveling and had the opportunity to do so. Their most memorable trip was to our nation's capital. While in the Washington area, they also went to Norfolk, Virginia. There, they were awed by the vast expanse of the Atlantic Ocean and thoroughly enjoyed the thrilling sight of the ocean.

Lucretia and Ernest also came to Mount Vernon, home of George Washington. The high point of the trip for Ernest was their visit to the Smithsonian Institute and the Bureau of Engravings but, for Lucretia, the joy of seeing the home and tomb of our first President was a great thrill and has remained a treasured memory. She said she would have liked to have been allowed to go up on the porch to sit for a while in his rocking chair. This seems an appropriate place to mention that Lucretia was named for the wife of our twentieth president, Lucretia Garfield. She is very proud of her name and doesn't like to be called "Lou." Most people use the shortened version but her parents never did.

The Robinsons took many other shorter trips to nearby states: Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee and Kentucky. They traveled through Virginia and West Virginia enroute to and from Washington. They were so enthusiastic that it was a joy to go anywhere with them. They seemed to see more in a given area than the average person.

Once, Lucretia made a trip back to Claiborne County, Tennessee in search of some semblance of her birthplace and early childhood but there was almost nothing recognizable left there when she was four years old.

Even now, she is always ready for a visit to John, Berea, Richmond or downtown Mt. Vernon for a little shopping and lunch out is a great treat. Number two on her list of recreational activities is having company - the more, the merrier and as often as possible.

Of course, her eight children are coming and going frequently. She has twenty-three grandchildren, all of whom like to go to Mam-ma's. Some of her fifty plus great grandchildren know her well enough to enjoy going for a visit and they consider it an honor. The three great-great-grandchildren are infants and she has had the joy of seeing one of them.

Lucretia and Ernest lived in Jackson County for a period of twenty years or more. She still keeps in touch with friends and neighbors in Jackson County regularly. She also still has many in-law relatives in Jackson County who are considered family and keeps in close touch with them.

Lucretia has one brother, Archy Alcorn, who lives in Dayton, (Cont'd to P-A7)

Mrs. Lucretia Robinson, shown above as she approaches her 91st birthday, still lives by herself, still maintains a household and even walks to senior citizens when the weather is nice.

Satan's Devises

Evil surrounds us in the world, and the devil clearly shows that all sin is attributed to the devil. It was through his influence that sin entered in the world (Gen. 3: Rom. 5:12).

Satan's power is never equal to that of Almighty God and the exercises only such power as God permits (1 Cor. 10:13). How then does he manage to get so much done? Why are the majority of people following him heading into hell? Well, Stan gets advantage of us because we are ignorant of his DEVICES (2 Cor. 2:11). He uses many subtle and cunning methods and devices.

He transforms himself into an angel of light (2 Cor. 11:14). His servants appear as ministers of righteousness and he blinds the minds of people to keep out of the gospel (2 Cor. 4:4). Satan quotes scripture, perverting it and applying it to his own advantage. (Matt. 4:6).

The devil enslaves one and trick and roller star and then uses him as his minister. Thousands will follow him without any more work on the devil's part. He enslaves one dictator and turns him loose to enslave millions. He gets on pornography, one writer, one actor, one pimp and they do the work of damnation for him-thousands will follow where they lead. The devil could loll around on the beach of the lake of fire, while his ministers use his devices in working for him.

To damn an entire congregation, the devil only needs to lead the elders or preacher astray and they will do his work for him. He doesn't have to personally teach people they are saved before they are baptized. All he has to do is put on nationally prominent preachers on television and he will do the work for him. He can take it easy and watch the program with thousands of deluded souls. He tells preacher to preach on the plan of salvation if they must, quote all the right verses, but do not indicate in any way that those who do not obey this plan are wrong. He will even allow his ministers to preach that all others will be rooted up (Matt. 15:13).

Satan has many devices. Ultimately, he and his angels will be cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, tormented day and night forever and ever (Rev. 20:10). Our ability to resist the devil is supplied by Christ. (James 3:2).

"Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are God; because many false prophets are gone out into the world" (1 John 4:1). Let us not be ignorant of the devil's devices!

Disputanta

By Hilda P. Gabbard

Hello from Clear Creek! Lorene Hurley Baker of Davis Branch Road answered my knock on the door of Mary Hurley's home in a bathrobe with a towel around her head.

"I'm going to a shower for some of my kindfolk, Larry and Gina Mink over Jiff Brush Creek who have had their home burned down two months after moving in," she explained her appearance. "Vonda Ballinger and I are having it for them." Loreta is a very pretty girl and she talked excitedly as she pulled on blue jeans and brushed her long, dark hair. Her eyes flashed and she continued, "Oh, I want to tell you that I've been on Channel 18 on television and I saw myself the other night without knowing I was going to be!" It seems she works for a company who made the evening news during a business conference at Berea.

Mary had visitors the past weeks: son Charley Hurley and family were down from Ohio and also Russell and Jewell Anglin, Monroe and Loretta Barnett from Berea. Lorena is a twin sister to Loreta.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Chasteen visited their sons, Floyd and William and families during Thanksgiving who live in Ohio. Pearl said she had a new car and gave it a check-up. Could it be he is planning to have a "working" in the spring and get help with his wood pile? I never did like to pick up chips.

I would like to correct the age of Charley King as I gave last week about his birthday. He was 86 years of age this January 25th. Anyway, I was trying to help you out, Charley. You said you would like to be younger.

Sarah King is very ill in the Berea Hospital at this writing. The family is very concerned about their mother and are in close attendance.

Mossie Cope is under the weather she says. She had been to see her doctor at Berea the past few days but has to spend some time lying on a couch. She has been quite a woman doing work on the farm but now realizes that it is about over for her must take it easy since she'll be 78 this year. But she is a determined little woman not to let it get her down. Her daughters, Doris Meadows and Eva Bullock visited her often. Mossie said Evan had taken the Signal for her to read which is a nice thought. Here is something else surprising. Mossie doesn't drink coffee and never has. So many people depend on coffee to get going of a morning but she says not her.

"Well, I'll say for them they were real polite thieves," Lorene Hurley remarked. "Why they took the battery out just real neat instead of cutting the wires."

She was speaking of Raymond's old truck which had been stolen, pushed down the road and had several things taken but left the truck itself. The gasoline was drained from the truck's tank, battery recharged and took home. "Worst of all," Raymond sighted, "they took an old pump that I had about 38 years ago. I had a feeling for that old pump."

The words of a song came to me as I sat in the warm, quiet living room of Alta Berry's home.

You've got to walk that lonesome valley. You've got to walk it by yourself—she had just said to me, "You are nights I can't sleep when I had asked her how she was adjusting to her new life without a partner. I know many of you understand this and have experienced it but Alta's next words gives us all hope. "I couldn't have made it without the help of the Lord," she stated solemnly. "Kenneth, my son, lives with me and drives daily to work. I'm making a flower garden quilt and have just finished a wedding ring pattern. Neighbors call me on the phone which helps but I don't like television." Thus she goes on with life.

With the passage of time comes a healing mental health helps our physical health. Alta looks much better after the past weeks I feel time will help and heal her as God intended.

Now for those of you who think this column is just words "put down", I will have you know there is much shuffling around of ideas to be put into words of news of the community.

I'm sure I have my critics as well as the ones who are pleased at what I write. I usually ask folks if I can comment on certain things that had been said to me while we were writing. Some said I've most all said yes. I always respect their wishes.

Then there have been the well-meaning people who have told me what to write, what not to write, how to write it and how not to write. My answer to them was that I had to do it my way as ideas came to me, whether it was interesting or boring.

I cannot possibly cover Clear Creek and its hollows as things happen every week. So I catch on to everything I see or hear.

Till then: Wear a smile and have friends. Wear a frown and have wrinkles.

Fairview

By Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Sunday School attendance at the Fairview Baptist Church.

We are so thankful for that good number. Well, we are still having mild weather and warm temperatures. We don't hear any complaints from anyone. Everyone is really enjoying it.

Another year has rolled around and our thoughts are on our mother, Liddie Reppert, who passed away February 6, 1975. But it doesn't seem like she has been gone that long. I've always been determined to keep her alive in my mind. I speak of her often and mention her many times to our children and grandchildren and others. It gave me much pleasure and enjoyment to be able to spend a lot of time with her in the last few years of her stay here on earth wasn't easy, as she had a hard time. She and Daddy were poor people but managed to raise thirteen children. I wondered as a child why we couldn't have more clothes and shoes as we always seemed to have to wear hand-me-downs or something somebody gave us. But after I got older and thought back over the years, I wondered how we even had enough food to eat. But I thank God so much for Christian parents, they did the best they could to raise us right. I'll never forget the many good things they taught us and how, even in their latter years they were always there when I needed them. Sometimes I wish I could sit down and talk to them but I know that can never happen again in this world. But there will be a great homecoming one day in Heaven and I hope and pray with all my heart (as I sit here writing with tears in my eyes) that when that day comes all thirteen of us Reppert children can gather around the Throne of God with our loving mother and father never to be separated anymore. To each one of my brothers and sisters, I'd like to say I know you miss Mom and Daddy, Margaret, Robert, Bertha and Mark as much as I do, but don't let me see them again and remember I love each one of you. You are very dear to me.

Mrs. Darleen Church and daughter, Tonya visited Mr. and Mrs. Luther Isaacs and family of Wildie last Thursday.

Ohio where he has been a barber for more than fifty years - owning his own shop for most of those years. Now, at the age of eighty-three, he works only part-time. He considers it a "sin" not to work. They are the only two left, Lucretia being third from the oldest and Archy, third from the youngest, of the original eight who lived to be adults.

I would be doing an injustice if I didn't mention that both of her grandfathers served in the Civil War, both on the side of the Union. Her grandfather, John Alcorn, served with the 14th Volunteer Cavalry (Kentucky) as a Farrier. Her grandfather, Archy McGuire, was a Sergeant with the 4th Kentucky Volunteer Infantry. John Alcorn was a native of Estill County, and served in the Irvine area. A Farrier, for those who don't want to look up the word in the dictionary, is a combination blacksmith-veterinarian. Archy McGuire served in the South.

Lucretia doesn't exactly remember the first automobile she saw but she does remember the first one she rode in. An uncle (half brother to her mother) had migrated to the state of Minnesota where he became a successful auctioneer. He made a trip back to Madison County to visit his mother (Lucretia's step-grandmother) and also visited Lucretia in his black, shiny new car. It had red leather interior and was a 4-door with a soft top. He cut quite a swath, being a good-looking young man with a winning smile and a personality that could charm the fish from the sea. It's no wonder he was successful at auctioneering, nearing.

The McGuires and Alcorns can "talk the bark off a tree." I borrowed that last phrase from Jess D. Wilson who is an author from Jackson County. I didn't get his permission, as I should have, to use it. I hope he doesn't sue me for plagiarism.

Uncle Stanley McGuire spent a couple of days with Lucretia and her husband and then he and she took their riding in his pretty car. Lucretia had a sister and a brother who were school teachers in Rockcastle County. Bernice taught for a few years during the latter part of the second decade of this century - probably 1917-19. Herbert Alcorn taught for a longer period of time. His career and life were cut short at the age of 23 years but he is still fondly remembered by those who knew him.

Lucretia and Herbert were the only children of his Alcorn family to remain in Rockcastle County, or in Kentucky. There was a time when she envied her sisters who lived away in large cities but, after visiting her sisters on many occasions, she came to the conclusion that farming and living in Rockcastle County was what and where she wanted to be. She appreciated her surroundings and good neighbors in Mt. Vernon more than ever since she has reached this time of her life. She knows so many nice people, from all walks of life, and is known and highly respected by those same people.

Her present interests are keeping in touch with friends, family and relatives by telephone. Another pleasure is attending the Senior Citizens' meetings. She walks down the road in nice weather, but rides home. She enjoys the good fellowship and having others to eat lunch with is a big improvement over eating lunch alone. Lucretia has lived through a great deal of history - from the horse and buggy days to Neil Armstrong's Moon Walk. If you asked her what her formula is for a long life, she would probably tell you it is hard work, a devout belief that God takes care of His own, clean living and an optimistic outlook on life. The Robinsons had their financial setbacks but their children can attest to the fact that neither of them ever spent much time bemoaning their adversities. They appreciated the situation and started all over with faith that things would work out and I don't remember an incident when that philosophy failed them.

One of Lucretia's "sayings" is - if you expect to have good neighbors, you first have to be a good neighbor. Another belief is the importance of cultivating friends of all ages. I think this has a lot to do with her remaining alert and interesting. Lucretia has a keen eye and checks monthly bills by check, reads an electric meter, calls the necessary repairmen, does her own cooking and light household duties. Most people who know her think she is remarkable, and so do her children.

I will make an attempt to mention some of her accomplishments. One of her interests, until recently, was making quilts. The ones I remember as a child were those made from the best parts of worn winter clothing. She would put them together in whatever shapes developed and then outline those crazy pieces with what she called a "briar stitch" using colorful yarn. The result of this effort was almost like a tapestry. After she was 75 years old, she made a quilt for each of her nine children. These were not fancy but they were a labor of love. I have not used mine. I intend to keep it as a family memento to be passed along to the next generation.

A few years ago, the Renfro Valley Radio Station ran a contest for the best advice on rearing children successfully. Lucretia won the contest. Her entry went something like this: "Rear them according to Bible teachings. The Book of Proverbs is a good book to use."

With so many little Robinsons, there was not always time for talking things out. There were rules and regulations and they were to be observed. When they were not, a peach tree switch was often applied, in light blows, to the bare legs. Speaking from experience, nothing stings worse than a peach tree switch, except a dogwood switch. Number five child and number three son (one and the same person), developed a fear of going upstairs to take his afternoon nap. He said he was afraid of "buggers." Mom prepared a note to the "buggers" and gave it to him, explaining that she had told the "buggers" that Johnny had been a good boy and not to bother him. He would take the note and toddle upstairs, feeling completely safe.

I could go on and on but I must bring this story to a close. I would like to mention one which happened recently and which points up how Lucretia handles situations. On New Year's Eve 1982, Lucretia and her daughter-in-law, Hallie Robinson, were up late watching TV. There was a knock at the door. Lucretia turned on the porch light and saw a stranger standing there. She turned off the light, went to the telephone and called the police. They arrived within five minutes and one officer came into the house to talk with Lucretia and Hallie, while the other officer searched the premises. Whoever the stranger was, he had gone on his way. Lucretia told the officer that she was standing just inside the door with an ax handle in her hand and if the intruder had forced his way into the house before the police arrived, she was going to "top" him on the head. She manages many things and does a good job of it.

To this gentle woman, we wish a full year with many visits from relatives and friends and may she add some new friends to her list.

MOUNT VERNON, KENTUCKY 40456

VOLUME 96 - NUMBER 26

Thursday, February 3, 1983

The new bridge spanning the Rockcastle River at Livingston was opened to public traffic Monday. The old bridge in the background is being dismantled.

Livingston bridge is falling down as new one opens

Progress made its visible mark on Livingston Monday with the opening of the new concrete bridge that spans the Rockcastle River. The bridge was opened to traffic Monday and the old bridge was closed.

Some Livingston residents will view the dismantling of the old bridge with a bit of sadness. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mounts of Livingston remember when the bridge was brought to Livingston about 1921. Mr. Mounts said the bridge was an old railroad bridge which spanned the Kentucky River at Ford, Kentucky, an old logging town about 10 miles South of Winchester. The L&N railroad, he said, gave it to the state because the bridge was not up to increased railroad tonnage. The all-steel bridge was brought to Livingston on a train and installed by state workers. The abutments were built by stone masons who Mounts said created something artful back in those days. The new concrete he says has "no art". Even if the design of the old bridge were not a distinctly beautiful piece of construction it is important for its historical value.

Mounts said he understands the bridge is to be cut up and used for smaller bridges. Mounts crossed the old bridge many times while it spanned the Kentucky River.

Regional jail to include Rockcastle County studied

The possibility of a regional jail to include Rockcastle, Madison, Jackson, Clark, Garrard and Estill counties is being discussed by county judge executives and others connected with county governments in the six counties.

Recently a task-force named to study the concept met at E.K.U. and endorsed the idea. According to Judge Executive Harold Botner of Madison County, the jail is a long way off, but it is a problem that needs to have a solution ready to present when the time comes.

Dr. Charles Reedy, of the faculty of the College of Law Enforcement at Eastern, spoke to the group, and said the time to make the recommendation to the state will be in about two years.

Dr. Reedy said that up to 90 percent of the funds for the proposed regional jail could come from the State under a recent law which added a $5 fee to court costs. The money was designated to be used for renovation and construction of jails. Supposedly, the state will wait until $2 million has been collected before the money is appropriated.

Until the current fiscal year, the county jail expenditures were included in the county's general budget. This year, the jail budget became separate, according to state law.

Revitalization meeting set

The next phase of the Downtown Revitalization Project will be reported to the Mt. Vernon City Council at their next regular meeting to be Monday, February 14 at City Hall.

Representatives from Proctor-Davis-Ray of Lexington will present sketches and drawings, and recommended plans for an overall design and upgrading of Mt. Vernon's business buildings.

Tommy Hodges, president of the City of Mt. Vernon Local Development Corporation stated the sketches will show Main and he was working in the area, then ironically it was brought to his hometown and he crossed it many more times.

Rockcastle County's jail budget for 1982-83 was set at $112,872.68. Of that amount, $81,434 is supposed to come from the state and $31,438.68 from county funds.

In previous years operation of the jail has come from fees collected. The county paid for cleaning supplies and other incidentals and purchased a washer and dryer.

Judge executive Bob Jasper who was named as one of the members of the task force to formulate plans for the regional jail said he hopes the jail will be built in as central a location as possible to make it convenient to all counties.

Judge Botner said Tuesday in a telephone interview that he sees the regional jail as solving many of the current jail problems in the counties. He said habitual criminals and those sentenced to long periods of time could be more adequately housed in

Local company gets building bid

A total of five bids were submitted to the Rockcastle County Health Board recently by construction companies who were interested in building the planned public health facility.

According to Jerry Cox, county health board member, Bull-Wel Development Corporation of Brodhead submitted the low bid of $130,591.50 to construct the

Pie supper for Cancer Society

The Rockcastle Unit of the American Cancer Society will be sponsoring a Pie Supper at the Mt. Vernon Elementary School lunchroom Saturday, February 5 at 7 p.m.

There will also be a Prettiest Lady-Ugliest Man Contest and trophies for each winner. Other activities will be a cake walk and a door prize.

Rockcastle Fiscal Court approves sale of Industrial Revenue Bonds

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court read and initially approved an ordinance issuing the sale of $800,000 in Industrial Revenue bonds to build a 60,000 square foot addition to Mt. Vernon Plastics its Tuesday morning meeting.

Industrial Revenue bonds to build a 60,000 square foot addition to Mt. Vernon Plastics its Tuesday morning meeting. Ikerd and Associates, a partnership headed by Jerry Ikerd, board chairman of the Bank of Mt. Vernon were represented in the request for the bond sale by Charles Muscile, an attorney with Reuben and Hayes, a law firm in Louisville.

The court is to meet again on February 17 to grant final approval of sale of the bonds. The representative said the sale does not in any way make the county responsible but lends the county's name to the developer in order that the money can be borrowed at a rate lower than from banks.

Authority was granted Judge Jasper to arrange for an extension with William K. Bullen to provide garbage collection. Bullen's contract is to expire March 1. The judge was also authorized to meet with an engineer and find a suitable county land fill since the one being used now is filled to near capacity.

Only one bid was submitted to construct a chain link fence around the county garage property. The bid of $6,894.00 for the project was accepted. B.J. Brown of Cumberland Fence Company, Lawrence Hill, submitted the bid. The contract will be officially awarded March 1. The contractor has ten days after that time to begin and 60 days to finish the job. The time lapse will give the county time to get some bulldozer work done around the building.

The group leasing the Brodhead Fairgrounds for the Little World's Fair this summer presented the court a check for $2,627, an amount which represents one half of the base payment for the lease. Frank Martin, who presented the check to Judge Jasper, pointed out that the track lights are becoming obsolete and it is almost impossible to find bulbs to fit them. He said the poles and crossbars were also rotting and need repair badly. The court agreed to take a look at the poles and consider repair at a later date.

The court voted to accept a check for $250.00 from D.A. Robbins as payment for rent on a barn located on the fairgrounds. Robbins had brought the check to Judge Jasper days earlier and told him that if he could get a better price to tear up his check. The court agreed not to advertise the barn for rent.

Two complaints surfaced at the Tuesday meeting. A trailer belonging to Milton Swinney which allegedly is parked on the right-of-way on Sigmon Hill had been ordered moved by the court in earlier action. The court had authorized attorney Jim Lambert to write Swinney a letter advising him to move the obstruction. Mr. Swinney was in attendance at the meeting and said he had tried to move it but had had to widen the road in order to do so. He said he had a man with a wrecker hired to move it but the ground had remained too soft and wet to allow him to move it. After some discussion, it was decided to give Swinney a seven day extension providing he was certain to have the trailer moved by next Tuesday. Lambert told Swinney after next Tuesday he would not refuse to issue warrants to people on all the calls who have been complaining, since the obstruction was a criminal offense.

David Poynter of Poynter's Garage and Lewis Cromer of Cromer's Body Shop, two garages located on Ky. 461 in Rockcastle County came before the court to complain because they said the dispatcher at the jail was sending out accident calls for a wrecker mainly to John Eaton of Central Body. They said they felt it was unfair for one man to accept all the calls. Poynter maintained that the dispatcher called the wrecker first and then the state police and that an accident involving out of state cars, in which he is sure there is no preference, the dispatcher still calls.

Members of the court told Poynter and Cromer they could only recommend to the jail and recommended to them that they talk personally with Henry

Board meets and helps PTA

The Rockcastle School Board approved a $1,500 expenditure to finance one of the total cost of a public address system for Brodhead Grade School. Board member Willie Taylor requested the matching money from the board on behalf of the Brodhead PTA. The PTA, through various fund raisers, has another $1,500 to spend on the equipment.

A contract with Simplex Corporation of Lexington, was approved. The company will replace the master clock and controller at Rockcastle County High School at a cost of $1,745 with trade-in of old clock.

The purchase of an additional used van bus was approved. The van will be purchased from Blue Grass Bus Sales of Covington, for approximately $5,000.

In other business, the board granted GED certificates for Linda Joann Ashley and Janet Mae Mason and approved the advertising for the following: sidewalk construction along school property on the old Brodhead Road, lunchroom supplies, an food and fire and extended coverage insurance on buildings.

Superintendent Charles Parsons said that the Citizens' Bank at Brodhead had requested a share in any investments of school funds such as time deposits and Certificates of Deposit. The board voted approval of the request, however, Parsons said it would have to be limited to the amount of collateral each depository bank puts up.

Audits for fiscal year 1982 were viewed by board members. The audit was done by Griffin, Greer and Company, accountants. Members also signed "no interest" statements at the suggestion of the auditor.

Ballard Parsons enjoys his country store

By Nancy Mullins

Fate dealt Ballard Parsons a stifling blow back in 1952, a blow that would cause those with less grit, determination and optimism to give up. But Ballard, forty-two years a resident of the Wildlife community, does not lack those qualities and certainly hasn't given up.

On July 4, over 30 years ago, Ballard and his younger sister, Libby, contracted the uncontrolled and feared disease, polio. Libby, who was nine years old, had a light case. She spent only a week in the hospital and was not crippled.

Ballard's case, however, was one of the most severe ones. He spent four weeks in an "iron lung" and 42 days at St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington, then was transferred to Cardinal Hill Hospital for crippled children for treatment and therapy.

He was released June 12 of the following year, after a total of 11 months and six days away from home.

Polio was a mysterious and often deadly disease in the early 1950's before a vaccine was discovered. The swimmers where "a bunch of us were always together swimming in the creek" as Ballard remembers, were tested for some kind of proof of contamination. None was found.

Ballard was twelve years old and a student in the sixth grade when he had the disease. He later received a high school diploma with the help of a homebound teacher.

I would like to ask the help of your paper and your readers. I have worked for several years to secure and compile information on the Deaton's, all lines, not just my own. I find that there were Deatons in Rockcastle County. Of these, I understand that the name of Rose. It is possible that some descendants of these names are still in Rockcastle County.

Also, on the personal side, I also work on these names, my own line: Atlee, Prescott, Moore and Lee. Other than Deaton, I only know I might have been in Kentucky was the Moore's. Also, I work on my wife's line: Minor, Mitchum, Moore and Alexander. So anyone with any information, these lines are the ones I hope to hear from.

Also, in my searching, I have been in contact with people working these names that connect with Deaton and Moore through marriages: Amis, Baker, Combs, Davidson, Evans, Haddix, Johnson, Parker, Raleigh, Sizemore, Stidham, Spencer, Turner, Watts and White, to name a few. Anyone interested may write and I'll be glad to furnish names and addresses of those working these names and others, these most heavy...

Sincerely,

Dear Editor:

In response to Mr. Eversole's statement that the letter I wrote concerning trapping was good examples of well meaning people who do not understand trapping. On the contrary, I do understand and I am still convinced it is an inhumane practice. Trapping is cruel and animals will chew their way off in an effort to escape. I know, for I have seen it. Furthermore, there are not enough coyotes in this area to warrant their destruction.

by trap or otherwise. As to their being a threat to the fox population, I suppose we should believe that the trap is not. My guess is that the traps the coyotes were caught in were actually set for a fox.

My father-in-law, Bluff Sexton, is an avid fox hunter and he is totally opposed to trapping, as are many other hunters. Hundreds of them traveled to Frankfort to speak to the Governor in an effort to stop trapping in Kentucky. Another thing that they are upset about is the fact that many of their dogs wind up caught in these "carefully" placed traps.

I would like to thank Mr. Eversole for pointing out that the National Wildlife Federation publishes a booklet on trapping. I urge people to support the Fund For Animals instead. They are actively protesting the practice of trapping. Their address is:

The Fund for Animals, Inc.
140 W. 57th St.
New York City, New York

I agree we have to find a way to exist with our wildlife in a compatible way but I still firmly believe trapping is grossly unnecessary. There is no humane way to trap, I don't care how carefully it is done. If I did not believe as strongly as I do, I would not have replied to Mr. Eversole's letter. We have two very conflicting points of view here and I respect his right to his opinion. He wrote a very convincing letter, but what I have seen with my own eyes convinced me long ago of the horrors of trapping.

STATE LEGISLATURE

By Senator John Rogers

In just a little less than a year, Kentucky's General Assembly will convene its 1984 regular legislative session.

Already the legislature's interim committee system is beginning to study and review numerous bills that will be considered during the 1984 session.

As of January 27th, eight bills have been filed for the 1984 legislature's consideration.

Only a state representative or senator can prefile a bill. State legislators prefile bills in order to afford all interested citizens an ample opportunity to study various bills and budgetary proposals.

Although many of the pre-filed bills and proposals that are being discussed are worth, there is one particular bill that is of the utmost importance.

I am referring to the pre-filed bills that will establish the Kentucky Agriculture Finance Corporation as a public corporation. This corporation will be authorized to issue revenue bonds for the purpose of making loans to or purchasing loans of agriculture enterprises to stimulate existing and new agricultural ventures.

Also, the bill would create a 12-member board to administer the corporation and provide for its formation. This corporation would be required to annually report to the governor and the General Assembly.

This measure is now being reviewed by the interim joint committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources.

The important thing about this bill is that it will provide state government a way of lending some much needed financial support to help preserve our family farms. Of course, the family farm is the backbone of both Kentucky and America, and it is time for state government to hold up its end.

ARCHERY MEET AND OFFICERS ELECTION

lard runs his own business, Parsons' Grocery, located on "the strip" in Wildie next door to Wildie General Store.

He does a pretty fair business, he says, selling staples, and running a pool table for a quarter a game. His customers are men and they never run out of conversation and Ballard never gets tired of company.

"There is always some body coming in to tell tales and share news. And near election time, all the talk is about the election."

It is a good place to loaf," he says with a smile, "especially in the winter time when farmers are least busy." That is also the time of year his pool table sees the most action.

Ballard loves what he does. "Sunday (when the store is closed) is the longest day I spend," he reflects.

Before his dad, Shirley Parsons, died in 1970, Ballard helped in the store

Shirley began running in 1953. Now, his brother, Donnie, who lives upstairs over the store, transports him to and from the store. Since 1970 Ballard has had the store by himself.

Donnie farms the 135 acres located about a half mile from the store that their father once farmed. If his health had permitted, Ballard thinks he would probably have been a farmer, too. Another brother, Bill Jack, teaches school in Rockcastle and his two sisters, Gail and Libby, live out of county. Ballard lives with his mother, Ruth Brannaman Parsons within view of his store.

Through the store, the daily newspaper and the T.V., Ballard is able to keep abreast of everything and says he doesn't feel like he is missing out on anything. Two of his main interests are Kentucky baseball and Cincinnati Reds baseball, on which he keeps close tabs with the TV at his store.

Cox said the firm has 180 days from initial construction to complete the building, according to the contract.

He said county jails can and will not be done away with, but sees the county jail as becoming more of a transportation officer.

"The timing of the task force is good," he said.

"because we can be ready when the guidelines for appropriating the money are established."

Street buildings, recommendations for vacant lots, the city park, suggestions for more parking facilities and landscaping for the business area.

Mayor Roland Mullins has called the meeting for 7 p.m.-just before the regular city council meeting and extends an invitation to all business people who own or operate a business in the Mt. Vernon area to attend the meeting. He stated the work of the Downtown Revitalization Project is to make Mt. Vernon a more attractive city and to try to make Mt. Vernon a better place to shop and live.

Another phase of the Revitalization program has been that of getting Mt. Vernon registered with the Kentucky and National Historical Societies in an effort to apply for grants. Floyd Owens, project director of the program, reported he has been collecting old photos, maps and history of the early days of Mt. Vernon to be filed with the two historical groups.

Mr. Owens stated he would like to borrow, for copying, any old photos, maps or history pertaining to Mt. Vernon buildings, reporting he would return original information to owners after copies are made for his report.

Lee Abney, jailer, and try to get an understanding and some consideration from him.

In other business the court voted to purchase a metal office desk from Henry Brown for the Brown precinct voting house. The price of the desk was $50.00. Alex Albright said he liked to see something before he bought it and suggested they look at it, however, Tom Denny made the motion to go ahead and buy it. Joe Clark seconded the motion and Donald Rowe voted in favor.

John Bruner representing the Cumberland Valley Area Development District met with the court to take care of some "housekeeping" matters as he referred to two items which were quickly approved. Approved was an affirmative action measure in which the court agreed to attempt to provide employment for blacks in the lower income bracket when possible. Also approved was a procurement policy agreeing to advertise public contract bids any amount spent in excess of $7,500.

Magistrate Tom Denny brought up the subject of working all county road workers four days straight and allow them to be off Fridays as well as the week end (workers are now working a 32 hour week which is staggered 5 days a week). After some discussion the motion was made and approved to leave workers on the same schedule they now work.

Magistrate Donald Rowe registered a complaint about the use of creek gravel on county roads. Judge Jasper reminded the court of the fact that they were behind with payment to Kentucky Stone at present and that creek gravel is cheaper and better than nothing. He said, "we only have so much money to

We're winning the race against Rheumatic Heart Disease.

Today, thanks partly to the efforts of the American Heart Association, the death rate from rheumatic heart disease has declined more than 70 percent since 1950.

For decades, the American Heart Association's educational programs have taught parents about the dangers and prevention of rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease in young children.

The effort was worth it. Your gift to the American Heart Association can mean life and hope for many. Perhaps someone close to you.

Support the American Heart Association. We're fighting for your life.

Hospital Focus...

RCH Fights Infection

By Leigh Anne Hiett

In many ways a hospital is one of the cleanest places you can find. This is the reason that the Rockcastle County Hospital practices infection control.

Cindy Burton, a registered nurse at the hospital has been in charge of their infection control program for the past two years. She explained the term "infection control."

"Doing everything possible to prevent hospital acquired illness," said Mrs. Burton. "The illnesses may include urinary tract infections, post-operative wound infections, respiratory infections, food-borne illnesses, or hepatitis. All departments in the hospital must work together to prevent infection in patients, staff and visitors."

Mrs. Burton gave several reasons why infection control is so important to a hospital. "Because it is vital to a patient's well-being. Infections can lengthen a patient's stay and increase hospital charges. What you are in the hospital you are exposed to many germs that you would not normally be exposed to in your daily life-style."

Infections occur in hospitals because many people are treated in close quarters and micro-organisms are present. Frequent contacts are made between people who have an illness and people who are healthy and vulnerable to infection. Also, large amounts of contaminated waste, equipment and supplies must be handled and processed.

How does Mrs. Burton help control these factors that contribute to infection? "I routinely check all culture reports on all patients seen at our hospital to keep track of any infectious problems that could develop within our hospital," she said. "I also routinely check for possible sources of infection for our hospital for patient contamination. If any communicable diseases are discovered at the hospital, we as the emergency room, it is my responsibility to report these to the health department. I insist on keeping all the employees aware of their responsibilities in the prevention of the spread of infection within the hospital."

How does the hospital maintain infection-free conditions? "Cleanliness is the key to infection control," answered Mrs. Burton. "All departments are involved in our infection control program with each department having specific routines to prevent the spread of infection in their department. Handwashing is the single most effective way to prevent infection."

The hospital has an Infection Control Committee which meets on a monthly basis. They examine the monthly Infection Surveillance Report at each meeting. These reports include copies of environmental cultures, sterilizer reports, patient culture reports, isolation reporting forms, and any health department reports. The Infection Control Committee consists of Dr. F.J. Monteyne (the committee chairman), the infection control nurse, and all of the department heads.

Mrs. Burton enjoys her job as infection control nurse. "It is a challenge to understand why some organisms are growing in some areas and how to prevent this, and to be able to relate certain germs to certain diseases in the hospital."

by: perlina m. anderkin

Sometimes, I feel I am "snake-bit" and sometimes I just feel like a snake. In the Signal last week, I reported that the Rockcastle County Rockets beat Somerset 72-70. Of course, you always try to write these articles as though you sat there enthralled through the entire game. I didn't. By the time I follow Paige around and watch her play on the "B" team and primarily decorate the bench on the "A" team, I don't have time to be "enthralled" by the boys, too. Anyway, I must need new glasses because I looked at the scorebook wrong and actually the Rockets got beat 80-72. Oh well, at least I got the Rockets-Generals score right although Coach Denney might have preferred I mess that score up.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS' JANUARY REPORT

The Rockcastle County Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, January 26, 1983. This month's meeting focused on exercise and good nutrition. In an effort to stress good nutrition, snacks from the basic four food groups were provided for the members at the meeting. The FHA Club held its monthly birthday party on the 29th of January at the Sowerby Nursing Home in Brodhead. Those celebrating a birthday this month were Kean Farley and Thirise Taylor. Also celebrating a birthday this month was Mr. Johnny Lakes. Mr. Lakes wasn't able to attend the party, but we would like to add that he turned 104 on the 2nd day of January. One week out of each year is set aside as National FHA Week. This year, it is February 6-12. Each day of the school week, our members recognize the FHA Week through special activities set aside for that day. (Example: On Monday, February 7th, all members will be encouraged to wear something of red and white. On Tuesday, all members will be asked to wear a red ribbon. A different activity will be planned for each day.

Vickie McGuire, Reporter

As most of you may now be aware, Jim and I bought the Jackson County Sun and took over publication the first of November, 1982. We have been traveling to McKee almost everyday while Rick, Nancy and Nita have been holding down the fort in Mt. Vernon. We love it. After a while, you tend to get stale doing the same thing over and over and now, at least, its a deadline every week in a different county. The rare occasions when I am back here for the day; however, I feel as though I have been on a journey and finally returned home. Not living in Jackson County, you have a hard time getting to know people personally and it's a little hard constantly seeing people whom you cannot place in their little niche in your mind. I have learned one thing though. When I came to Rockcastle County in 1966, I spent the first year extracting foot from mouth because I was constantly forgetting who was kin to whom. In Jackson, if I decide to make a comment on someone's personality, I make very sure first I am not talking to their first cousin six times removed. When we bought the Sun, we told the girls we would be moving to Jackson County and you would have thought we had just announced that they were all illegitimate. Jane dissolved in tears while trying to point out that she was a junior in high school and how traumatic it would be to make the switch at that point. Paige was stoic. But, there was that look in her eye that said quite clearly, "I'll get you for this." Sara, without hesitation or tears, said "No." Jamie got snippy and informed us that it didn't matter to her since she could just stay at Eastern all the time. Rick was all for it since it would have gotten us out of his hair at the Signal and we didn't ask Travis, who at 2 1/2 might not have had an opinion anyway.

Johnson Grass

Johnson grass has traditionally been the most difficult weed to control in Kentucky's corn crop. In addition to two recent surveys have indicated it to be the most common and troublesome weed to control in all of Kentucky's agronomic crops. Because it is such a difficult weed to control, much weed control research has centered on this species.

Johnson grass is a perennial plant that reproduces by seed and rhizomes. Any weed control program must be oriented to providing control of both of these reproductive systems.

The number of Johnson grass seed produced per plant is variable, but usually 200 to 300 seed per panicle can be expected. With a heavy infestation, several million Johnson grass seed per acre can be produced. These seed can remain viable in the soil for many years. This seed reservoir in the soil presents the greatest challenge in developing a long term management program. Johnson grass seed usually begin to germinate when the soil temperature approaches 70 degrees. New plants arising from seed will start to produce rhizomes 3 to 4 weeks after they emerge from the soil.

Rhizomes are underground stems and will initiate new growth from the soil temperature has reached 60 degrees. This node, or joint, along a rhizome contains a bud which can produce a new plant. When one bud on a rhizome develops into a plant, it keeps the other buds dormant until the new plant separates from the rhizome, at which time dormant buds may start to develop or produce new plants. Rhizomes supply food to the developing plant until it is capable of producing new growth on its own. From this point on, the new plant grows in the same manner as a plant that arises from a seed. Rhizome growth is most rapid after a seed head has formed and continues until frost.

New plants produced from rhizomes are considered more difficult to control chemically than those arising from seed because of their size and food supply within the rhizome. Rhizomes can exist in the soil for only a year or two before decaying, and as a result, are not a long-term control problem as are seed.

In general, plants arising from rhizomes emerge from the soil approximately one month before those arising from seed. Knowing and understanding these biological data on Johnson grass is the key to developing a weed control system that will work.

In a survey of several corn fields in Kentucky's 1981 Integrated Pest Management Program, it was noted that the first Johnson grass emerged in Western Kentucky on May 20 and in Central Kentucky on June 11. In 1982, these dates were May 17 and May 25. These dates of emergence correspond approximately with the dates at which the soil temperature reached 70 degrees. It should be noted that the corn planting usually starts in early to mid-April in Western Kentucky and late April to early May in Central Kentucky. For herbicides to be successful in controlling Johnson grass, the herbicides must last for several weeks in the soil. Soil temperatures and the role it plays in initiating seed germination and rhizome growth are most important for developing sound weed control programs.

For the past several years, two main herbicides have been used for Johnson grass control in corn. These herbicides have provided good early season control but of short duration, usually four to six weeks. Taking into account this short duration it has been recommended that planting corn in heavily infested Johnson grass fields be delayed until the first week of May. This would ensure that the maximum amount of herbicide would be in the soil when the Johnson grass seed germinates. Delaying planting does improve control, but another alternative is to use chemicals which last longer in the soil and provide the longest duration of Johnson grass control.

As you plan this year's corn crop, visit the County Extension Office or local dealer and discuss the recommended herbicides and application methods.

The Rockcastle County 4-H Demonstration and Illustrated Talks Contest will be held at Roundstone Elementary School on March 7th at 6 p.m. Ribbons will be awarded to participating 4-H'ers and county winners from each category will compete in the area contest on March 19 in London.

Demonstrations and Illustrated talks provide a practical experience for 4-H'ers in organizing and presenting information to others. Poise and self-confidence are also developed as 4-H'ers present their demonstration or illustrated talk to the audience and judges.

The time limit for demonstrations or illustrated talks is 15 minutes (exception: breads 20 minutes). A list of potential topics can be obtained by contacting the County Extension Office.

All 4-H'ers are encouraged to participate in the demonstration and illustrated talk contest. To register for the contest, call the County Extension Office at 256-2403 by March 2nd.

How To Salvage Canned Foods That Freeze

When home-canned foods freeze, what should you do? Look them over carefully first and you may find you can salvage most of the food. Don't put off this chore. When food freezes in either a home-canning jar or commercial can, it puts extra stress on the container. This can result in food poisoning if you eat these foods. That's why you need to go into action before the foods thaw completely. If there is no sign that the seal has broken, the food should be fine.

Danger Signs

To help you decide whether or not your accidentally-frozen canned foods are safe to eat, you should check for the following, some of which may not be evident until the food starts to thaw:

- Signs of leakage
- Cracked or broken jars
- Cracked or broken jaws (throw food away)
- Spurting liquid, molds or off-odors (throw food away)
- Bulging cans
- Split seams in pans

What To Do
If jar seals leak, the can may have split, the foods can usually be salvaged if they are still icy cold. Refrigerate them immediately and eat them up within a few days.

If there are a large number of broken seals, but you still consider the foods safe, you could repackage them immediately in freezer containers and store them in your home freezer. Label them clearly: "Frozen - Home Canned Beans", for instance, so as not to confuse them with your other freezer foods.

When you're ready to use these frozen canned foods, boil vegetables and meats for 10 minutes before tasting or eating them. Boil corn and spinach for 10 minutes. This is a precaution against botulism poisoning, and it's a recommendation for all home-canned meats and vegetables.

If your jars or cans of accidentally-frozen food show no damage, thaw them at room temperature. If any cans remain bulged after thawing, discard them.

Safer Storage Needed

Find a better storage place for all your canned goods, because they won't be subjected to freezing and thawing again. Each time they freeze, they will deteriorate some in quality and texture. This will also be more danger of the seals breaking next time.

When the mercury dips, the electricity goes up, and your fuel supplies are low, your canned foods may need further protection with blankets or layers of newspaper.
