

Two receive minor injuries in Pulaski auto accident

Two Rockcastle Countyans received minor injuries in an accident in Pulaski County recently.

Daryl McPherson, 28, of Rt. 1, Mt. Vernon, was treated for cuts to the head and face and released from Humana Hospital-Lake Cumberland, according to a hospital spokesman. The driver, Bobby Smith, 30, also of Rt. 1, Mt. Vernon, received cuts to the face and head but declined treatment, officers said.

The two were in a Jeep that struck another vehicle driven by Donald Griffith, 17, of East Ky. 80, which pulled from a private driveway across all four lanes of Ky 80 to Garner School Road. Smith's Jeep, traveling west, struck the truck in the right rear, spun around and rolled three times. Both McPherson and Smith were thrown clear of the vehicle. They were not wearing seat belts at the time and the top of the Jeep was flattened as it had only a cloth top and no roll bar.

Griffith, who was not injured, allegedly told police he did not see the Jeep as he pulled out.

FISCAL COURT

probably until the new garbage bin is approved. Judge Thacker voted "no."

In another action, the court voided a contract with New Way Security, a Harrodsburg firm that has been remodeling the county jail.

The court heard that over a year ago New Way had taken $12,000 that was earmarked for the construction and had not been heard from since.

A grant of $39,000 was approved by the state to remodel the jail and about $30,000 still remains.

Brad Black, of the Kentucky Corrections Cabinet, said that work should resume on the jail as soon as possible, or the money could be reclaimed by the state and the jail closed since it does not meet state standards.

"Work should be started soon," Black said. "I wouldn't think you'd want to lose the remaining $30,000." The court agreed.

After a plea by Jailer Billy Kirby, the court approved a pay raise for deputy jailers from $3.35 an hour to $4 an hour. Judge Thacker had suggested $3.75.

The court then raised the pay of the county road department meeting to report the Rural Secondary Road program in Rockcastle will receive $328,550 this year. He said the money will go for maintenance of all state roads and major patching will be done on Ky. 1788 (Disputanta area), Ky. 1912 (Climax area) and Ky. 1004 (Brush Creek area).

The county road fund will receive about $282,000 for work on county roads during the fiscal year. That fund is up about $26,700 over last year.

In a series of votes, the court:

- Authorized Judge Thacker to advertise for bids on various handicap projects at the courthouse.
- Approved repairs to the courthouse roof by Hendricks Roofing Co., not to exceed $1,000.
- Approved the Citizens Bank of Brodhead for depositary of taxes collected by Sheriff Clarence "Jib" Hasty.
- Approved $2,500 for three dump trucks and a gravel spreader that were on sale by the Department of Transportation in Frankfort. The magistrates agreed it was a bargain.

controversial would be an amendment that would allow voters' the right to vote on a state lottery. It has passed a House committee and lies in the Senate where approval is expected.

Another amendment would allow state prisoners to participate in work release programs.

Eighteen amendments have been submitted, but not all will make it through the House and Senate and get the approval of the governor.

they consume plenty of calcium. Consume more milk, yogurt and cheese.

Iron. Despite old claims about iron-poor blood, elderly people need no more, and they may need less iron than they did when they were young. Good food sources are still important—red meat, organ meats, soybeans, shellfish, enriched grain products and dried fruits.

Zinc. Supplement of this mineral have received a popular following for any number of reasons, ranging from preventing and treating infertility to treating cardiovascular disease. Those claims are unsubstantiated.

HILTON HOME

Durham bought it from Lyons. After Mr. Durham died in 1925 and Mrs. and Mrs. Durham in 1939, their son Austin and wife Joyce lived there until 1943 when they sold it to Dora Ball, who in 1946 sold it to Jess Cummins.

Although the house is 83 years old, it is not the oldest house remaining in Mt. Vernon. Some say the oldest is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leach at the southeast corner of U.S. 150 and Richmond Street.

When Rita Aid, a Walgreen-Betty's drug firm based in Harrisonburg, Pa., arrives, another old home along the street is gone, and Mrs. Hilton can watch as bulldozers knock it down. She will be living in her new home just down the street in property once owned by Howard and Maureen Egan.

"They (drug firm) wanted me out by Saturday, so I suppose they'll move in here anytime to build," Mrs. Hilton said. "They have 1,400 stores in the nation, two in Lexington and one in Mt. Sterling, that I know of. It's a major drug firm."

"Does it make you sad to see the house torn down?" she was asked.

"Well, there are pleasant memories, and it seems like after nearly 40 years in one place, I've been here for a lifetime."

just couldn't offset the lower prices," Boswell said.

Even with fewer acres in production, tobacco still ranked first in value among Kentucky crops, with a projected total worth of $709 million. Tobacco accounted for 42 percent of the value of all crops.

The $709 million is down 28 percent from 1984 and reflects an average price of $18.80 per hundredweight as compared with $18.20 in 1984.

Kentucky accounted for 28 percent of the U.S. value of tobacco production, ranking second only to North Carolina, which accounted for 37 percent.

Corn for grain ranked second to tobacco with a value of $406 million. This is compared with $412 million in 1984. Value per bushel for the 1985 crop is expected to average $2.55 for the marketing year of Oct. 1, 1985 to Sept. 30, 1986.

Hay ranked third among Kentucky crops with a value of $287 million. Hay was followed by sugarcane at $226 million.

For the entire United States, all crops for 1985 were valued at $75.5 billion, down 5 percent from 1984.

Willie Brooks will graduate from nurse's training in May and will return home for a job in a local hospital. He is the son of Edna Hiter, formerly Edna Allen, of Red Hill, and the grandson of the late Alfred and Delia Allen of Red Hill. He is the stepson of Junior Hiter of Harrodsburg.

The Young Indians

The wind was gently blowing,
The sky was baby blue.
Their hearts were full of sadness,
But their lasting love was true.

Young, daring and carefree,
They said they'd never part,
But some things just aren't meant to be,
And they knew it from the start.

They knew the trouble their love had caused,
But they went against their tribal vows
To find the love they sought.

They had hoped against all hope
That their tribes would soon find peace,
But deep inside they knew that soon
Their lives would have to cease.

To them it seemed the only way
For eternal peace and love
To go to the Happy Hunting Ground

Hand in hand, they went together
To the canyons rocky floor,
All their pain and suffering over,
Together forevermore.

Gone now and forgotten,
But their love will always last,
One young brave and one young squaw,
A part of the distant past.

Your child's health

By: Dr. John Payne

Don't blame it on Daddy! Almost every Monday I get a call from some divorced or separated mother whose children have had visiting rights with Daddy over the weekend and who now have a runny nose, earache or other common illness. Very often it is reported that "Daddy didn't make her wear a hat or eat right or go to bed on time or whatever," and now she is sick. Almost as often I get a call around the beginning of a weekend from Daddy who is just picking up the kids for his weekend visiting reporting that Junior has a rash, looks pale, has bad breath, or acts funny. Of course, the estranged mother is blamed for whatever.

Kids have enough trouble learning to cope with changing family patterns in this country. They shouldn't have their common childhood illnesses brought into the cauldron of bad feelings about the divorce. It is a known fact that children undergoing such family upheaval are likely to have more illness relating to stress. This includes not only such obvious things as chronic stomach aches and insomnia and bad dreams, but also there is likely to be an increase in sore throats, colds and other infectious illness. As we discussed recently there is new medical evidence that some of the body's immunologic defenses are decreased in times of psychological stress.

Of course, there may be situations where one parent or the other does place the child in danger, either through actual abuse or more often through careless lifestyle, such as bad driving, drinking, etc. In some cases the child should be protected. However, in the vast majority of cases the child is loved and cared for by both parents and the illness in question was going to develop no matter who was caring for them.

The Medicine Chest

By: Tina Cain Hasty RPH

Drugs are often essential in patient care, but their use can sometimes be risky if they are not taken correctly. There are many ways to reduce the risks of drug use for safe treatment. Some basic rules for safe drug use are:

—Take only the amount of medicine prescribed by your doctor.

—Never take drugs prescribed for someone else, since drugs produce different effects in different people. Also, different diseases can produce similar symptoms, so your friend's medicine may not treat your disease even if your symptoms are the same.

—Always tell your doctor about any problems you have had with drugs (allergies, unusual side effects, etc.).

—Always tell your doctor any medicines you are taking, including prescription and over-the-counter drugs.

—If you are taking several medicines, it can be helpful to keep a daily record with the drug name, the times for taking it and the amounts to be taken listed for you to take it.

—Make sure you understand the directions printed on the medicine containers.

—Ask your doctor or pharmacist about side effects, rules for storage and if there are any foods to avoid during the medication therapy.

—Always call your doctor promptly if you notice unusual reactions.

—Throw away any old medicines because many drugs lose their effectiveness over time.

Remember that any chemical strong enough to cure an ailment can also cause harm if it is not used wisely. If you have any questions about your medicines, ask your doctor or pharmacist.

Congressman Hal Rogers

Economic development group off to good start

Last week, I announced the formation of a new economic force to help bring in new jobs and new industry to the Fifth District. The excitement this idea has generated is fueling new enthusiasm for the economic future of our region.

One week ago, I was joined by State Commissioner of Economic Development David Lovelace and members of the newly formed "Southern Kentucky Economic Development Council," at a news conference in Frankfort. This new approach to industrial recruiting will use the combined talents of dozens of key people in our district to bring in new industry.

From an initial group of nine, we are now expanding the Council to include representatives of all 27 counties in the Fifth District. Each county chamber of commerce or industrial foundation for if none, the leading community civic or organization is being asked to submit to the Council a list of names. Mayors and county judges are also being consulted. The people nominated should have strong backgrounds in industrial recruiting or economic development. Guidelines help parents determine child exemption

Divorced and separated parents, and parents who have not lived together during the last six months of the calendar year even though they are not divorced or legally separated, should be aware of the new guidelines to help determine which parent can claim the child's dependency exemption on his or her tax return, the Internal Revenue Service said.
 Usually, the parent who has custody of the child for most of the year is treated as the parent who provides more than half the support, entitling him or her to the exemption.
 The noncustodial parent may claim the exemption if the custodial parent signs a written declaration that he or she will not claim the exemption. The declaration must be attached to the noncustodial parent's tax return. The custodial parent should use Form 8332, or a similar statement, to make this written declaration.
 If a divorce, separate maintenance, or other written agreement executed before 1985, and not modified after 1984 to specify that this provision will not apply, states that the noncustodial parent is allowed the exemption and he or she provides at least $600 of support for the child for the calendar year, the noncustodial parent may claim the exemption.

the residue of the previous crop. Conservation tillage is rapidly gaining acceptance, says David Stipes of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service. Thirty percent of America's row crops are now planted under some form of conservation tillage. The USDA predicts that by the year 2000, more than 80 percent of America's farmers will have adopted some type of conservation tillage system. The Corn Belt and Great Lakes States lead the nation in total acreage.

Research on the benefits of conservation tillage and its relation to wildlife are ongoing throughout the country. In Indiana, a cooperative study between the Indiana Department of Natural Resources and the USDA's Soil Conservation Service are examining the effects of no-till farming on the wildlife population in that state.

A three-year field study is gathering information on the technical aspects of conservation tillage, effects of no-till farming on small bird and mammal populations and the influence of nitrogen fixing cover crops. Biologists are concentrating their efforts on such species as bobwhite quail, ring-necked pheasants, rabbits, and song birds. Most Indiana wildlife experts believe that the improved wildlife habitat produced by winter cover crops and residue from no-till may hold and produce wildlife in areas where intensive farming had removed suitable habitat and discouraged wildlife.

 The first year's work showed 33 different kinds of birds, in the 21 fields being studied. No-till fields had the largest variety and number of birds.

Field data gathered indicate that fall chisel tillage significantly reduces the number of desirable wildlife species about as much as fall moldboard plowing. No-till corn shows the highest winter use by wildlife. Ground nesting species favor no-till fields with cover crops for spring nesting.

Farming methods affect habitat in many ways. Growing the same crop year after year reduces the diversity of plant cover and the variety of wildlife. Moldboard plowing, the practice which is falling from favor throughout many parts of the country, buries grain and residues that can provide food or cover for wildlife. Overgrazing by domestic livestock also results in less food and cover for wildlife.

For more information and conservation practices that benefit wildlife, contact the local office of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service at the Rockcastle County Courthouse or by calling 256-2541.

A major slide on US 25 at the Rockcastle-Madison counties line at Boone covered most of the road until highway department employees pushed it into the ditchline. Bill Wren, driving a pick-up truck, struck the rocks, damaging his tires. He was not injured.

Five local people in Sunday wreck

One man was hospitalized following a two-car collision on Hwy. 70 about noon Sunday.

According to state police reports, Mrs. Mary C. McWhorter of Brodhead pulled from a side road onto 70 into the path of an oncoming vehicle driven by Ricky Thomas Fry of near Mt. Vernon.

A passenger in the McWhorter vehicle, John Craig, reportedly suffered several broken ribs in the accident. Mrs. McWhorter, Mr. Fry, his wife, Barbara, and their daughter, Sheena, all received only minor injuries.

Radio station reported sold

The sale of radio station WRVK, Renfro Valley, has been reported, pending approval by the Federal Communications Commission. The station, owned by Hank Cochran and Hal Smith of Nashville, has been sold to Gosser-White Associates of the Glasgow, Bowling Green area. Cochran and Smith were former owners of the Renfro Valley Bandstand. In the same area, the KOA campground has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wesley of Burnside. The Wesleys own a Baskin-Robbins ice cream shop in Somerset.

Garbage collection occupies fiscal court

By: Ray McClure

Garbage once again reared its messy head during a meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court Tuesday, but after a spirited discussion, the present garbage collection system stayed the same as it was before the discussion began.

Gatlift Craig, executive director of the Cumberland Valley Area Development District (CVADD), told the court a garbage plan for the county should be completed next week and then sent to the state for approval.

He said he did not know how long it would take the state to review the program and approve or disapprove it, but the review and results must be completed by July 1.

Suit against Brodhead dismissed in circuit court

There was good news and bad news for the Brodhead City Council at its regular meeting Monday night.

The good news, however temporary it could be, was that a suit against the City of Brodhead and Policeman Bill Lawrence had been dismissed in Rockcastle Circuit Court on the grounds it was prematurely filed, that is, filed before a drunk-in-public charge in District Court against the plaintiff, Gary Shepherd, was resolved.

Not-so-good news was that Shepherd could re-file the suit at a later date, depending probably on whether he was found innocent of the drunk charge.

Shepherd and David Deborde were arrested Aug. 10 on the Brodhead Fairgrounds by Policeman Lawrence. Deborde's charge of "drunk in a public place" was dismissed in District Court last week for lack of evidence and upon payment of $47.50 court costs. Shepherd is scheduled to be in District Court on Apr. 1 when a trial date will be set. Shepherd has asked for a jury trial.

In his suit, Shepherd charged he was arrested "wrongfully, unlawfully and without probable cause," and asked in excess of $2,500.

It was good news that the city had conferred with the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Agency in Atlanta, Ga. about the city's sewer plant, and now believes the city is meeting its permit requirements.

The city has been singled out several times by the agency and state for allowing affluent from the plant to go into the Dix River.

Under the circumstances, and if the requirements are continued to be met, the city would not have to make physical changes in the plant. The city has applied for a $250,000 block grant to improve the plant but because of funding cuts by Congress, it does not expect to receive the money in the near future, if at all.

The bad news for the council was that its municipal insurance package will expire on May 4, and at the moment there are very few companies that have the insurance available.

The insurance includes general liability, vehicle, workman's compensation, fire, police and public officials' liability.

Donnie Singleton, insurance agent, told the council "right now" he could not offer much hope for obtaining a company willing to write a policy, and if a company did, it would likely cost the city a premium of about $10,000 a year.

Singleton told the council that Brodhead is not alone in its insurance problem, pointing to Mt. Vernon where the same problem occurred recently.

"Insurance companies are gradually going away with municipal insurance," Singleton said. "Each day it becomes more difficult to find a company willing to write a policy, but I'll keep looking."

He said he was aware the Kentucky General Assembly is now considering a bill that would help cities with their insurance, but he was not sure what the final bill would contain, if it is approved.

Local attorneys seek court seat

The May 27 primary took on a local look this week when two attorneys—Carl Clontz and Joseph E. Lambert—filed for a seat on the 28-county Third Supreme Court District, a seat that became vacant with the resignation of Justice J. Calvin Aker.

Whether either Clontz or Lambert will actually be on the primary ballot remains to be seen. Both could withdraw before the final ballot is set for the non-partisan court election.

Clontz could get a head start on the other candidates if he is chosen this week by Gov. Martha Layne Collins to fill the eight-month unexpired term of Judge Aker, who resigned to go into private law practice in London and Manchester.

Clontz is one of three attorneys whose name was chosen by the Kentucky Judicial Nominating Committee to be recommended to the governor.

Lambert, other candidates who have filed for the full term beginning in January include Attorney Norma Adams of Somerset, Circuit Judge Charles R. Laker of London, and Greensburg Attorney Morris R. Butler.

The two top vote getters will face each other in the November General Election.

It will be "smooth sailing" for one other local candidate, incumbent 80th District Representative Danny R. Ford is unopposed in his re-election bid, both in the primary and in November. There is no democrat candidate, so for all practical purposes, Ford is re-elected.

So is Fifth District U. S. Representative, Harold "Hal" Rogers of Somerset. He is unopposed in both the primary and general election. His district includes 27 southeastern Kentucky counties and six precincts in Leslie County.

Democrat U. S. Senator Wendell Ford has no democrat opposition in the primary, but he will have a republican opponent in November. Four republicans are in the primary race. They are Thurman Hamlin of London, Tommy Cline of Louisville, Carl W. Brown of Louisville, and Jackson M. Andrews of St. Matthews.

As many as four—the limited-constititutional amendments could be on the November ballot.

Moving day full of memories

By: Ray McClure

Someone once said, "Moving is a time for memories—the past is never more alive."

Moving can also be a happy time—a change—a new home.

So it is with Gertrude Hilton, who on Saturday moved from her home on Richmond Street after 37 years to make way for a Rite Aid drugstore.

Workmen are expected any day to begin razing the house that was built in 1903 by Charlie C. Davis, popular Mt. Vernon business.

"I always loved to live here,"

Mrs. Hilton reminisced as she waved a hand at all the boxes packed for moving sitting around her living room. "But one person taking care of 11 rooms is just too much. The house is too big and I am not able to take care of it."

Mrs. Hilton, who will be 79 this month, broke her hip in a fall last year, but is making an amazing recovery.

She and her husband Oscar V. Hilton purchased the two-story house in 1940 from the late Jess Cummings for about $11,000, according to records of the property.

After the Hiltons and daughters Rose, Barbara and Sue moved into the house, it was remodeled extensively and brick veneer was added to the outside weatherboard.

"When we came here," Mrs. Hilton recalled, "lots of things in the house were different. We moved the front stairs and rearranged some of the rooms. The heating was by coal grates. Many people had them in those days. I suppose Charlie Davis put them in when he built the house."

According to records of the property, D. H. Lyons purchased the house in 1917 from Charlie Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Austin

Dear Editor:

I would like to state publicly that I am "not" the Carolyn Jones mentioned in the small claims suits printed in last week's Mt. Vernon Signal. I do not know either Pearl Brummett or the Carolyn Jones mentioned in the paper.

However, I would like to make it known to all Rockcastle Countians—those who know me as well as those who do not—that since my husband, Don, and I returned to Kentucky in 1969, I have on numerous occasions been embarrassed and harassed by bill collectors from various businesses who have never frequented. I was once even approached by the sheriff of Madison County at my place of employment for payment of an alleged debt. In all of these circumstances it was proven that I was a victim of a mistaken identity, once the proper authorities had spoken with me; nevertheless, my reputation as an honest and trustworthy individual has surely been damaged in the minds of my acquaintances who have witnessed these accusations.

I feel sure that under these circumstances I have a legitimate reason for speaking up. Obviously, "Carolyn Jones" should be a fairly common name, so several years ago I took the precaution of retaining my maiden name on my personal papers, bank account, and my personal checks.

If anyone within the county has any legal problems in the future with any person named Carolyn Jones, I would urge him or her to insure that blame is placed with the correct one.

Thank you for listening.

Carolyn Travillian Jones

I am writing an article about the fifth annual Brodhead Elementary Invitational Tournament. It started last Monday and went through last Saturday.

Last Monday's opening game was between the Meece Middle School, from over in Somerset, and our own Mt. Vernon Red Devils. Mt. Vernon won 31 to 29 over Meece on a shot at the buzzer by number 14, Josh Morgan. The second game was a cake walk. Mr. Harry Holland's team was not ready. Science Hill Yellow Jackets won 59 to 32.

Tuesday's games. Tyler Cardinals 51, Livingston Blue Devils 35, in the second game. Broughton won knocked out the Brodhead Tigers 49 to 33.

But one bright spot, the Brodhead Elementary cheerleaders won the cheerleading award for the second year in a row. Criticism, criticism, criticism. I don't care what people say—good job judges. Tracy Taylor and your friend, Beth Ann. Congratulations to these ten lovely ladies. They are: eighth graders—Angela McKinev, Angie Bussell, Sherry Jones, Stacy Moore, Derrina Leece, Melinda (Mindy) Sargent; seventh graders—Becky Birney, Michelle Hamm, Robin Mullins; sixth grader—Sonia Morgan.

Saturday night's consolation game. Science Hill 45, Broughton 25. Championship game it was a superb game. Mt. Vernon, 38, Tyler, 35.

Congratulations Mt. Vernon cheerleaders for second place award; also Tyler cheerleaders for third place award, and also Science Hill for fourth place award. Also congratulations to Scott for your roses from your cheerleaders.

How Should We Study the Bible?

Many people read the Bible, but we do not all agree about what it teaches. There are several reasons for this, but one reason is that we do not all study it properly. II Timothy 2:15 teaches us to rightly divide (handle aright). ASV) God's word. One may have an excellent arithmetic book, but he will not understand it if he does not study it properly. So it is with the Bible. What, then, are some principles that we should follow in proper Bible study?

In the first place, we must LOVE THE TRUTH enough to obtain it no matter what the cost may be. "Buy the truth, and sell it not" (Prov. 23:23). In Matt. 13:15 Jesus warned that some did not understand what He taught because they had closed their eyes and ears. They did not like what they were hearing, so they just refused to listen. We must want the truth even if it tells us we have been wrong. Only the truth makes one free (John 8:32).

In the second place, if we are to study the Bible properly, we must be willing to ACCEPT EVERYTHING IT TEACHES as coming from God. It is very dangerous to take part of what God says on a subject and then conclude we have all we need, even though other passages say there is more to it. For this reason, we must be willing to obey God rather than men.

example, some people realize that faith is essential to salvation, but they overlook the passages that teach that baptism is also essential to salvation. In Acts 3:22 we are told that we should hear Jesus "in all things whatsoever He shall say unto you." Jesus said, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved" (Mark 16:16).

Finally, we should remember that God's word is truth (John 17:17), and TRUTH NEVER CONTRADICTS ITSELF. In I Cor. 14:33 we read that "God is not the author of confusion." So if one view of a passage contradicts what is taught in another passage, we should reject that view and look for another idea by which the passages harmonize.

These are just a few of the many principles we need to understand in order to study the Bible properly. "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth" (II Tim. 2:15). Come and study the Bible with us at the Providence church of Christ.

Indictments returned by Grand Jury

Eight indictments were returned by a Rockcastle Circuit Court Grand Jury recently. Three are sealed, pending their appearance before the court.

Indictments released were: Earl Overby, 19, Rt. 1, Mt. Vernon, two counts of theft by unlawful taking over $100; Michael Ray Baker, 19, also of Rt. 1, Mt. Vernon, was also indicted for the same charge. Both charges stem from a Dec. 3, 1985 incident when a 1972 Chevrolet pickup, belonging to Bob Bryant, was stolen and a Pepsi machine taken from Pic Pac Supermarket. Both men are free on $2,000 bond.

Hershel Halcomb, 34, of Rt. 1, Orlando, was indicted on three counts of assault in the second degree, criminal mischief in the second degree, and terroristic threatening.

The indictment alleges that Halcomb assaulted Roscoe Bullock by cutting and stabbing him with a knife.

Three arrested on illegal possession

Three Rockcastle residents have been arrested and charged with illegal possession of alcoholic beverages in a dry local option territory for resale.

Charged, following the Friday, Feb. 28, raids by state police, were Clifton Kearney, 54, and his wife, Azalea Kearney, 50, of the Chestnut Ridge Road, and Edith Payne, 63, of the Wabed Road.

A large assortment of beer and whiskey were taken in the raids.

Mr. Kearney is free on $4,000 property bond and Mrs. Kearney was released on her own recognizance. They are both scheduled to appear in court Mar. 12, 1986. This was a second offense for Ms. Payne, who was also released on $4,000 property bond and is scheduled to appear in court on Mar. 12.

Both arrest warrants were executed following a complaint signed by a state trooper alleging that he bought liquor from both Mr. and Mrs. Kearney and from Ms. Payne.

a knife, threw a splitting maul into a 1976 Oldsmobile auto owned by Lonzie VanWinkle, causing over $500 damage, and the terroristic threatening involves an incident between Halcomb and Tony Bullock.

Halcomb is free on 10 percent of a $4,000 cash bond. Gary Randolph of Crab Orchard was indicted on four counts of Former Kentucky United States Senator John Sherman Cooper will be the featured speaker and guest of honor at this year's 48th Annual Fifth District Lincoln Club Banquet.

The annual gathering will be held at the Corbin Civic Center on Saturday, March 8, starting at 6:30 p.m. (EST).

Fifth District Congressman Harold Rogers will also be on hand, along with current U.S. Senator Mitch McConnell of Kentucky, State Republican Chairman Gordon Wade, and 1984 Reagan-Bush Kentucky Campaign Chairman Larry Forey will also be in attendance. Senator Cooper, now retired and living in Washington, D. C., is one of the state's most beloved statesmen. Following his service in the Senate, Cooper later served as U.S. Ambassador to India. Upon his retirement from public life in 1973, the Washington Post called Senator Cooper "the Senate at its best." Senator Cooper has also received numerous awards, including Distinguished Rural Kentuckian in 1983.

Tickets are $15 and may be purchased at the door.

Participants needed for local Hospitality Seminar

Names wanted: The Mt. Vernon Local Development Corporation and the Rockcastle Chamber of Commerce needs the names of those who are planning to attend a Hospitality Training '86 Seminar on Mar. 11.

The Seminar is scheduled to be at the Bank of Mt. Vernon Community Room, starting at 10 a.m. and concluding about noon.

The featured speaker will be Carolyn Isaac of the Kentucky Department of Travel Development from Frankfort, who will present a one hour program on "everything that is vital to a healthy tourism industry." Other speakers are also scheduled.

Home Office Deductions
What Qualifies?
If you use your home for business or bring work home from the office, are you entitled to a tax deduction for "home office" expenses? The tax law is quite explicit about what home office expenses are deductible and who can deduct them.
Expenses are deductible only if you use a portion of your home exclusively and regularly as:
1. Your principal place of business for a given trade or business that you conduct, or
2. Your place of business where you meet or deal with customers, clients, or patients in the operation of your business. Telephone contact is not enough to qualify.
The law interprets "exclusively" in a very strict sense. You must use the business portion of your home only for business; any personal use of that portion of the home will disqualify any home office deduction. For example, a "home office" cannot double as a guest bedroom or a sewing room. Carrying on investment activities at home will not entitle you to a home office deduction unless you are considered a "trader" in investments.
Two exceptions to the exclusive use rule should be mentioned. One exception is for those who provide licensed day care in their homes. The other allows a deduction for expenses connected with inventory storage when the home is the sole location of a retail or wholesale sales business.
Home office expenses of an employee must satisfy the same exclusive and regular use tests and, in addition, the use of the home office must be for the convenience of the employer.
What expenses are deductible if you qualify? You may deduct prorated rent, insurance premiums, utility bills, repairs and maintenance, real estate taxes and interest on your home mortgage, but not in excess of the gross income generated by your home office.

MARCH-NATIONAL NUTRITION MONTH Facts and Fantasies About Nutrients and Aging (First of four parts)

The many ads promoting nutritional supplements in senior citizens show that older people have a lot of interest in nutrition.

However, many older Americans are susceptible targets for a wide variety of false nutritional claims for products that provide little or no health benefit.

The theme for National Nutrition Month, "Good Nutrition-Feel Good About It," focuses on food, not supplements, as a source of good nutrition.

Do older people's nutrient needs differ from that of younger people?

Not really, except they may need fewer calories if they are less active.

Here are some facts:

Protein. Older people need about the same amount of protein as young adults. Two or three ounces of lean meat, poultry, or fish eaten twice a day is adequate. Other good, soft and inexpensive sources are eggs, cottage cheese, legumes and certain cheeses. Contrary to popular thought, supplements of amino acids will not protect you from aging or disease.

Vitamin C. This vitamin helps to form healthy skin, teeth and bones, and it plays a role in wound healing and resistance to infection. But taking supplements above and beyond the Recommended Daily Amount levels will not slow down aging, protect you from illness or lower your blood cholesterol. Be sure your diet is adequate, consume plenty of fresh or frozen fruits and juices and dark green vegetables.

Vitamin A. The elderly have no greater need for this vitamin than young people. Supplements exceeding the RDA levels will not promote longevity, protect hair and skin or reverse cardiovascular disease. In fact, liver and bone damage can result from long term use. Supplements are not advised. To meet your vitamin A needs, turn to dark green leafy or orange vegetables.

Vitamin E. Some claim this vitamin can enhance your sex drive and alleviate hot flashes as well as arthritis symptoms. These claims are not well founded. Vegetable oils are your best source, but you can get vitamin E from margarine, whole-grain breads, cereals, wheat germ, liver and nuts.

Vitamin D and calcium. Many elderly people probably need more of both of these nutrients which come together in fortified milk. Even young adults may protect themselves from osteoporosis if

Farm credit services will begin April 1

The local PCA office located on Main Street announced that beginning April 1 South Production Credit and Federal Land Bank loans will be offered and serviced from the Mt. Vernon PCA office. The office will now be called Farm Credit Services.

Production Credit and Federal Land Bank are both a part of the Fourth Farm Credit District of Louisville which covers the states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana and Ohio. The local PCA and Federal Land Bank are also a part of the Southeast Kentucky Farm Credit Services headquarters in Somerset, Mt. Vernon is one of the eight field offices supervised by the Somerset office. These eight offices have a combined volume of 6,358 loans for $151,000,000.

In order to transfer the Federal Land Bank loans and also computerize the accounting system, it will be necessary for the Farm Credit Services local office to be closed all day Thursday during the month of March. Also new office hours are being implemented. They will be from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

the produce is graded, setting on a truck and ready to ship.

Quality and price are the biggest hurdles to producers in fresh market vegetables. As one of the largest wholesale produce firms advised a group last fall, "All you have to do to make a place for Kentucky in the fresh market is produce a better quality product for a lower price."

Quality and price are dependent on how well the farmer can supply water, control diseases and at what cost. With large buried pocket costs, farmers must have an available source of water for irrigation. One can't depend on sporadic rainfall. Well planned disease control measures are also essential. For example, tomato growers may spray as many as 15 times with fungicides and insecticides.

Pepper production for the processed food market is considerably different but could benefit from the management applied to fresh market. During the past 3 years, droughts lowered production for the 83-84 crops. The 85 crop suffered extensive damage from bacterial leaf spot.

With tobacco price supports dropping and high lease prices, peppers played under intense management to include irrigation and disease control, can generate approximately the same net income as tobacco. In locations which received plants from North Carolina last year, an average of 6 tons per acre produced net profits of $600. With close management, 12.15 tons has been produced per acre.

Producers' main concern for the 1986 crop is disease. Company officials have acknowledged this problem and plan to do everything possible to supply disease free plants. Seeds have been sampled from all sources and checked for bacterial leaf spot. As a protection that no infected seeds escape the check, a seed treatment is applied. The transplant growers are being worked with closely to assure that their production practices do not allow for contamination or spread.

Farmers planning to grow peppers will need to plan preventative spray schedules. Once bacterial leaf spot advances to a point of moderate leaf drop, the plant has been stressed and will take extra time to recuperate instead of produce fruit.

With cooperatives struggling to establish markets and coping with the same disease or irrigation limitations, producers for the processing market can be considered to have some advantages. A contract with set price can be one of those advantages.

Previous growers, as well as new pepper growers, are urged to take a serious look at the potential for pepper production. As mentioned before, many areas are struggling to develop new crops. Such as we have available, Station Manager Kenneth Stewart has some acreage available to contract. Interested growers should contact him in early March.

Conservation reserve program

The 1985 Farm Bill includes a Conservation Reserve Program which will be implemented in a 5-year period. It is designed to take highly erodible cropland out of production. In order to qualify for the program, the land must have been cropped at least two years during 1981-1985 and be highly erodible. Highly erodible land is considered to be that in land capability class VI, or higher or land in class II through V that is eroding in excess of twice the tolerable rate of erosion, as determined by SCS. There are approximately 1.8 million acres eligible in Kentucky.

Land that enters the program must be placed in a permanent vegetative practice (selected by the landowner) that reduces the soil erosion loss to an acceptable limit. The practice alternatives are: 1) introduced grasses and legumes; 2) native grass and legumes; 3) trees and shrubs; 4) wildlife habitat; 5) field windbreaks; and 6) combinations of two or more of the above. The committed land will be devoted to conservation consisting of harvesting, grazing or other commercial use of forage is NOT allowed. However, hunting rights can be leased. Maintenance measures, such as weed control, will be required. The area may be managed for wildlife habitat and

BELL PEPPER PRODUCTION ACREAGE AVAILABLE

South Kentucky vegetable production for the fresh market has received considerable interest. Within the last year, two farmer owned cooperatives have been established in Central and Eastern Kentucky. For the past 10 years, Monticello's Cumberland Farm Co-op has been serving the Lake Cumberland area. Co-op's have been formed so that a group of farmers may bring the production from small acreages to one central location. After packaging in large truckload quantities, the produce is sold to the fresh market. Crops grown have been mainly green bell peppers, cucumbers, plus in Monticello, tomatoes.

Farmers participating in co-operatives have found that getting a market for their produce is difficult. Contracts for fresh market are usually determined when

Willing Workers meet at home of Mrs. Ona Cromer

The snow and 30 degree temperature didn't keep 12 of our homemakers from attending the Feb. 27 meeting at Ona Mae Cromer's home with Sylvia Whitt as co-hostess.

They quickly served hot wassail to warm our bones, before Jean Albright called the meeting to order.

Lorraine Newland presented a devotion from Matt. 25: 14-30. Talents should be exercised to grow. If we don't use them, we lose them," she told us.

The "Snow Tales" got bigger and better as each member answered the roll call with an experience they had with snow.

A speaker at the Feb. 3 Council Meeting told the group about donating blood. Jean Albright gave each of us booklets on Questions and Answers about blood donations. Our next blood drive will be Mar. 18.

Rockcastle County Homemakers sent $208 to the Ovarian Cancer Fund.

Blood Drive is March 18

On Tuesday, March 18, the Rockcastle County Homemakers will sponsor a community blood drive at the Bank of Mt. Vernon between the hours of 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Blood is a very vital and natural resource and like many natural resources, often is in short supply. There are many reasons why this happens. Sometimes, it is because weather or related conditions have prevented regular volunteers from donating. Sometimes it is because there are not enough people who are willing to volunteer to give one pint of blood.

The Central Kentucky Blood

Center relies totally on volunteer donations to provide blood to the hospitals in its 40 county service area. But that blood can only be available in the amount that it is given. Blood can be used conservatively—one pint can save as many as four patients—but even one pint cannot help if it is not available.

By donating one pint of blood on a regular basis, a volunteer not only provides assurance that blood will be available for themselves and their families, but they also provide a very unique gift to those who are in need of blood—the gift of life!

Willing Workers - From 8

Kentucky's 4-H Leadership Center.

The club voted to donate two pairs of scissors for prizes at the 4-H Fashion Revue Apr. 13. Deborah Newland asked knitters to make gloves for school children as their project.

Announcements made: CVU Bookers are to be turned in by Apr. 1. Community Sunrise Sewing at Christian Church Camp Hill, Mar. 30, 6 a.m.; International Dinner, Mar. 7 at 6 p.m. at Bank of Mt. Vernon Community Room; Citizenship Tour to Frankfort Mar. 18, 7:30 a.m.; and Renfro Valley at 7:45 a.m. Call office for reservations by Mar. 13. Loraine Newland passed out the night's lesson leaflets before the two hostesses demonstrated "Sir Fry Beef and Vegetables" on a table in the living room. They used an electric skillet to first fry thin strips of beef, then carrots and later green peppers and onions chopped, next sliced celery, shredded cabbage, zucchini, and broccoli were added. Delicious!

They served this finished stir fry over rice, plus 5 cup salad and cream pie.

The night if Emily Groak and Elizabeth Mullins can "top" this in refreshments at our next meeting Mar. 27 at Mrs. Mullins' home.

LES featuring Students and Teacher of the Week

Livingston Elementary School is featuring two "V.I.P." bulletin boards for the 1985-86 school year. These boards develop self-esteem, personal pride, as well as offer the faculty and students a glimpse into each other's personal lives.

Monday mornings find a crowd around each board as everyone eagerly sees "who is it this week?"

The "Teacher of the Week" board is prepared by Mrs. Nancy Hale. This board contains a typed interview with the teacher and pictures brought by the teacher which depict his/her life from birth to the present. The interview share information such as vital statistics, the teacher's "favorites" (food, TV shows, hobbies, books, movies, quotations, holiday, etc.), their goals, dreams and family information.

The "Student of the Week" board features one student from each homeroom. They are selected in alphabetical order. The students bring in various pictures of themselves as well as information sheet which has been completed by their parents. This sheet tells their name, their parents, siblings, what their goals are for the future, and other information (hobbies, pets, etc.) Each homeroom teacher places the pictures and sheet on the main bulletin board.

All faculty and staff members and students, K-8, will be featured by the close of the school year. We are proud of our school—the faculty and students are what make it a great place to learn. Our V.I.P. boards demonstrate our pride!

Aluminum is the most abundant metal in the earth's crust.

Fourteen new Jr. Beta Club members were inducted at a special ceremony at Livingston Elementary School on Wednesday, March 6. They joined the seven charter members, bringing the total membership to twenty-one. The new members are Sherrie Bullock Julie Childress, Cheryl Clark, Janet thinning, pruning and other maintenance of tree plantings may be conducted if specified in the conservation plan.

Durham, Tonya Hammond, Brad Hurd, Anita Hurley, Kimberly Kirby, David Lovell, Andrew Martin, Debbie Miller, Shannon Mize, Angela Senters, and Angela Spillworth. The Jr. Beta sponsors are Michael Robbins, fifth and sixth grade teacher and Sue Hamm, guidance counselor.

There will be opportunities to enroll in the program for the crop year of 1986, 1987, 1988, 1989 and 1990. In order to participate in the program for the 1986 crop year, a landowner will have to sign up at the ASCS office between March 3 and March 31. The enrollment period of the 1986 crop year will probably begin in August of 1986. At sign-up, the participant will designate the land for the program, provide a field history for 1981-85, designate the conservation and vegetative practices to be used and submit a bid for the annual rental payment. ASCS and SCS verifies if the land is eligible. If the land qualifies, a conservation plan is developed and signed as a contract. The contract period is 10 years. There will be annual rental payments and a one time only 50% cost share payment for the eligible cost of establishing the permanent vegetation. The total amount of rental payments for any landowner for any fiscal year may not exceed $50,000.
