Tough new state regulations for brucellosis in cattle herds

New brucellosis eradication regulations which will require mandatory slaughter of infected cattle herds were announced this week by State Agriculture Commissioner Ward Burnette.

"The measures would affect Rockcastle County, if applicable. However, agriculture officials believe Rockcastle is now 'fairly clean' of the disease.

Tom Mills, agriculture extension agent, said officials are always concerned about brucellosis and he predicted a "severe reaction" from farmers to the state's new guidelines.

It is known that the county was considered a "hot spot" for brucellosis at one time, but testing last fall revealed only a few suspect cattle, but upon further testing herds were found to be clean.

It is reported that brucellosis has showed up in about 17 different herds over the past five years, and out of those nine herds were sold off.

Among the regulations is one that will require retesting of purchased cattle from Kentucky stockyards or private sales. These cattle will be quarantined to the new owner for a rest between 60 and 120 days at owner's expense.

Kentucky is the first state ever to require farmers to act to eradicate this highly contagious and costly disease. In the past, the depopulation program was strictly voluntary.

"I am fully prepared for these regulations to be unpopular and controversial with some. But the fact is that I also fully expect brucellosis to be eradicated in Kentucky by the first of next year. Any controversy will be worth that," Burnette said.

"We'll follow this up with a request for USDA certification as an 'A' state and then as a brucellosis-free state as soon as federal regulations permit," the Commissioner added.

The regulations require that any cattle herd which is not 100 percent calfhood vaccinated and which becomes infected with brucellosis must be sent to slaughter within 30 days after a State Board of Agriculture depopulation order.

Also, any herd which is 100 percent calfhood vaccinated and which becomes infected with brucellosis at a rate of 20 percent must be depopulated within 30 days.

Indemnity will be paid by state and federal funds in both cases if such funds are available. These regulations will be voted on by the State Board of Agriculture at a March 29 meeting and then sent to the Administrative Regulations Review Committee of the General Assembly.

The regulations are expected to be in place by July.

Brucellosis, also called Bang's Disease, is a bacterial disease which causes reproductive problems and abortions in cattle and undulant fever in humans. It has long been the target of a nationwide eradication effort. Burnette said the Department of Agriculture was proposing the depopulation regulations because eradicating, not just controlling, brucellosis now has become essential to Kentucky's $4 million cattle industry.

The disease is a serious threat to Kentucky because states with a low incidence of brucellosis are threatening to blacklist cattle from states where brucellosis is still prevalent. "There has been a very real possibility of losing a large portion of our markets," Burnette said.

He said the depopulation regulations will change this entirely. "Once we're free of brucellosis, other states will have to meet our standards of disease control," Burnette said.

In addition to lost markets, Kentucky cattle producers lost millions of dollars a year from reduced calf crops caused by abortion and other reproductive problems and from reduced beef and milk yields, he added.

He said that a crucial factor is that federal funds for brucellosis control will end in 1990. The loss of these funds, as well as a restricted state budget, require going beyond control of the disease to eradicating it.

"All of the things we've done — calfhood vaccination, testing, quarantine and the rest — have enabled us to bring brucellosis under control, but it could easily break out again when the money stops," Burnette said. "That's why we need to stop it once and for all."

"The history of disease control shows that the key to success is stopping the disease at the source," he added. "My staff and I are ready to take this final courageous step." Burnette said that eradicating brucellosis has always been his number one priority, but he waited to make the proposals until he had cleared up confusion caused by stockyards regulations promulgated near the end of the last administration.

Those regulations were enjoined in a court action in December 1987.

Burnette said that after he consulted with industry representatives and the State Board of Agriculture, they resolved the differences and concerns over the regulations.

The previous regulations, which were based primarily on animal identification, have been replaced by more precise regulations which require sufficient identification to trace the animal to the farm of origin.

The new regulations also provide for quarantine to the farm of origin and mandatory re-testing.

Remember to set clocks ahead

It's the time of the year to be thinking about time.

Beginning at 2 a.m. Sunday clocks will advance one hour and will remain on Daylight Savings Time until Oct. 30.

Don't forget to change before going to bed. You could be late for Easter services.

Indictments charge four

Paul Davidson must have enjoyed the movies he rented, he didn't return them to Video Attractions in Mt. Vernon, according to an indictment returned against him by the Rockcastle Grand Jury.

Davidson of the Mt. Vernon area, is accused in two counts of failure to make required disposition, over $100 after renting 10 movies and not returning them.

He posted 10 percent cash of a $2,000 bond.

Count one states he failed to return "FX," "Marie," "Instant Justice," "Scarface" and "Extreme Prejudice."

Count two states he failed to return "Critical Condition," "Real Genies," "Deal of the Century," "Firewalker" and "Boothill."

He will be arraigned in Rockcastle Circuit Court on April 8 along with three other men who were indicted.

John J. Lamb of Calloway is charged with arson in the second degree.

Lamb is accused of setting fire to a building owned by Gary Griffin on March 20.

He was released by posting 10 percent of a $10,000 bond.

Mark Spoonamore of Brodhead was indicted for theft by unlawful taking, over $100. He is accused of theft of a 1978 Chevrolet pick-up truck owned by E.J. Taylor.

Spoonamore remains in jail, according to court records.

Mitt Leger of the Orlando area is charged with theft by unlawful taking, over $100. He is accused of obtaining a Central Arms, 16-gauge double barrel shotgun owned by Charlie Durham. He posted a $5,000 property bond.

Bill would allow magistrate removal

The Kentucky House of Representatives gave final passage this week to a bill that would allow removal of county fiscal court members who miss two consecutive regular meetings.

The House also gave final passage to a bill which would increase the benefits for recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Also voted, along with the Senate, was a bill that will make $25 million in bonds available to economically depressed counties. Out of 100 counties, 71 would be eligible. The bonds would be used to attract industry. The eligible counties were not listed.

Gov. Wallace Wilkinson signed into law a bill that mandates that the tax hit on a vehicle stays with the person who owned the vehicle Jan. 1 of any year, the date when property taxes are assessed.

Brodhead Elementary School students Matthew Hayes, James Allen Stanley, Tabatha Woodall, Stephen Smith and Eric Taylor prepare to launch their balloons in the Weekly Reader Writing Pals Balloon Contest. Each student at Brodhead Elementary released a balloon with high hopes of their balloon being returned by someone in another state.

Cabinet likes U.S. 150 four-laned

A proposal to four-lane U.S. 150 from Stanford to Mt. Vernon and perhaps create a 514-acre lake on Cedar Creek in Lincoln County has the backing of the state Transportation Cabinet.

According to a story in the plans for "Interior Journal," the plan could be put in the state's six-year master plan for highway construction as early as next week, according to Ed Logsdon, assistant transportation secretary.

"Everybody in Transportation feels it's a needed project," Logsdon said Tuesday.

The road would be four-laned from U.S. 27 at Stanford to the new Ky. 461 west of Mt. Vernon.

He said state Transportation Cabinet officials went over the plan in detail over the weekend and will present it to Gov. Wallace Wilkinson later this week for inclusion in his six-year highway program.

If Wilkinson goes along and he said during his successful campaign for governor last year that he would support the road project if the money is available — the six-year program will go to the legislature next week for final approval.

Logsdon said that while the undertaking at present includes only the road building, he doesn't see any major obstacle in tackling the 514-acre lake onto the project. He said that the highway plans call for some fill to be used in the Cedar Creek area and adding enough material to make the dam and purchase the necessary land would not involve undue extra expense for the benefits that would come back to the state and county.

The big question remaining is money, however.

Logsdon cautioned that just because something gets in the six-year program — the planning document by the Transportation Cabinet, to construct highways in the intermediate future — doesn't mean the money will be there.

"We're high on the project but we can't say yet that, yes we're going to do it on a certain day," Logsdon said. It all depends on how much money the legislature devotes to highway construction.

John Sims, Lincoln County judge/executive, has pushed the plan in Frankfort.

He said Tuesday that he is happy that the improvements to U.S. 150 are being considered for the six-year highway program but vowed to continue working on the project to see that it gets done.

He said he hopes that Gov. Wilkinson will commit his administration to the project sufficiently so that if the next governor wants to eliminate the project, it will be too far along to stop.

Sims noted that improvements to the road from Stanford to beyond the Lincoln County Stockyards were in the state's six-year highway program once before but were deleted by Gov. John Y. Brown as a cost saving measure.

Sims said he will continue pushing the lake portion of the project because such a huge body of water will provide recreational opportunities, increase the county's attraction for industrial development and provide a source of drinking water for Lincoln and surrounding counties.

Logsdon, who was a county judge himself in Edmonson County a decade ago, said that Sims' persistence has helped convince the Transportation Cabinet of the worth of the road and lake project.

Sims said he believes the road, which will give Stanford four-lane access to Interstate 75 at Mt. Vernon will benefit Lincoln County and the

Magistrate Doug Bishop resigns from fiscal court; replacement not chosen

Doug Bishop, magistrate in District 3, resigned from the Rockcastle Fiscal Court effective March 24.

In a short letter to the court and County Judge/Executive Hubert Thacker, Bishop wrote he had accepted a career appointment with the Postal Service. He had been a rural mail carrier.

His district includes Brown, Bullock and West Brookhead precincts. He was the only Democrat on the court and his precinct is predominantly Democratic.

Gov. Wallace Wilkinson will appoint a magistrate to take Bishop's place until the Nov. 8 General Election.

During that seven months, Democrat and Republican county executive committees will meet and choose a candidate for each party on the November ballot.

Only the two candidates chosen by the committees can be on the ticket for District 3, because it is too late to file for the May 24 primary. Filing ended Feb. 24.

The winner of the general election will serve the remainder of Bishop's term that will end Dec. 31, 1989.

Rumors of Bishop's impending resignation had been heard almost daily in the county. A person cannot hold a federal job and a state job. The Postal Service is a federal position and a magistrate is a state position.

City sued by Tennessee supplier

A Tennessee supplier has filed suit against the City of Mt. Vernon and Titus Construction Co., of Dayton, Ohio, for failure to pay for labor and materials used during the renovation of the Mt. Vernon sewer plant.

Brownline-Southeast, Inc., of Nashville, charges that between March 10, 1986 and June 19, 1987, they furnished Titus Construction with labor and materials totaling $19,324.

Titus was the general contractor for the sewer plant renovation work which has been completed.

Brownline-Southeast asks for judgment against Titus for the amount with interest at the legal rate.

Brownline also filed a Mechanics and Materialman's Lien on real estate improvement at the plant asking for payment or action to sell the land/property to satisfy the amount owed them.

When the record was checked Monday an answer to the suit had not been filed.

Four house fires reported

Livingston firemen had an especially busy week, reporting fires in four homes with four brush fire.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Milburn was destroyed on Gauley Branch. Also destroyed was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mafor Cole in the Red Hill area.

A third fire Monday destroyed the home of Bobby Allen on Gauley Branch. Causes of the fires have not been determined.

LEGISLATIVE

Report . . . .

The final days of a regular legislative session are always hectic and the 1988 session is proving to be no exception.

The House has passed the budget and is now waiting to get a Senate amended version of the spending plan.

The biennial budget, in it's present form, is basically a legislative initiative. Governor Wilkinson proposed a little more than a continuation spending plan based on the 1986-88 budget written by the legislature during the Collin's administration.

Additionally, the very few pet projects that a no-frills budget allowed Governor Wilkinson to propose have been scuttled in favor of priorities set by the legislature.

The House version of the budget differs with the governor's recommendation by giving more money to higher education, the 1985 educational improvements and restores overmatch payments to state retirement funds. Also, the House budget would return the funding proposed to be taken from the Department of Fish and Wildlife.

The Senate version of the budget will differ from the House and the hammering out of an agreement between the two chambers will take center stage as the 1988 session speeds toward adjournment.

The budget-making process, to this point, has been the most open and widely discussed in legislative history. However, the process of coming to a budget agreement between the House and Senate will probably be drawn-up behind closed doors.

Also, as mentioned before Governor Wilkinson's spending proposals have generated little support, but the fact that the most critical phase of the budget-making process will be conducted in private lends credibility to the supposition that some of the governor's programs may earn approval.

Historically, Kentucky governors have had a way of getting what they want when the budget bill goes into the closed conference committee between the House and Senate. Nonetheless, closed meetings and all, the final passage of the budget will have to be explained, debated and voted on in a open session of the House of Representatives.

Another issue racing against the legislative clock is election reform, which has taken the form of Senate bill 385.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I would like to take a minute to clarify a sad event which claimed the life of a small child a few weeks ago in the office of Dr. G. W. Griffith.

As stated in your story the child did choke to death on a "litte brite" plastic toy. The toy was not picked up in Dr. Griffith's office. Furthermore, it is the opinion of this office that everything humanly possible to save the child was done by the staff at Griffith's office and by the Rockcastle County Hospital Staff.

Thank you, Bill Dowell

Rockcastle County Coroner

"LEGISLATIVE REPORT"

Senate Bill 385, which has been greatly weakened, would still make needed changes in state election laws. The measure seeks to increase penalties for vote fraud and strengthen enforcement and prosecution of said fraud by enhancing the authority of election boards, the Attorney General and the State Police. Also, the Registry of Election Finance would get more investigative ability.

The chances for gaining major election reform in 1988 appear to be marginal, but the momentum will not be quelled for Kentucky cannot afford to be last in voter registration and turnout as the 21st century nears. In other action, House Bill 655 has been approved by the Senate Education Committee.

House Bill 655 would allow school districts to request a resurvey of their building needs so they might qualify for more money from the state school facilities construction commission.

House Bill 655, which I sponsored, will give school districts a new chance at receiving more money for classroom construction.

The House of Representatives passed a bill to allow teachers to retire with full benefits after 27 years of service instead of 30.

Finally, the governor signed Senate Bill 38 to create a state-administered trust fund for parents to make long-term investments for their children's college or vocational school education.

Flynn will be speaking in three sessions this Friday, April 1 at 9 a.m. Mr. Flynn is a native of Lexington and a graduate of Bryan Station High School in 1969. He is known among Kentuckians as a professional baseball player, having both minor league and major league experience. Mr. Flynn played for the Cincinnati Reds on their World Series Championship team of '75-'76, was the Golden Glove Winner for defensive excellence while playing with the New York Mets, '77-'81. He also played for the Montreal Expos '82-'85 and Detroit Tigers '85-'86.

We are very fortunate to have Doug Flynn in Rockcastle County to share with the students at Roundstone Elementary concerning the problem of drugs and alcohol. Mr. Flynn states that he "hopes to use his past athletic experience to gain attention of the drug and alcohol problems that have wrecked many young lives. I always knew I would work with kids in some capacity and Champions is a way not only to relate my athletic skills, but also to address the issue of substance abuse."

Brodhead Tiger Pause

"Attendance Counts" has been one of our main points of emphasis this year at Brodhead Elementary school. The school has done a great deal to promote perfect attendance with our Tigers. When a classroom is 100 percent on any given day, a special treat may be given to all students in that class. No one knows when this treat will be distributed by the PALS (Perfect Attendance Ladies), so it's best that all students come to school every day!

David Henderson will be visiting our sixth grades three days this week to lead discussions on drug abuse. We appreciate this opportunity and Mr. Henderson for providing this learning experience.

Spring is in the air, and that means it's time for the Rockcastle High School Chorus to visit our school. We will welcome them today at 1:30 p.m.

Last Friday was an exciting day for our school. The Roundstone Academic Team visited our school for a contest with the BES Academic Team, composed of J.D. Bussell, Joan Lear, Eric McKinney, Jason Scoggins, Kevin Robinson, Adam Trebilo, Jason Kirk, Sonia Morgan, Stacy Smith and Stephanie Pope. The school is proud that academic teams have been formed in the four elementary schools. There is a need to realize that there is a need to concentrate on academics, athletics, the arts and help develop well-rounded students.

Mrs. Martin's, Mrs. Holbrook's and Mrs. Morgan's classes created some edible art in the cafeteria Friday. Having won the soup label contest, their prize was a giant ice cream sundae party. Each student got to create his or her own culinary masterpiece.

If visitors noticed colorful objects floating through the air last Thursday, they were "Weekly Reader" balloons launched by every student and staff member at our school. The Brodhead Fire Department once again assisted us with this annual event.

This past Monday each classroom had a new library for students to enjoy during their special reading time - DEAR (Drop Everything and Read). Received was a grant through the Reading Improvement Program from the Board to purchase enough paperback books for every student in all classrooms K through 8. The books are beautiful and the students love and appreciate them.

Parents should note that kindergarten registration is Wednesday, April 6, from 9 a.m. - 2:30 p.m. They should come to the office for registration. It is important to bring the child's birth certificate at this time because we need to make a copy.

Parents if you have a child in challenge, please meet at 7 p.m. in RCCH's library on April 5, to discuss important issues.

The Alumni Banquet, Saturday, April 2nd at 7 p.m.

County 4-H Demonstration Contest Results

By: John McQueary
County Extension Agent
for 4-H

Over the last three weeks, grades 4-8th at all schools were involved in the 4-H nutrition programs held by Cheryl Witt, Home Economics Agent and John McQueary, 4-H Agent. This year, a school bus sponsored by the U.K. Cooperative Extension Service was used in helping present the program. The bus was driven by Ted Arron from Clinton County.

The fourth grade made whole wheat pancakes. By making the pancakes, they also learned to read and follow a recipe and got to turn their own pancakes and get to enjoy eating what they had made.

The fifth and sixth graders made snack pizzas. Refrigerator biscuits were used to make the dough, and topped with tomato sauce, oregano and cheese. One person patted out the dough while the other poured sauce on them and another would put cheese and oregano on them. The youth really enjoyed these nutritious, easy to make snacks.

The seventh graders had a program on Eating Right and watched a program on what an athlete should eat. The eighth grade got to learn about nutrition and manners.

Nutrition is very important to our young people, and the knowledge gained through programs on nutrition will affect youth for the rest of their life. The Cooperative Extension Service would like to extend a special thank you to all the principals, teachers and everyone at the schools for making our programs a great success. Another thank you to all the students that participated in the programs.

We hope to continue these programs in the future, and broaden youth's knowledge of nutrition.

Nine 4-H'ers participate in Area Contest

The Wildemess Trail Area Demonstration Contest was held on Saturday, March 26th at 10 a.m. at the Laurel County High School. Sixty-nine demonstrations were signed up to compete at the contest. There were 4-H'ers from seven different counties, with winners going on to State Competition on June 10th at the University of Kentucky. This competition is Kentucky's 4-H Communications Day.

Those participating included Vernon Thomas, "Cleaning a Gun"; Blue Alternate; Joshua Renner, "How to Make a Popcan Lamp"; Blue Champion; Larissa Hayes, "How to Raise Replacement Dairy Heifers"; Blue Champion; Nick Parsons & Chris Makin, "Karate is Fun"; Blue Champion; Missy Makin, "Let's Make a Beautiful Bow"; Blue Champion; Tracy Todd, "Basically Biscuits"; Blue Champion; Regina Collins, "Egg Salad"; Red ribbon; Melissa Hayes, "How to Make Pizza Snacks"; Blue Alternate.

Rockcastle County was really well represented by these 4-H'ers who won at the county level. The 4-H'ers who received blue chamption will now go on to compete at the state contest.

Congratulations to all of these 4-H'ers for doing such an outstanding job in representing their county at this contest!

Auction

The Late
Mr. Keith Brown's
60 ACRE FARM (In Tracts)
TIMBER - FARM MACHINERY
Saturday, April 2nd, 1988 - 10:30 A.M.

Bandy Section of Pulaski County

Tract # 1

Tract # 3

LOCATION: Approximately 17 miles north of Somerset and 13 miles southwest of Mt. Vernon, Kentucky. Turn west at the intersection of highway 39 & 70 and proceed on Highway 70 approximately 1/2 mile to the Brown Road. Auction signs are posted.

The heirs of the late Mr. Brown have authorized our firm to sale this choice farm land, timber, and farm machinery at absolute auction.

TRACT # 1: Consists of 10.46 acres more or less of which most is crop and pasture land. There is a branch on this tract to provide stock water.

Improvements include the above pictured 4 Room House. It has Living Room + Kitchen + and 2 Bedrooms. The house also has masonite siding, linoleum throughout, insulated, storm doors and windows, and water is provided by a spring.

In addition to the house, there is a garage with an attached shed.

TRACT # 2: Measures 1.51 acres. This is a good corner lot and is improved with a combination stock and hay barn measuring 21 x 32.

TRACT # 3: Measures 2.53 acres and has 204 ft. of road frontage. This tract is improved with the above pictured combination bank barn measuring approximately 27 x 30. This tract would make an ideal building site.

TRACTS # 4, 5, 6, & 7: Range in size from 2.5 acres to 2.7 acres. Each tract has approximately 200 ft. of frontage along the county road. Either of these tracts would be ideal building or mobile home sites.

TRACT # 8: DOES NOT SELL!!

TRACTS # 9 & 10: Measure 10.86 and 10.30 acres respectfully of which all is crop and pasture land. These tracts have access just off Highway 70 past the Brown Road. Either of these tracts would make a nice small farm by themselves.

TRACT # 11: Measures 13.73 acres more or less of which most is crop or pasture land. It has over 550 ft. of frontage along the county road. This tract has a pond which has recently been cleaned out to provide stock water.

TIMBER: Tract # 1 has marketable timber which will be offered separately from the real estate and with the real estate, selling whichever way reflects the best returns.

The timber includes white oak, red oak, and poplar. The forest service will have the trees that are to be cut marked for your inspection prior to the auction.

The farm will be offered separately, in combinations, and in it's entirety to give all potential prospects an opportunity to buy. When combined, there is a total of 60+ acres of good productive farm land in an excellent area. It has a basic tobacco allotment of 1644 lbs. Should the farm sale in tracts, the tobacco base will be divided by the ASCS office according to crop-land.

FARM MACHINERY TO BE SOLD INCLUDES: 1952 8N Ford Tractor, 2 borrom 12" Dearborn plows, Disc, mowing machine - 6 ft. cut, 1 row cultivator, fertilizer spreader, manure spreader, wheat drill, flat bed wagon, and more.

TYPES OF FAT

The fat we get from food consists of different types, and they have different effects on health. Saturated fats, usually solid at room temperature, have a tendency when consumed in excess to raise cholesterol levels in the blood. Polyunsaturated fats, on the other hand, tend to lower cholesterol levels. There is evidence, however, that if consumed in excess, polyunsaturated fats may increase the risk of cancer and may interfere with our immune system. The third type of fat, the monounsaturated ones, are believed to lower cholesterol levels also, but the evidence is not conclusive yet.

There seems to be a common misconception that a given food contains just one type of fat; for example, that butter is saturated, corn oil is polyunsaturated and olive oil is monounsaturated. The fact is, foods have differing proportions of the three types of fat. The following table shows common foods and the breakdown of fat into saturated, monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fats.

	PERCENT OF TOTAL FAT THAT IS:
	Saturated	Monoun- saturated	Polymu- saturated
Butter	62	29	9
Margarine, regular	17	48	35
Vegetable Shortening	11	51	14
Corn Oil	13	24	59
Olive Oil	14	74	8
Safflower Oil	9	12	74
Coconut Oil	87	6	2
Palm Oil	81	11	2
Peanuts	14	50	32
Avocado	16	63	13
Canned Tuna	32	29	26
Halibut, Cooked	14	33	32
Trout, Cooked	19	31	36
Beef fat	59	42	4
Lard (pork fat)	39	45	11
Chicken fat	30	45	21

NOTE: Numbers do not add up to 100% because of other fat components which comprise total fat.

"HOMEMAKERS"

called the Brodhead Willing Workers Homemakers to order, in the absence of Carol Riddle the president. The meeting was at Clara Proctor's home, starting at 7:30 p.m. on March 24.

Loraine Newland gave the devotion on "Greater Love", before Patsy Fletcher, the secretary and treasurer, read the minutes and gave a report on the bank balance.

Jean Albright gave a report on the county's Internation Dinner.

Patsy Fletcher suggested that we should get all the things and happenings that we can remember or have been told about Brodhead in times past and give to Deborah Newland. When she can get all the information she needs, she will start writing "A History of Brodhead" to have for sale.

The lesson was prepared and given by Emily Gllovak and Ella Mae Martin. The subject was "Cooking Light with Herbs and Spices."

Seasonings can transform a simple dish into a delicacy and enhance the natural flavors of food. Herbs' and spices' seasoning assist in lowering overall sodium intake.

Mrs. Gllovak and Mrs. Martin had prepared four small different foods seasoned with herbs and spices, letting all of us taste each one on a cracker. We all agreed that they increased the flavors. They had added just enough for our tastebuds. They said, "Now you can get too much of herbs and spices and ruin anything you are preparing to eat."

After this lesson and Jean Albright's "blessing", we partook of larger helpings from Clara Proctor's kitchen counter of fruit pizza, cheese ball, raw vegetables and dip and chocolate pound cake, as we sat around the Proctor's dining table.

Besides the 10 members present, one guest, Mary McWhorter, joined the group.

I guess the Kentucky-Villanova game kept some of our members at home.

Our next meeting will be at Willie Lawrences' home, April 28, at 7:30 p.m.

I had the lesson on using herbs and spices for seasoning foods instead of so much sodium and sugar.

Zada Hurd was guest speaker on the Spouse Abuse Center available in the Spouse. The statistics are alarming at the growing numbers of violence in today's families. She told us "there is help available" and if you need to report such an incident or know of someone who needs assistance to call their number.

Our game was unscrambling 12 words pertaining to the month of March. Carolyn and Tammy did. Gayle picked a number and Tammy guessed the closest to it.

Next, on to the kitchen where we find a good selection of hors d'oeuvre, salads, and desserts. Everything tasted delicious.

In April our meeting place has been switched to Flora Mae's on the 18th with Cindy and Tammy as co-hostesses. New time of 7:30 p.m. begins next month.

Avoid buying grapefruit with a soft and tender peel that breaks easily with finger pressure.

Bass Size

With April fast approaching, bass anglers will have their first good opportunity to catch Kentucky (spotted), largemouth and smallmouth bass across the state.

The 12-inch size limit on Kentucky (spotted) bass was removed January 1 to allow anglers to harvest this species in better numbers. Kentucky bass have relatively slow growth rates compared to other bass species, and often die of natural causes before reaching 12 inches long.

Size limits apply to all Kentucky waters, including streams, farm ponds and private lakes. Anglers should be able to distinguish between Kentucky bass, largemouth bass and smallmouth bass in order not to creel an undersized fish.

A free brochure describing the differences between the three major bass species can be obtained by writing: Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or by telephoning (502) 265-4336.

If a lucky leprechaun could bring us anything we wanted what would we choose? That's the question that was asked for roll call. Well, the answers were varied from health to extravagance. We had some good laughs because some wanted it all.

Of course, we all know the simple things in life are best and the best for us. Joyce Taylor began the devotional with scripture taken from John 15:9-13 where it speaks of the mutual love of Christ and his members. She asked us the question, how can you show love toward others and they in turn show love to us? We have to care and share in order to have the proper love for one another.

Obituaries

She was a Rockcastle County native and had lived in the Fairview area all her life. She was the widow of former Rockcastle County Judge J.H. Lambert, member of the Fairview Baptist Church, where she was the oldest surviving member, and had 32 years of perfect attendance in Sunday School.

Survivors include three sons and two daughters: Wesley Lambert of Berea, John T. Lambert of Berea, Attorney James W. Lambert of Mt. Vernon, Mrs. Wallace (Nancy) Williams of Berea and Dorothy A. Lambert of Augusta, Ga.; six grandchildren and nine great grandchildren also survive.

Services were conducted at the Fairview Baptist Church March 25, with the Rev. Harvey Pensol officiating. Burial followed in the Fairview Cemetery. Reppert Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Palbearers were Lee Gabbard, Walter Maline, Johnny Gilliam, Marion Poyner, Dewey Thomas and Boyd Wren.

Brown

Mary Elizabeth Brown, 93, of Pekin, Ill., formerly of Rockcastle County, died March 28, 1988 in New Fort Richey, Fla.

Services are incomplete at Dowell and Martin Funeral Home.

Baird in crusade at local church

Evangelist Buddy Baird, New Albany, Indiana, is scheduled to begin a crusade at Lighthouse Assembly of God in Mt. Vernon on April 3, according to Marvin Hensley, pastor.

The Evangelist's ministry emphasizes the biblical promises of healing and strength for the human spirit, mind and body. He said the Evangelist's ministry includes prayer for the sick and that many people have been healed through prayer and faith. He said the Evangelist Buddy Baird is a former country music singer, having cut records in Nashville, doing T.V. and personal appearances over the Kentucky and Indiana areas. Rev. Baird has now dedicated his musical talents to gospel music, which he considers an important part of his ministry. He has recorded several albums and sings a variety of gospel music, some of which will be featured in every service.

The meetings will be held April 3-8 at 7 o'clock nightly and 11 a.m. on Sunday.

Rev. Hensley and the congregation invite everyone to come hear Evangelist Baird preach and sing in these special services.

Scientists say the blue color of the sea is due to the reflection of the sky.

The largest eyes of all land animals are those of the horse and ostrich—about one and a half times the size of the human eyes.

Kentucky oddities

Name the animals that live in Kentucky. Let's see . . . white-tail deer, raccoons, opossums, cardinals. How about plants? Well, there's redbud, goldenrod, and maple trees. Unknown to most Kentuckians are the thousands of other species of animals and plants that live in our state, according to the Nongame Wildlife/National Areas Association.

Kentucky has a plant that eats insects—the dwarf sundew—found only in Pulaski County. It's tiny red leaves are covered with hair like tentacles. Each tentacle has a drop of glistening liquid right on the tip, which the insect thinks is nectar. Actually, it's not nectar at all but a glue-like substance containing digestive enzymes. When the insect becomes stuck on a tentacle, other leaves bend over it, trapping it behind a cage of tentacles. The enzymes slowly start dissolving the insect's body, absorbing its fluid into the

Fire related accidents

In fire related accidents there are 8 principal causes of death. Five of them involve inhalation of carbon monoxide, irritant gases, other toxic gases, and asphyxiation from lack of oxygen.

Common household materials and chemicals include: wood, paper, rubber, plastic, vinyl, cloth, oils, flammable liquids, insecticides, cleaning agents, freon, propane, air, colols, etc. When these materials burn and combine they form potentially deadly mixtures of carbon monoxide, carbon dioxide, ammonia, hydrogen cyanide, phosgene, and nitrogen oxide, to name a few. In low concentrations these gases won't hurt you. But, if you stay in the area too long you can become incapacitated. Then you can't leave.

Firefighters are required to wear self-contained breathing apparatus in hazardous atmospheres. For their safety is very important. Working in a smoky area is not smart. You can't tell what gases are present. If your house or other structure catches fire, get out. Close the doors and windows behind you. Let a trained, fully equipped firefighter do the work.

Please support your local fire department.

State Finalist in Miss America Princess Pageant

Miss Jennifer Lynn Alsip, age 5, daughter of Walter R. and Sheila M. Alsip of Mt. Vernon, has been accepted as a state finalist in the Miss America Princess Pageant, to be held in Lexington on June 18, 19, 1988.

The winner of the pageant will receive a cash award, trophy, crown, banner and will represent her state for the year of her reign. She will be crowned Miss Kentucky American Princess and return to the 1989 pageant to crown her successor.

Miss Alsip is sponsored by Sue's Hair Styling, Dowell and Martin Funeral Home, Mt. Vernon Drive Thru Pharmacy, McKinney's Tire Service, Mt. Vernon Florist, Mt. Vernon Auto Parts and Estel and Zelma McFerron.

plant's system, until only the skeleton remains.

Here's another wierdo—the hell-bender. This is a salamander as big as a dog, the fifth largest salamander in the world! It lives under rocks in deep, swift streams and in lakes, mostly in the Cumberland, Kentucky, and Licking river systems. It leaves its hiding places only at night, slithering across the river bottom in search of food. It has a large, flat head, small beady eyes and a wide mouth. Its greenish-brown skin hangs loosely along its sides in large folds. The most interesting thing about this primitive salamander is that its closest living relative is in southeast Asia, supporting the idea that the Asian and American continents were once joined.

Kentucky's caves hold all sorts of odd characters. Troglobites are any animals that have become adapted to living their entire lives in total darkness deep within a cave. Most have lost their color, appearing white or pinkish, and have no eyes at all.

Some of the troglobites living in Kentucky caves include blind and colorless fish, crayfish, millipedes, and the rare Kentucky cave shrimp. In Western Kentucky, there is a frog known as the crawfish frog that puts the loud call of a bullfrog to

If the sum of all starlight that falls on the Earth in one object, it would equal a 100-watt bulb as feet, or the length of two football fields.

There is gas in them there hills . . .

Above Leo prepares to light a second torch off his first gas well. The well which is about 2100 feet into the ground has the capacity of about 300,000 cubic feet of gas per day. In the top photo Leo smells the gas just hit on a well on Clyde Payne's property just off the Mt. Vernon by pass. Leo has leased the gas rights from Payne.

If the gold speculators of the 19th century had known about the natural resource that Rockcastle County has to offer perhaps they would not have traveled all the way to California to pan for gold.

It isn't gold or oil but another resource that could actually be of more benefit to Rockcastle County. It's clean-burning, cheap, efficient, and according to George L. Hunt, there is plenty of it.

It is natural gas, and Tuesday I got a close-up look and a short history of Leo's, as most people refer to him, gas wells that have been drilled so far.

Leo is quite realistic about the entire project. "People have belittled what I am trying to do. They have made fun of me, but it doesn't matter," he said. "The gas is here and we are ready and willing to serve the people of this county."

Hunt said, as he was leaning over yet another gas well, he and Barrett Oil and Gas employees had just brought in only moments before.

Probably Leo's most productive well so far is his first.

On his sister Nancy's property, just off the old Brodhead-Mount Vernon road, Leo has a commercial natural gas well that has been tested. The B.T.U. is high and according to Leo it has the capacity to provide 300,000 cubic feet of gas a day.

"It could be a great cost savings to many people in this county, he noted." It could help attract more industry which could create new jobs and it is considered as safe as electric."

According to most experts 300,000 cubic feet of gas per day is far more than enough to supply the entire city of Mount Vernon as well as the Rockcastle Industrial Park.

Unlike Jed Clampett of Beverly Hills fame, who supposedly struck oil with one shot of his rifle, Leo has spent over 40 years studying the land. He has made over 100 trips to Frankfort to look at geological surveys of natural gas lands.

Leo has encountered many obstacles in his efforts to bring natural gas to Mount Vernon. Mostly because according to Leo people do not understand what he is trying to do.

As we stood and listened to the roar of the gas from the latest well, Leo told me that there was "enough natural gas in this gas structure to supply the county for 100 years."

The last well had been brought in at only 250 feet. It was his fifth commercial well. When a gas well is listed as commercial this means the B.T.U. content is high enough to warrant its use.

"The beauty about natural gas is its cost," he remarked. "It is much cheaper than any other form of energy."

According to Leo it takes about 11 gallons of LP gas to equal 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas. Early estimates are that natural gas cost about $3.25 per 1,000 cubic feet.

Although Leo has been approached by several gas companies about his product he says that he is somewhat leary of their intentions.

"You have to be careful about who you deal with in these situations," he continued. "Some companies may simply want to use the gas for reserves and just sit on it and not develop it for our county."

Of course if he so desired Leo could sell his gas, sit back and reap the benefits.

But, Leo says that he has a genuine desire to provide the people in this county with something much needed, something that will help attract industry, something that can save folks some money.

Leo has received some encouragement from a skeptical Mount Vernon City Council. Mayor Elizabeth Baker told Leo that the city is not financially able to install gas lines at the present time. But she has said that she was sure natural gas would be very beneficial to the city.

At the last meeting of the council when Leo presented the council members and Mrs. Baker with several letters from local businesses, the Mayor told Leo that she did not see any great amount of money available in the near future for the project, but to keep the council informed.

In addition, several residents have voiced opposition to the city being dug up to put in the lines. Others say, it sure seems a small price to pay for the benefits that it would provide.

Five geologists disagreed with Leo about where the gas structure was. They told him to go more toward Pulaski County. Evidently they were wrong.

March LEAP meeting

The March meeting of the Living-Economic Alternatives in Progress (LEAP) Board of Directors was held at the LEAP office Monday. Present were Clyde Carpenter, Boyd Scaif, Judy Scaif, Jimmy Taylor, Ina Taylor, Denise Carpenter, Tammy Gardner and Earl Baker. Clyde Carpenter chaired the meeting.

The main subject for the meeting was a lively discussion of the past year's activities. The Board reviews past activities every spring to see if we are meeting our goals for the projects and the community. We decided that there had been a lot of progress in the past year in getting greater community involvement in LEAP. We now have nine board members compared to five at this time last year. We also have more dues-paying members. Some of this is because of the new credit union services and some is because more people are learning about the organization and want to see the community prosper.

Two major areas of discussion were: The need to develop a training program for new Board members on the duties of being a Board member and on the history of LEAP, and secondly, ideas for another community project to help with community needs. People were most excited about the idea of developing a community center as the next project. Denise and Judy will work on a survey to see if this is also something that other residents would be excited about. Faye Baker, Earl, and Boyd will be developing the board training program.

In other business, Ina Taylor gave the staff activities report and the February financial report. Earl gave a report on what the members of the sorghum making project think we should do with the project.

The members want to continue the project and to raise the price paid to farmer's to $6 a gallon. $6 a gallon is the same as if you raised sorghum and took it to a producer to make it on halves.

A lot of effort will be put into lowering the project costs to produce the syrup this year. The board agreed with the member's recommendation, and we will continue the project.

A decision was also made to send ballots out to all members saying who is running for board positions and how many board positions are available. Election of board members and officers will take place at the Annual Meeting and Bean Supper,

Monday, April 18. The Annual Meeting will include a presentation by the CAPFCU (credit union) staff to answer any questions people have had about the credit union, a year-end report from the LEAP Chair, Faye Baker, and the elections.

LEAP will be holding a special breakfast April 2 to raise money. Denise and Ina will be planning the breakfast and the men volunteered to cook biscuits, pancakes, and eggs. Ham will also be served. So if you want to get a break from cooking before Easter and also help out a worthy organization, come join us. We'll be serving breakfast from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m.

After these decisions, Clyde adjourned the meeting, and we ate cake (brought by Ina) and talked. LEAP meetings are open to anyone and are always held the 3rd Monday in the month at the Senior Citizen Center. Welcome!

Farm and Home News

By: Tom Mills
County Extension Agent
for Agriculture

Farmers who plan to graze cattle during the summer in the hopes they can make a profit may have a difficult time doing so this year.

Current high prices for feeder cattle, coupled with the traditional weakening of prices in the fall, may make turning a profit tough—but not impossible," said Lee Meyer, University of Kentucky Extension agricultural economist.

Farmers can estimate if grazing cattle this summer will be profitable by knowing how much it will cost them to raise the animal and how much they expect to sell the animal for, he said.

"Profit is not simply a matter of getting the highest average daily gains on the cattle. What's important is how much you have to pay for each pound of gain," the economist said. The major cost in a grazing program is the cost of pasture, including land, fence, seed, equipment and labor. However, he said, most farmers mistakenly consider only their out-of-pocket costs.

Farmers need to consider all costs involved in producing each pound of meat if they are to get a true picture of whether summer grazing will be profitable this year, he said.

"Our estimates are that it costs the farmer $57 for each calf he grazes during the summer, which includes $9 for veterinary costs, $5 for including fees, $3 on trucking, $23 interest on money borrowed to buy the animal, $8 to cover death losses and $9 for pasture maintenance," he said.

If the farmer is to break even, he has to add enough pounds to the calf to cover that $57, Meyer said. With some grazing systems, especially those using poor quality pasture, that may be difficult.

To calculate how much it will cost him per pound, a farmer can add the cost for the calf to the cost of grazing the calf (an average of $57) and divide that by the expected weight of the calf at the end of the grazing season.

"That price per pound represents the farmer's break even point. If prices next fall are less than that, he will lose money. If prices are above, he can show a profit," Meyer said.

Alfalfa Insect

An insect that in recent years has caused substantial hardship to Kentucky alfalfa producers will be emerging soon from eggs laid in fields last fall, predicts a University of Kentucky Extension entomologist.

"We know considerably more about the alfalfa weevil than we did. We now know when farmers should start scouting their fields for the pesky insect," said Chris Christensen, UK entomologist.

Entomologists, scientists who study the life cycles of insects, know that alfalfa weevil eggs will not hatch unless that weevil has been exposed to a certain amount of warmth, Christensen said.

Entomologists predict the earliest time that the insects will emerge by calculating the number of degree days, an index of warmth, that has accumulated from Jan. 1. The eggs won't hatch until 190 degree days have accumulated, he said.

"We've accumulated from 50 to 100 degree days as of March 7, depending on where in the state the fields are located," said Tom Priddy, University of Kentucky Extension meteorologist.

Some of the locations and their degree-day accumulations include: Paducah (84); Louisville (63); Lexington (60); Covington (43); Jackson (103); and Huntington (71).

So far this year, Priddy said, the degree day accumulations are slightly ahead of last year's.

"When the critical value of 190 degree days has accumulated, we can predict that at least some of the eggs will begin to hatch and infestation will increase as the weather turns warmer," Christensen said.

Farmers need to scout their alfalfa fields at that time to see the level of infestation. The weevils are about a quarter-inch long, light brown and leave alfalfa foliage with feathery edges as they feed.

Although the weevils can be controlled by applying low rates of carbofuran or chlorpyrifos, they often are controlled naturally by a fungus that kills them.

Farmers can increase the chances that the weevils will be killed by the fungus by cutting their first crop a bit early, he said.

Withdrawing hay sets up favorable conditions for the fungus to sporulate. As a result of having more fungus, more weevils are killed, he said.

"Because the naturally occurring fungus often cleans out the field, we urge farmers to watch their fields closely and spray them only if the insect numbers are sufficient to pay for the chemicals they use, Christensen said.

Sp/4 Owens recommended for Army award

Specialist Four David W. Owens, 402-04-9531, is recommended for award of the Army Commendation Medal for exceptionally meritorious service while serving as Battalion SIPHERS Clerk for Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 5th Battalion, 68th Armor Regiment, during the period 23 May 1986 through 19 May 1988. Outstanding performance by a genuinely sincere, professional soldier. From the time of his arrival, Specialist Owens has continued to achieve optimum results in the performance of all assigned and inherent duties. Specialist Owens is one of the finest SIPHERS orchestrators I have ever known. His demonstrated outstanding managerial ability in the complex and diversified operations of the SIPHERS system is truly remarkable. He exhibited initiative and took independent action in his areas of responsibility. His expert and efficient monitoring of all battalion and company personnel changes insured that necessary SIPHERS transactions were readily identified. He further coordinated every action that involved other areas of the PAC operation such as EER reporting, pay transactions, and analysis of various monthly statistical reports. In this regard, his technical and administrative expertise had resulted in heightening the feeling of a "team effort" in the PAC which in turn produced a more timely, accurate and complete products. His expertise proved to be invaluable to the management and success of the PAC. He consistently maintained an average of 98 percent or better of all SIPHERS transactions processed without error, thus exceeding the very high division standard of 97 percent. His superb planning and indepth knowledge of the intricacies of the SIPHERS system contributed significantly to the successful outcome the PAC enjoyed during our recent Annual General Inspection. It was no surprise when Specialist Owens received two commendables in areas of the SIPHERS system in which he single-handedly managed. His "can do" attitude was demonstrated on all occasions by a thorough knowledge of his work, exceptional reliability and resoluteness of purpose. He is particularly competent at working under pressure and meeting deadlines as repeatedly shown in his daily activities and requirements. This was evidenced during the difficult period of the transition from the SIPHERS system to the new TACCS system in which he demonstrated outstanding organizational ability in developing the new formats and procedures to the continuity of operations resulting in a smooth transition. Specialist Owens' good common sense, trustworthiness, high morals and military conduct were of the highest order, worthy of emulation by his peers. His professional competence is equalled by a limited few. His overall performance can only best be described as exemplary. I am confident that the commands he will serve as he advances on will count themselves fortunate indeed, for he will serve them beyond their expectations. Specialist Owens' numerous achievements are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, the 5th Battalion, 68th Armor Regiment, the 8th Infantry Division (Mechanized), and the United States Army.

Grants available for fire depts.

Grants to assist rural fire departments in upgrading their equipment will be available again this year according to Donald A. Hamm, Director, Division of Forestry, Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

This year $40,000 will be available. The grants are available to fire departments in communities of 10,000 population or less. The grants require the departments to match the grant on at least a 50-50 basis. Last year 108 rural fire departments completed grants. They matched the grants with an expenditure of nearly $64,000.

The grants can be used for the purchase of firefighting equipment or for training, Hamm said. This year the maximum grant will be $400. A letter explaining the program along with applications have been mailed to over 600 fire departments. Applications must be returned by April 1, 1988.

For additional information, interested fire departments should contact the Division of Forestry, 627 Commerce Trail, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, or phone (502) 564-4496.

Kentucky sheep growers can dream of new technology and methods which will produce a ton of lamb per acre and a ton of lamb per ewe over its lifetime.

It's not just a dream either, said Monty Chappell, Extension sheep specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. It's a goal. It's achievable by the year 2000 — 2,000 pounds per acre, 2,000 pounds per ewe, by the year 2000.

"It's also necessary," Chappell said, "if sheep growers are to remain competitive."

Genetics and keen selection techniques to improve the breeds are the keys to achieving the lofty ambitions, he said.

"We want to do three things," he said. "We want to increase the number of years that ewes efficiently lamb from the current average of five to six. Second, we want to increase the ewe's lambing rate from once a year to three times every two years.

"Third, we want to increase the number of twins per lamb crop," he said. "Now ewes have an average of just about one and a quarter lambs per crop. With modern genetics, twin lambs can be the norm."

Is this pie-in-the-sky dreaming? Not at all, said Chappell. AT UK's annual Sheep Profit Day, scheduled for June 9, at Coldstream Farm, Larry Young, a sheep geneticist from the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center, will be on hand as part of the day's activities to tell interested sheep growers how they can start reaching toward these lofty goals now.

Chappell said Kentucky ewes now breed an average of five years, producing market lambs weighing an average of 115 pounds each, for a lifetime average of 600 to 700 pounds.

"This same ewe if in production six years will have a total of 18 lambs if we can get her to have twins each time and to lamb three times every two years," Chappell said. "That'll give you the ton of lamb per ewe."

How about the ton of lamb per acre of pasture?

"Right now, a grower has 150 ewes on 32 acres," Chappell said. "If those ewes were producing at the above rate, that's about 1,600 pounds per grazing acre. That's within shouting distance of the 2,000."

Or, Chappell said, if the land is removed from pasture to grow corn, it would produce 640 tons of corn silage or 213 tons of dry matter. That would support 200 ewes which could produce well over a ton of lamb per acre.

"We've got the genetics to do it," Chappell said. "New breeds show great promise for consistently having twins. One such breed is the booroola merino, which is available this year on a limited basis. Another, the Romanov, is on the drawing boards and showing promise. The Finn breed has been around a few years and it has a high rate of twinning."

Why wait until 2000 to achieve the goals then?

To get three lambings in two years now is not impossible, but it is difficult, he said. To do that, the lamb must be weaned at 60 days or less, and the ewe must be rebred within two 16-day heat cycles. That's ideal, but not always easy to achieve. It does require more intensive management.

With a ewe pregnant for five months, if her lamb can be weaned at 60 days, and then she can be rebred in a month, that's a total of eight months which allows the three breedings over a 24-month span.

"I feel confident we should be able to achieve this in a more regular basis by the year 2,000," Chappell said.

"But even if the average grower doesn't do that, if he does just half that well, you're looking at profitability."

Telephoning to Social Security office is best idea

It is a good idea for people in the Richmond area to call Social Security before taking the time to visit the office. The reason is that most Social Security business can be taken care of by telephone, Bob Anderson, Social Security Manager in Richmond, said recently.

Unless the person's business is urgent, it is best to call after the middle of the month and later in the week. Inquiries can be handled more quickly then, Anderson said.

Even if a person needs to visit the office, it is a good idea to call for an appointment. This can help shorten waiting time.

Examples of the business that can be handled by phone include:

- Applying for Social Security benefits. A claim can be started by phone and completed by mail; applying for Medicare; changing name and address in Social Security records; reporting a change in marital status; reporting stopping or starting work or to report any other event that can have an effect on benefits; reporting a lost or stolen check or delayed payment; getting help in completing a Medicare form; arranging for direct deposit of checks; getting a benefit estimate; requesting a statement of earnings; getting help in requesting a review of a claim decision.

To ask any question about Social Security, the telephone number of the Richmond Social Security office is 256-5109.

Big bull sale set for April 2 at stockyards

By: Tom Mills

at Hopkinsville, the Eden Shale bulls have complete performance records for the buyer to consider.

Last year, the average price for one of the Eden Shale bulls was $1,600 with the range from $900 to $3,000. Sale is sponsored by the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service and the Kentucky Beef Cattle Association.

Condition of Beef Cows is critical at Calving!

Because of hay and pasture shortages last fall, many Kentucky cows are now too thin at the start of this calving season. Concerned farmers will begin a supplemental feeding program to enable their cows to calve easier and to be rebred earlier.

The flesh condition of spring calving cows, both before and after calves are born, is a definite indicator of the cows' ability to produce milk and their capability to be quickly rebred. To be profitable in the beef business, cows should be rebred so that calving occurs every 365 days.

Cows in good condition with ample stores of body fat will return to cycling earlier after their calve. Earlier rebreeding keeps them on a profitable one calf per year system.

The gestation period of cattle is about 282 days which means a cow must cycle and rebred within 83 days following calving. Normally, for cows in good condition and which did not have problems at calving, cycling occurs 50 to 60 days after the calf is born. This allows for a four or five week period to be rebred. However, cows which are thin at calving will take longer to breed, or they may not rebred at all in a 60 to 90 day exposure to the bull.

Although it is impractical to weigh cows close to calving, a simple visual inspection can be effective to detect relative fatness. By recognizing differences in body condition, one can plan a supplemental feeding program so that cows are maintained in satisfactory condition for best performance through calving and rebreeding.

Milk production holding steady

Kentucky's milk production level has been steady, averaging up to 2.3 billion pounds annually, said Robert Beck, marketing economist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. That's still a lot of milk for the state to produce. For example, a gallon weighs 8.6 pounds. In other words, that 2.3 billion pounds could convert to 267,441,860 gallons of milk.

Another way of putting this is that much would amount to more than 18,000 glasses of milk for every man, woman and child in Kentucky.

Why is so much milk being produced, both locally and nationwide, despite fewer numbers of milk cows? "The increase in milk production per cow is due to genetic improvements in breeding, better management practices, and cheaper feed which enables dairymen to increase feed allowances per cow," said Beck.

Fortunately, the people in Kentucky don't have to try to consume all those 18,000 glasses of milk per person. Milk and dairy products are exported to nearby states.

"Milk consumption has increased in the sun-belt states, and Kentucky is right on the northern edge of this rapidly expanding market," Beck said. "Therefore, the state can export its surplus milk to this region," Beck said.

The Kentucky dairy industry has, to a large extent, benefited from its location, he said, and it is projected to continue to do so in the future.

Fire Fighter's Corner

Welding with acetylene is very common. It is readily available and does a good job. It is also the most dangerous method. Commercial acetylene contains phosphine, ammonia, and hydrogen sulfide which gives it a garlic odor.

Its explosive range is wider than any other common flammable gas: 2.5 - 93 percent in air. Ignition temperature is relatively high - 572°F. But its flame has a temperature of 5,700°F. Almost everything known to man will burn or break down at this level.

Acetylene is also unstable. It breaks down when ignited at pressure above 15 psi to form explosive mixtures. The storage cylinders can have pressures up to 250 psi because they contain a filler of sand, lime, and asbestos and also contains acetone, which stabilizes acetylene. The filler absorbs any air pockets built up. The cylinders have soft plugs which melt about 200°F to release built up pressure. The escaping vapor will burn very fast. If stored along side oxygen cylinders, the oxygen cylinders can explode.

Store cylinders upright in a cool, well ventilated area. It forms explosive compounds with copper, silver, mercury, and chlorine. Use iron or steel piping. Practice safety.

Plowing time is right around the corner. Better stock up on fertilizer, weed killer, insecticides, pesticides, etc. But store the materials separately and away from the house in a cool ventilated area.

Read the labels. Irritant. Poison. Combustible. What are the ingredients? Get a hazardous materials book and find out. Or ask a firefighter to help you. He has access to reference materials.

Each chemical has different properties, hazards, and storage rules. If combined with other materials, the result can be tragic. Always wear protective clothing-cap, goggles, mask, chemical resistant gloves and apron. Some materials can be absorbed through clothes and the skin and cause death. Sometimes instantly. Sometimes years later. But this get up looks silly, maybe. But too many people are not around anymore because they thought this and didn't follow safety rules. Well, I've used this stuff for 50 years. Cough. Cough. Maybe. Depending on the toxic levels inside your body, you could drop before you finish the next sentence.

Use your head. A lot of chemicals are tougher than you.

Please support your local fire department.

These articles are a public service of the Brodhead Fire Department and this newspaper

Three years ago, Joe Burton of Pulaski County bought a herd bull from the Central Bull Test Station Sale. Now, the son of that bull is gaining weight faster than any of the other 100 bulls currently on the same test.

"That shows that quality produces quality," said Carla Nichols, University of Kentucky Extension animal scientist who coordinates the UK bull testing program.

Using a tested bull will increase calf weaning weights at least 20 pounds over using "just a bull".

Beef producers who want to produce bigger, better doing calves and make more money from their operations should consider buying one of the bulls offered through UK's bull testing programs.

Beef producers will have a large selection of bulls to choose from April 2, when about 70 bulls tested at the Central Bull Testing Station at Eden Shale will be sold at the Bluegrass #2 stockyards in Lexington. The sale begins at 12 noon local time.

There will be bulls representing 10 breeds sold at the sale: Angus, Charolais, Chianina; Chiangus, Limousin, Polled Hereford, Simmental, Shorthorn, Santa Gertrudis and Salers.

Each of these bulls will have been on test for 140 days and all were born between January 15 and April 15 last year. As with the bulls that were sold

Auctioneer's Note: These properties have been in the Robbins family for many many years. It is indeed a rare opportunity to be able to purchase this much land at one auction. To timber buyers, we invite you to carefully look over tracts 1 and 5 before sale date and examine the timber. To the developer, tracts 2, 3 and 4 would be carefully examined. In addition, with each tract having some tobacco base, each would warrant farmers consideration. Mark your calendar now. Remember, it's an absolute auction.

The Rockcastle Health Center WIC Program celebrated National Nutrition Month by sponsoring a WIC food fair March 22, 1988. The event was coordinated by Lynnett Fortney, Nutritionist.

The theme of the food fair was "Look What You Can Do With WIC Foods!" This event gave the children, as well as mothers, the opportunity to sample new foods or nutritious snacks that were made with WIC approved foods. The sample foods at the fair included banana crunch, bean dip with vegetable sticks, cheeseballs, cheese and fruit kabobs, egg salad, juice pops, Swiss cheese spread and yogurt.

The Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) provides, without cost to the recipient, specific nutritious foods and nutrition education to those pregnant and postpartum women, infants and children to five years of age, identified as low-income and at nutritional risk.

WIC is one of the most successful and effective nutrition programs ever developed. The purpose of the supplemental foods, nutrition education, and basic health assessments is ultimately to improve the outcome of high risk pregnancies, decrease the incidence of anemia and poor growth patterns, and to improve the dietary patterns of the recipients.

If you think WIC can help you or someone in your family, please contact the health department (256-2242) to see if you might qualify for this program.

Recent advances in the lively art of conversation.

We've always believed that the world would be a better place if people spent more time talking to each other.

So we have some ways to help.

Speak sooner.

When you have something to say, why wait any longer than you have to?

With Speed Calling from Contel you don't have to waste precious time dialing seven long digits. You touch one number and your call goes through.

Why leave anybody out of the conversation?

You know how it is. Sometimes you have two people you can't wait to talk to. With Three-way Calling, you can talk to both of them at the same time.

Don't miss anything.

Sometimes other people can't wait to talk to you. There's really no reason to miss talking to them just because you don't happen to be home. With Call Forwarding from Contel you can forward your calls to the place you're going to be.

Let someone else get a word in edgewise.

You know what it feels like when you call someone and the line's busy. With Call Waiting this doesn't have to happen to people who call you. If you're on the phone and someone calls, you hear a little beep. And you can interrupt your call and see who else wants to talk.

We can't wait to talk to you.

Already you're probably thinking how some of these features can fit nicely into your conversations. If you'd like to talk about them or ask some questions, give us a call. We're all ears.

Golden Years homemakers

On Friday, March 11, 1988, Mrs. Eva Mullins, called The Golden Years Homemakers Club to order. There were fifteen members and staff present.

Our minutes were read by Virginia Sowder. Mrs. Bettye Roach called the roll.

Devotions were read by Jean Gentry. The topic was Love, a Gift from God. As Jean discussed love, and how we share it with others, she unrolled a ball of yarn. Jean held one end and told about some way she had shown love, or had love shown to her. Then she tossed the rest of the yarn to someone else. When everyone held their piece of yarn it made a pretty design in the middle. We pulled the yarn tight, showing the strong bond of love. Some of us let our piece of yarn go. This showed that everyone has to work together or love falls and becomes ugly, sometimes causing lots of stress.

Our lesson was on stress. Jean asked what we worried about. Most everyone said they wanted to go home, but knew that they couldn't. Jean pointed out that this is harmful stress. Worrying about something you can do something about is helpful, good stress.

Sowing and Reaping

Spring is the time that farmers and gardeners prepare the soil and plant the seed. The law of sowing and reaping is one of the oldest universal laws. It functions in natural realms (Gen. 1:12); it works in moral realms, and among individuals (Gal. 6:7-8).

A seed will produce only AFTER ITS KIND. God said, "Let the earth put forth vegetation, plants yielding seed, and fruit trees bearing fruit in which their seed each according to its kind, upon the earth" (Gen. 1:11-12).

This natural law is paralleled by a spiritual law. In the parable of the Sower, Jesus stated, "The seed is the word of God" (Lk. 8:11). The soil is the human heart. The good ground is the honest and good heart that receives the Word of God with joy and bears fruit with patience.

This spiritual law will remain. As long as the seed remains the same and the soil remains the same, the Word of God will make a Christian and nothing else. It will not make a Hindu. It will not make various brands of "Christians." It will not make "Baptist Christians" or "Methodist Christians." If something of this sort exists, it does so because something other than or in addition to the Word of God has been planted.

The final harvest will be in the last day (Matt. 13:39). What will YOUR harvest be? Do not be deceived. God is not mocked; whatever a man sows that shall he also reap. This is true in the physical, moral and spiritual realms. You will reap what you sow (Ga. 6:7-8). The function of a teacher is to plant the right seed in the human heart. Another teacher may water the plant but it is God who gives life and makes the plant grow. Friend, what has been sown in your heart?
