

Barriers

There are many barriers in life that keep us from doing things we want to do. One of them that has been a recent problem to me is my lack of ability to concentrate long enough to write my column...or maybe the words in my pencil or word processor, whichever I may be using, has hid or got lost and I need a refill. And since I spend half my time searching for lost or displaced things I searched till I found the words needed to express some of my thoughts.

Barriers can be an asset or they can be a hindrance. It's according to what it is and how the person being affected reacts to it. I'll talk about one today that is a special gripe of mine. I'm sure most of you who have been followers of my "Sweet and Sour" column know the love I have of rivers and streams of flowing water. And the bridges crossing these streams have played an important role in the development of our country.

We have come a long way since the footlog or stepping stones were used as a means of getting from one side of a creek or river to the other. Let's go back ways to the time of those ancient ways of getting across a simple trickle of water from a mountain stream or a raging river. A fallen log across the spring branch or two or three rocks well spaced was sufficient to get one across most creeks even though slippery and tricky to walk on. One mis-step, loss of balance or stepping on a loose or slippery rock and you may find yourself sitting in amongst the tadpoles and minnows. But way back then balancing ones self on a footlog or tier pole in the loft of the barn was as natural as tossing a ball into a basket is to the kids of today. The footlog was the forerunner of man made bridges. One of the first being swinging bridges. These were also tricky to walk on and one had to use all his balancing powers to hold on to the side ropes and place his feet just so-so to keep the rhythm of the swaying bridge from getting out of control. Once learned a person could cross it without any trouble. Then there were the covered bridges on bigger streams that not only was a way of crossing but it was a shelter in bad weather for travelers. I visited one of these picturesque bridges not too long ago in W. Virginia and there were old mementoes of the past, saddles and harnesses hanging on the walls which brought back many memories of other days and way of travel. Iron bridges with their beautiful scrolled side rails were next to be popular. To me these were the best yet for one could see all the scenery that is associated with running water. There is no better place to see where the water is coming from and going to than from one of these bridges. The shoreline is in full view and whether it is lined with trees or the banks are the harboring place for wild life or flowers one is able to see and enjoy it as well as the valley or mountain beyond.

Todays bridges, with their high solid concrete side walls, are a tragedy for the sight seer for they have become a barrier to the beauty of the natural scenery beneath them. No longer can one see the swiftly flowing or fippling water, the cliffs or flower covered shore line as the traffic swiftly crossing these bridges, each vehicle vying for every inch of space, seem to have one thought in mind, get to the other side as quickly as possible and disappear just as quickly into the mele of traffic ahead.

We are told these walls are for the protection of the travelers. Yet we invite many of these travelers as tourists to see the beauty of our states. (Me thinks the highway department engineers need to another look at this problem)

When someone is invited to enjoy the beauties of a place like Cumberland Falls or Natural Bridge you can be sure concrete barriers are not put up so they cannot be seen. The old iron bridges with their intricate and beautiful frame work allowed one to see up and down the river or stream of water beneath and was an asset to the surroundings, why can't we preserve these as a part of our heritage and use our natural beauty as a calling card to the tourists who are searching for a bit of the past as well as the beauty of a state like Kentucky where Bluegrass Country subtly disappears into the foothills and the Appalachian Mountains begin their reign.

I remember when Mat and I took a trip out west one of his greatest desires was to see the Mississippi River. This never happened for the bridges crossing it were the modern ones with high side walls and the traffic was too heavy to stop and look. We crossed it several times without ever seeing the water beneath. Yet the bridge crossing Lake Pontchartrain, New Orleans, Louisiana, was designed so the travelers could even park and take their time enjoying the scenery. The causeway across Lake Pontchartrain is twenty nine miles and we began our drive across it just at dusk. I still catch my breath in wonder when I think about it. The water beneath was glassy dark with reflections of the lights from the bridge and boats of every size making it look like a miniature sky. For as far as one could see there were boats of every description, not crowding one another for there was plenty of room for all.

Little pleasure craft or big cruise ships, barges full of merchandise or houseboats full of people all shared the beauty of the lake. And we shared it all with them. Finally we made it to the other side and found a motel several miles up the road toward home. The next morning Mat asked if I would be interested in going back and seeing the sights by daylight. I was more than ready in record time.

So again we drove over the bridge just as the sun came into full view. And again we were enthralled by the beauty.

Kentucky also has some extraordinary beauty that should not be hidden nor destroyed. The Blue Grass of Kentucky has been called the garden spot of the world for as long as I can remember. And the mountains of Eastern Kentucky have been likened to the beauty of Switzerland. Now why can't the planners and leaders of Kentucky realize they have this treasure in their keeping and do something with it? Something I mean beside allowing it to be destroyed by the greed of the coal barons, the ignorance of modern developers who seemingly do not recognize real beauty or care to preserve it, and the politicians whose main concern is being re-elected or having their salaries increased. These last concerns are the real barriers to Kentucky's taking it's rightful place as being one of the most beautiful, and desirable to live in, states in the union.

Library News
By Geraldine Robbins

The date for the local art show is April 8th through the 22nd. Please call the library if you are planning on exhibiting your art work. Several have already done this but hopefully more will participate in our show. I need to know, no later than April 1st.

The only rules are, you must be a resident of Rockcastle County and your paintings, drawings and etc. has not been displayed in the library at a previous show.

The reception for the artists will be held Saturday, April 8th at 1 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend and show your support for their work.

This is also a good opportunity for those people who do not use our library to look around and see the many services we have to offer to everyone.

We have a good selection of videos and audio tapes. There are around 175 videos to choose from and 70 audio tapes. We plan to add a lot more audio tapes with books in the future for the children.

I want to remind you, if we do not have the books in our collection that you need, we are able to borrow them from other libraries through inner library loan. Usually it does not take over a week and most of the time not that long to receive the books that are borrowed. We do a lot of this type service for teachers and students, especially college students.

We have added a lot of books to our for sale cart. Come in and look these over and help us get rid of the extra copies that are not needed here. In weeding our shelves when we find two or three copies of a book that are

Two new novels for your reading pleasure are... The Year Of The Virgins by Catherine Cookson... There has never been the best of marriages, and over recent years it had become effectively a marriage in name and outward appearance only. Yet, in the autumn of 1960, Winifred and Daniel Coulson still presented a highly acceptable family facade to the outside world. Daniel's business had grown and prospered to the extent of bringing them the wealth to live in Wearcill House, a mansion situated in the most favored outskirts of the northern English town of Fellburn. They were dutiful in their observances as members of the Catholic Church, and they had three sons.

There was something potentially explosive just below the surface of life at Wearcill House, but when the explosion came it was in a totally unforeseeable and devastating form. Its reverberations would plunge the Coulsons into a sequence of physical and emotional crisis out of which would come both good and evil, as well as the revelation of the true significance of the year of the virgins.

Pearl Moon by Katherine Stone... This is a deliciously entertaining novel set in modern Hong Kong. Pearl Moon is the triumphant story of two remarkable sisters, bound by blood but separated by fate, who must cope with an unexpected danger and the challenge of love.

Maylene Kwan is the architect of Hong Kong's most luxurious hotel, the Jade Palace. She is, like the building she designed, an intoxicating blend of East and West, of harmony and conflict. Her desire for rugged Texan Sam Coulter, the hotel's builder, is potent and addictive. But a devastating secret stands between Maylene and true love. Now she will come face-to-face with the American sister she has never met, a sister who doesn't even know Maylene exists.

Photographer Allison Whitaker, the cherished daughter of a powerful Texas family, has always viewed the world through a camera lens. Unaware of the bond she shares with Maylene Allison come to Hong Kong to savor freedom for the first time in her life. She falls in love with the hotel's brilliant developer, James Drake, unwittingly putting her life in jeopardy as Drake's rival prepares for a deadly showdown.

not checked out very much, we place them on this cart and hope that someone can use them at home or maybe give them to a person that doesn't come to the library or doesn't use the bookmobile. We have just received a large shipment of books consisting of easy books for preschool and primary age children, several fiction books for young adults, and non-fiction books for adults.

One of the non-fiction books is... The Delany Sisters Book of Everyday Wisdom. Sarah and A. Elizabeth Delany, now 105 and 103 years old, took the reading public by storm with their surprise bestseller, Having Our Say: The Delany Sisters' First 100 Years. Since then, people all over the world have been writing and asking them questions such as these:

In The Delany Sisters' Book of Everyday Wisdom the sisters provide answers to these questions and many others, as well as offering counsel and telling examples on such subjects as:

- When a lady should confess her age.
- Why life was slower when trains were faster.
- How young people can stay out of trouble.
- The difference between getting and learning.
- How to make money in hard times.
- Preparing to die by having the faith to live.

Since the publication of Having Our Say, the sisters have become international celebrities. I'm sure you will enjoy this book as well as the previous one.

Conservation district cost-share program announced

The Rockcastle County Conservation District will be accepting requests for cost-share funding under the Kentucky Soil Erosion and Water Quality Cost-Share Program beginning April 1, 1995 and extending through April 30, 1995.

The Kentucky Soil Erosion and Water Quality Cost-Share Program was created to help agricultural operations protect the soil and water resources of Kentucky. This program is a result of House Bill 377 which was passed in the 1994 General Assembly. This bill established annual cost-share funds to be administered by Conservation Districts, with priority given to animal waste related problems and Agricultural District participants where pollution problems have been identified. Initial funding for the program will be provided by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture.

Funding for practices will be approved by the Soil and Water Conservation Commission at the Kentucky Division of Conservation, located in Frankfort, as funds are available.

For more information stop by the Conservation District office located at the Agricultural Building, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office can be reached by phone at 256-2541.

Buying a Used Car? Know Your Rights

By: Hazel Jackson
County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

When you buy a used car you can get a good deal or a good deal of grief. Knowing your rights will help you make sure that the transaction is a good deal only.

Many of the problems associated with buying a used car result from the fact that consumers do not understand that most used cars usually do not come with a warranty and that they don't have three days after purchasing the vehicle to return it if they are not satisfied. The three-day return policy applies mostly to merchandise sold door-to-door, not to the purchase of used vehicles.

In most private sales, the car is sold "as is". Without a written contract with specific repair provisions, the private seller has no further responsibility for the car. If you have a written contract, the seller must live up to the promises stated in the contract. Depending on its age, the car may be covered by a manufacturer's warranty or service contract.

Ask the seller to let you examine any unexpired warranty or service contract on the vehicle. Also, ask the seller whether you may have the vehicle inspected by your own mechanic before you purchase.

If you are buying a used car from a dealer, the Federal Trade Commission's "Used Car Rule" may help you. The rule requires all used car dealers to place a large sticker, called a "Buyers Guide," in the window of each used vehicle they offer for sale.

The Buyers Guide will state: 1) Whether the vehicle comes with a warranty and, if so, what specific warranty protection the dealer will provide; and 2) Whether the vehicle comes with no warranty ("as is").

Dealers are required to post the Buyers Guide on all used vehicles, including used automobiles, light-duty vans, and light-duty trucks. A "used vehicle" is one that has been driven more than the distance necessary to deliver a new car to the dealership or to test drive it. Therefore, "demonstrator" cars are covered by the Used Car Rule. Motorcycles are excluded.

When shopping for a used car, beware of odometer rollbacks. Kentucky Law states that the odometer on a vehicle cannot be disconnected or moved in order to register lower mileage.

If the seller knows the registered mileage to be incorrect because the odometer has been replaced, repaired, or previously tampered with, a statement to that effect must be included on the mileage disclosure form. It should include date of repair or replacement and the mileage BEFORE and afterward. When purchasing a vehicle, be certain you receive a mileage disclosure statement before title is transferred. If the dealer refuses to furnish the statement, call the Consumer Protection Division and DO NOT BUY THE CAR. If you would like a free copy of either of the bulletins "Buying A Used Car" or "Odometer Rollback" or have any automobile complaints or warranty questions, call the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division at 1-800-432-9257.

Babysitter over age 18? No need to report wages paid

"Am I required to report my babysitter's earnings to social security and pay taxes on those earnings?" that has become a frequent question from people who call or visit the Social Security office.

The answer is "You don't need to report his or her earnings and pay Social Security taxes if the person is under age 18 unless babysitting is the person's primary occupation."

However, if your babysitter or child care provider is over age 18 and you pay him or her $1,000 or more during the year, you'll need to report the earnings and pay the employer portion of Social Security taxes (7.65 percent). You also need to withhold the same amount of Social Security taxes from the babysitter's earnings and send that amount to the Internal Revenue Service. The report is due once a year. You can make the report and pay the taxes when you file your federal income tax return. These same rules apply to anyone you hire to work in your household, whether the person provides child care, cooks, cares for your lawn or garden, or performs any other kind of household work for you.

We've seen an increase in the number of inquiries at the Richmond SSA office about reporting household earnings as the result of a new law that was enacted late last year to simplify the reporting requirements. Previously, people who hired household workers were required to report any household worker earnings that exceeded $50 during a calendar quarter.

Re seeding
Your Clover

Is it cost effective to seed better varieties of red clover? Research from the Agronomy Department of the University of Kentucky has compared the performance of common or unimproved red clovers to certified varieties at research farms throughout Kentucky. Their results found that the certified improved varieties yielded an average of 1,000 pounds more forage per acre in the first year of production for a spring seeding.

In the second year, seeding a better variety was worth 2,500 pounds more forage per acre.

Even if the improved seed cost $0.75 more per pound and you seeded 10 pounds of seed per acre, that extra $7.50 was worth over 3,500 pounds of forage over the first two years.

Stands of the improved varieties were thick and vigorous going into their second winter, while the commons were clearly thinning. A comparison of the lowest yielding common clover vs. the best certified clover over a 3-year period showed a 11,000 pound advantage to the certified clover.

Getting an extra 220 square bales over three years can easily pay the additional $7.50.

Don't settle for anything less than an improved, certified variety of red clover. You can tell if the variety is certified by the presence of a blue tag on the bag. The blue tag is the only guarantee that the genetics in the bag match the name on the tag. Contact your farm supply dealer 6 to 10 days before you need the seed so they can be sure to have a certified variety on hand.

The bottom line is that seeding an improved, certified variety of red clover pays, period.

Complete data on these trials are available at the County Extension Office.

For information on the Soil Conservation District's No-Till Drill for seeding clover, call 256-2541.

"We quickly become close to patients and their families. This is person to person care."

"Our Special Care Unit is a very warm place where the staff becomes a link between the patient and the family. These patients do require intensive care, and that care means nurses that are very skilled in not only the medical and technical aspects, but the psycho-social needs too.

Anxiety levels are high for the patients families....visitation is limited, so we try to update them as often as possible. Plus, we explain the 'whats and whys' of all the equipment. This alleviates a lot of anxiety, especially when there's suddenly something 'different' on a loved one's monitor.

I'm very proud of our unit. Beyond the sophisticated support technology, there's real 'feeling' care here. This is a special place."

Senters murder trial is Monday

A Rockcastle County man charged with the beating death of his six-month-old son almost two years ago will go on trial in Rockcastle Circuit Court on Monday.

Paul Wayne Senters, 29, of Mt. Vernon was first indicted in February 1993 for assaulting his twin sons, Buster and Lester. Senters was also ordered to stay away from his children.

Buster Wayne died on April 16, 1993, at the University of Kentucky, from a condition doctors described as "shaken baby syndrome." When doctors at U.K., who notified police, examined Buster they found evidence of a previously broken collar bone and fractured ribs.

Senters was indicted in May 1993 for his son's murder. He is currently free on bond.

Belcher case is misdemeanor

Apparently Kentucky law does not think giving legal advice is as heinous a crime as Commonwealth Attorney Ray Carmichael

Earlier this month a counselor with Christian Appalachian Project was indicted by a Rockcastle County Grand Jury for practicing law without a license. The only problem is that, Kentucky law says that crime is only a misdemeanor and a person cannot be indicted for such.

The case against Bill Belcher has been transferred to Rockcastle District Court and he is presently free on his own recognizance until his next court appearance.

Replaces Joe Cummins

Fiscal court hires David Sowder as new dog warden

By Ray McClure

Left-over items from previous meetings were taken up by the Rockcastle Fiscal Court at a called meeting Tuesday, but the court failed to resolve them.

A sales engineer from GTE talked to the court for nearly an hour about a 911 emergency number. The court listened and then took the question under advisement until a later date.

(Another story on 911 is on Page 1 of this edition of the Signal.) Another question was also put off. An ordinance establishing flood insurance in Rockcastle was delayed until further information is available. David Sowder was appointed dog warden until Dec. 31 replacing Joe Cummins. The motion to hire Sowder was made by magistrate Jack Bradley seconded by Bill McKinney.

The court expressed their "like" of former Dog Warden Joe Cummins but said they only had a commitment through March.) The dog warden receives $450 a month and $100 a month for expenses.

Marvin Stone, state forester, gave the court a $487 check as first payment of the amount collected for illegal burning, another check is forthcoming.

A check for $275,000 was presented to the court from Kentucky

A sign of Spring

Jerry Bullock, Cub Master of Pack 263, and Cub Scouts Johnny Mackey and Nicholas Eaton were busy Monday afternoon planting young trees as part of a community service for the Pack to help them attain badges, pins and patches. 18 members of the Pack participated in planting the young saplings in back of MYES to help as windbreakers for the school. Other members of Pack 263 were: Joseph Alcorn, Michael Lovell, Matthew Taylor, Matthew Allen, Jeremy Cook, Ricky Sandusky, Coty Alexander, Jonathan Bradley, Timothy Tyler, David Miller, Andrew Nelson, Stephen Powell, Chris Toile, Matthew Carter, Matthew Wynn, Robby Sandusky.

If court passes ordinance

911 could cost residents $1.50

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court is one step closer to implementing a 911 emergency system for Rockcastle County.

Tom Sturtevant a representative with G.T.E. South told the Rockcastle Fiscal Court that a charge of $1.50 per telephone customer in Rockcastle County should cover the cost of the service. Currently 5,293 homes and businesses pay bills in Rockcastle.

The fiscal court can pass an ordinance that will allow G.T.E. to collect the $1.50 per month and they can do it now, before the system actually goes into place.

By passing the ordinance now, the county could bank the money and use it to pay for the $91,343.66 in equipment and installation of a central dispatch. However the court made no move to pass the tax now and took it under advisement.

It will take 12 months to 24 months to map the county, and the fiscal court must decide how they want to accomplish the mapping task.

In Bath county, one county employee did all the work, it took him 28 months.

Ironically, in Floyd County ten officials were sued yesterday because the county had collected over $800,000 over the past five years for a 911 service that is still not in place.

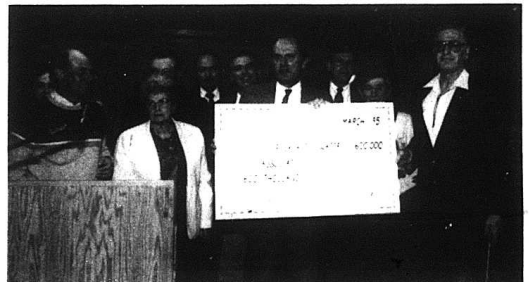

The court did not take any action yesterday, although the majority of court members including County Judge Buzz Carlifolis, have indicated they are in favor of the service.

Rockcastle County Attorney Jeff Burtette has told the court that they could be in violation of state law, if they do not implement 911.

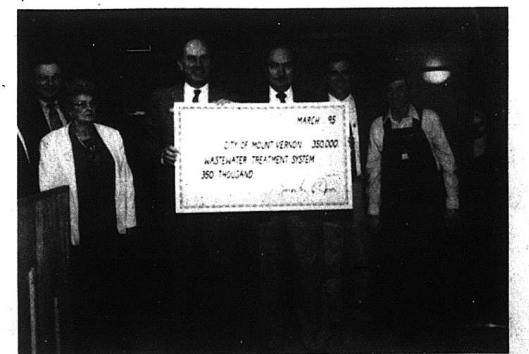

Set clocks ahead Saturday night

Rockcastle residents should remember to set their clocks ahead one hour Sunday morning at 2 a.m. when the eastern United States officially goes to Eastern Daylight Savings Times.

Gov. passes out grant money

Kentucky Governor Brereton Jones brought good news to Rockcastle County and the City of Mt. Vernon last week with the announcement that he was recommending $950,000 in Appalachian Regional Commission Grants. The grant for the Rockcastle Water Association will help provide water to over 300 more Rockcastle residents and the $350,000 grant for the City of Mt. Vernon will help build a new pump station and upgrade their sewer system. Above Gov. Jones is shown with left, David Ballinger, president of Rockcastle Water Association, Juanita Davis, County Republican Chairman, Danny Ford, State Representative, Gary Cromer, Mt. Vernon Mayor, Buzz Carlifolis, Rockcastle County Judge-Executive, Gov. Jones, Larry Doyle, County Democrat Chairman, William McClure and Joe Martin, vice-president of Rockcastle Water Association. Falcon Cable rates going up

Have you got your letter yet? If not, you will.

It will be from Roy Baker, regional manager for Falcon Cable TV. Roy will get the complaints.

The letter will tell you as of April 15 you're going to have an "increase." Cable television is going up in "Order for us to continue bringing you the quality service and entertainment you value," Baker said.

Under the new rates the basic rate will go up $1.02 to $18.41 from $17.39. The Satellite Package will increase from $2.95 to $3.15 or 20 cents.

According to Falcon they "appreciate and understand customer concerns regarding rate adjustments. Although our rates may be changing this is our first Basic rate increase since Sept. 1, 1993."

Baker reported "we may move some channels for technical and security reasons. If we decide to make any channel changes we will notify you in advance."

The local franchise authority is City of Mt. Vernon, P.O. Box 516, Mt. Vernon, Ky., 40456 or telephone 606-256-3437.

I'm just back from a five day trip to Chicago, another one of those great American bastions of foreign taxi drivers who speak no English, but somehow know how to get around the largest cities in the world at break-neck speed in old Ford sedans with no shocks on them.

Remember the fairy tale about the princess who couldn't go to sleep because she could feel a pea through 20 mattresses? I rode in some cabs that had the same sensitivity. Every time they'd run over a gravel I could feel my false teeth chatter and I learned to keep a sharp eye on the road in case a chug hole was coming up so I could lift myself up on one hand and throw as much weight as possible onto my feet. The bumps are a lot easier to take if you're sort of semi-standing than if you take them full force on your rear end.

I left Kentucky hoping that the weather would be a bit cooler up north and that nothing would be blooming because the local pollen has been giving my sinuses fits for most of the month. I had also double checked to make sure my hotel was down near Lake Michigan where I figured there would be enough moisture in the air to cleanse it of the stuff that sets off my allergies.

The hotel was, in fact, about 200 yards back from the lake but there wasn't a building between them. Just a big patch of crab apple trees in a place called Grant Park and a major highway separated us. Unfortunately the crab-apples were just beginning to bud, the sun was shining and the temperature was over 70 when I arrived on Saturday afternoon.

A brisk breeze was blowing in off the lake and the windows on my hotel were already covered with a yellow haze. By the time I finished checking in my eyes were nearly swollen shut and I was sneezing about five times per minute. I doubt that I've ever been so homesick for Paint Lick.

I managed to find a ten-pack of those little dust masks with elastic bands to go around behind your ears that you see exterminators and surgeons wearing. I'd seen several people on the street wearing them and even though they didn't catch all the pollen, they made life considerably more bearable.

I managed to get in a visit to Shedd Aquarium and the Museum of Natural History while I was there. If you're ever in Chicago, those two places will make the trip worth your while.

But the thing that I found most impressive about Chicago was the Sunday Morning issue of the Sun Times. I figure one good sized tree would probably make two copies of that tome.

And the thing that impressed me most about the Sun Times was the help wanted ads.

Imagine The Courier Journal and The Lexington Herald Leader arriving on Monday and Tuesday. Imagine all four copies of those papers containing nothing but job advertisements from cover to cover. No sports. No editorials. Nothing but classified job ads. Lay all your issues on top of each other and you have some visual impression of the job advertisements in one issue of the Chicago papers.

If you can do it, they have a place for you in Chicago. Sixty six pages of nothing but jobs. At least 10,000 jobs and maybe more. I made mention of how overwhelmed I was to a waiter at breakfast and his reaction was, "If breakfast and his reaction was,"

Our front porch is being covered by the red blooms from the three Maple trees in our yard. It keeps me sweeping to get rid of the litter.

It is very near the end of March and should turn into spring except you must remember March borrowed 12 days from April and will pay back in the first of April old timers would say. Then the weather people say we are going to get our second biggest snow near the first of April. As the saying, anything can happen in the weather of Kentucky.

"Oh Death where is thy sting! Oh grave where is thy victory!" Came the voice of the pastor of the Union Baptist Church in the Turpin Funeral Home in Richmond where we attended the funeral of Bury Burger, father of our former daughter-in-law, Sherrill Cornett on Monday, March 27th.

The three children, Houston, Howard and Sherrill had been giving comfort and care to their father ever since their mother, Dorothy Berger, passed away seven years ago. It was during this time Bury had made a new commitment to the Lord and lived for Him.

After the funeral, Sherrill said to me, "I feel better about Daddy this morning knowing he is with Mother where he wanted to be and that he doesn't have to suffer anymore here on earth."

Houston, the oldest son, didn't leave his father, staying by him, touching him somewhere, as he stroked his hand, arm, forehead or shoulder during his last day and night on earth. Sherrill would bring him over to Berea or we would go to his home at Union to be with them. We saw his life beginning to fade away and we saw him slow down in body movements. Diana Cornett and fiance, Joe Skinner attended the funeral from Texas. She was heard to say, "Now, I only have one grandpa and grandma since he passed away."

I talked to Inez Miller Stanley on the phone and asked about her mother, Malinda Miller, on Clear Creek. She said her mother was getting along fine. She has a girl that stays with her during the day.

Inez says she goes out real often and sees about the trailer home she has there.

I said, "I'll bet you are looking for wild greens too."

"Oh yes, I need some of the vitamins that are in them," she laughed. We ran into Johnny Todd and his pretty wife, Mary Lou Spiers Todd down at Long John's Seafood place. Johnny is a member of Berea's Town Council so I asked if he voted with George Bryant on issues that came up.

"I sure do, but not all the time," Johnny said. We told him we were proud of him coming from Rockcastle and getting on the town board in Berea even though we can't vote in Berea. It shows that Johnny is interested in progress.

Last year a Payne Reunion was given to Johnny Payne's home in Lexington. We were unable to go.

This year they are having another one this summer.

I ran into Johnny down at his mother's, Mary Payne's house, on Adams Street where he is doing some repair.

He invited us to come to the Payne Reunion this year which they are having again.

Folks asked me last year why I didn't come to the reunion and I told them I didn't know. You might have been put in jail the night before," he said. "Some people may believe that for the truth," I told him. "I have been accused of everything else. I send a belated 'Happy Birthday Greeting' to my niece, Jane Lee Londraville in Burbank, California. She is a good reader of this paper too.

"I'll wish Laura Clark of Anglin Falls cooey on a happy birthday in March. Lisa Tomplin became 9 years of age on March 15. I am her great, great aunt.

Brother Bill Hamilton has such a knowledge of the Bible so that I give him some words of a scripture and want the name of that book in it."

HERESAY

By: John Norman Meadows

PRECIOUS SOULS, CHILDREN OF AN EVIL AGE, greetings and allergies from the breezy knolls of winsome Wadd, home of the late Jesse L. Junghard, who was so given to lying that folks found it difficult to believe even the opposite of what he said.

Now, dearly beloved, it is because of preparators like Jesse that I labor incessantly and all the time to bring you THE TRUTH in this column. And doing so is expensive because I often make long-distance calls and travel many miles to verify the quotations and events I present for your edification. Nevertheless, dearhearts, I do it gladly because giving you enlightenment and inspiration generates enthusiasm in my soul, and sometimes verve.

Presently, I'm sitting on my back porch, contemplating the cosmos, conversing with my chows, and trying to overcome my disappointment at the Cats loss yesterday to the Tar Heels. (I didn't go to church this morning because I might have had to sit in the same pew with some of our not-so-true Blue-members who, on their way to Myrtle Beach, drive through North Carolina)

I think I'll fire up a bowl of Ole One-Eleven, sit back in this big, oak rocker that once belonged to my mother-in-law, survey the greening flora about me and the blue expense above me, and set my mind to answering THE question that preoccupies the waking hours - and even dreams - of many a Wabedian: Why in creation IS there a creation? And while doing that, I'll answer a letter I receive that has to do with THE other burning question on the minds of discerning Wabedians: Where in creation IS the place of A WOMAN?

DEAR JOHN NORMAN: Back in January I read in the Lexington paper that an astronaut named Eileen Collins was second in command of our space shuttle. And the paper went on to say that by the end of the decade a female will be the captain of a shuttle mission and, quote, "break the final sex barrier." What's your reaction to that? (from Judy Forsythe, Kingston, Kentucky)

DEAR JUDD: I, too, read that article. My first reaction was "Here we go again. Another WOMAN out there" (Cont. to A4)

Bible he can tell me right where they came from. His pretty wife, China, says he can do that because he reads the Bible all the time, and has been doing that for many years.

I wish I had such knowledge of the Good Book.

"Till I write again: 'To pray is to expose the shore of the mind to the incoming tide of God.'" from view by our moon, NASA decided not to tell us. The mission was in secret because the shuttle would venture for the first time into virgin space. WHAT ELSE are those scientists not telling us?

Elmore said that in order to escape Earth's gravitational field, this particular shuttle had to fly out through the hole in the ozone layer. Once the shuttle passed the moon, the commander - I believe Elmore said he was a Bullens - made a hard right and set a course due north toward Orocopa. But Elmore said the shuttle's guidance apparatus malfunctioned, and the commander didn't even know they were off-course until one of the crew looked off in the distance and spotted Van Allen's Radiation Belt buckled around a really big asteroid.

There was panic on board, and pandemonium, Elmore said, because Orocopa is nowhere near that belt. The commander - Elmore might have said he was a Bullock - contacted Mission Control in Houston and asked them to make a remote control repair of the guidance system. Mission Control went to work and informed the commander that the problem would be corrected in two days.

Things were going OK a day later. That is until the crew realized they were headed smack dab into the mouth of a black hole about the size of Calcutta! Elmore said those holes are so dense that light can't shine out of them. The commander radioed Mission Control about the impending disaster. Mission Control put every expert they had on the remote repair and ordered the shuttle commander to stand by.

Elmore said things were getting hairy. And then the astronauts saw it about a half-day's travel in front of the shuttle, between them and the black hole was a really tall, red brick wall about the length of the Mason-Dixon line. Written in Galactinese on the wall every hundred or so miles, glowing like kryptonite, were the words: NOO - MNERZT(WTI - VGNAKI - which being interpreted, means "SEXUAL BARRIER - NO MESSING AROUND!" And atop the wall they spied five really big placards that they were able to read with their field glasses. (Elmore said would-be-astronauts have to pass a two-semester course in reading and speaking Galactinese before NASA will even consider them for training.)

The crew took turns reading all the placard inscriptions: IT'S REALLY SAD . . . YOU'RE NEAR THIS BARRIER . . . DON'T CROSS OVER . . . LEST THINGS GET HAIRIER! . . . BURMA SHAVE. Well, Judd, so as not to take up too much space, I'll tell you that Missions Control remedied the guidance control problem in time for the commander - Naw, I'm sure Elmore he was a Bullens - to shift that shuttle into Super-Warp Reverse and escape catastrophe.

Elmore thinks those brainy engineers at NASA will come up with a shuttle engine powerful enough to thrust out the back side of a black hole. And if they do it'll be just like those liberal directors of NASA to appoint an ALL WOMAN shuttle crew to fly across that sexual barrier and into that black hole. They probably will. And all those WOMEN will come back and brag how they did A MAN'S job and so-on.

But, Judd, I'll tell you what I told Elmore: SOME WOMEN might do just that SOMEDAY, maybe even land on Mars or Pluto, and get all kinds of awards for it . . . but ALL THAT still won't give them THE RIGHT TO PREACH!

Hello to all our Signal readers. Hope you are well and happy. I know and realize that there is a lot of sickness and suffering in our world today and much heartaches, but we must put our trust in God and let Him help us through our troubled times. We see a lot of envy, hate and strife too, and wonder why people can't love each other. We all see parents and children, sisters and brothers odds with each other. It is so heart breaking, because we never know just what minute we will be called out of this world and maybe leave with so many things unsaid. It should be so easy to say, "I'm sorry or I love you" to me, personally it has never been a problem.

We had good attendance for worship services over the weekend and our Sunday School attendance was eighty-nine (89). It is always so good and rewarding to be able to assemble with our good friends and neighbors in the House of the Lord.

Our heart felt sympathy is extended to all those who have lost loved ones recently, including the families of Mrs. Marilyn (Wren) Mullins of Richmond, Ind. and Tony Gadd of Berea. Our love and prayers go out to the loved ones left behind.

An Easter Sunrise service will be held at the Fairview Baptist Church April 9th.

SBDM Council meeting reports

Rockcastle Co. High School

The budget appropriation for the 1995-96 school year at the high school was the first order of business for the School Based Decision Making (SBDM) Council at their March meeting Monday night.

Principal Ronnie Cash told the council that he was required to submit a "breakdown" to the local board of the $96,753 appropriated to the school by March 31. A budget proposal was then presented to the council identifying eight different line items for expenditures.

Mr. Cash explained that these line items were broad categories and additional subdivisions would occur within departments. Council member Ronnie Sears questioned how this would be decided and Mr. Cash showed an example of several teacher budget request forms that have been turned in recently.

The line item categories break down as follows: Contractual Lease, $1,000; Instructional Travel, $1,500; Equipment, $5,500; Library Books, $4,845; Periodicals/Newsletters, $1,000; Library Supplies, $1,000; AV Materials, $5,500; and Teaching Supplies, $62,408.

Cash also said that due to the high school being involved with the School Transformation and Assistance Program (STAR) additional funding would be available. Some funding has already been received and more information will be provided when the agenda topic of the STAR program is discussed, Cash said. He also suggested to the council that some budget appropriations be held in reserve until January of 1996 to meet any financial demands which could possibly occur at that time.

Motion was made and passed that Mr. Cash be authorized to submit the budget breakdown to the local school board for approval.

A committee will be formed to address the upgrading technology in the media center (library).

Council member Ruth Allen posed a general question on the subject and other comments were made by parents present who felt that more needed to be done in this area to provide students with adequate preparation for media/technology skills necessary to be successful after graduation.

Examples cited were: microfiche, on-line computer modem access, CD Rom and other technological tools. There was concern expressed that students were entering college without any knowledge or experience to address technology requirements.

Assistant Principal James Cox gave some background information relating to the fact that financial assistance had been expected from the Kentucky Education Technology System (KETS) to a greater degree than had been received. The technology committee for the past several years had to assess the needs at the high school and the decisions were made to place the bulk of finances into increasing the hardware inventory in computer lab equipment. Last year, Cox said, the decision was made to purchase hardware for the new high school facility and leave the existing hardware for the middle school. This decision was based on information received that very little finances would be spent on elementary and middle school technology due to the financial demands of the new high school.

The point was then made that even with the lack of funding from KETS, $15,760 was allotted to the media center this year. This amount was based on the $15 per student recommended budget appropriation for the media center. Mr. Cash stated that with the formation of the committee to address the technology needs, some of this media allocation could be directed toward technology.

Another sport had a moment of attention during the meeting -- this time baseball.

Mr. Cash told the council that he wanted the record (SBDM minutes) to reflect that new uniforms had been purchased by the school three (3) years ago for the baseball team. He wanted this in the minutes due to criticism directed toward him and the school about the condition of the uniforms.

Cash reiterated the procedure followed by the high school for many years to purchase new uniforms every five (5) years for the various interscholastic athletic teams. Cash produced records of invoices, indicating that new baseball uniforms had been purchased three years ago and proof existed for these purchases. The cost incurred that year was approximately $8,000. The only exception to this was the purchase of boys' basketball uniforms this year necessitated because of the difficulty encountered by the number of players on this year's team whose physical size would not fit the uniforms possessed by the team.

Cash further explained that baseball was a non-revenue sport. He had inquired about expenditures for baseball in surrounding high schools and one successful program allotted only $1,000. Mr. Cash referenced the budget allotted to baseball at RCHS for this year as being in excess of $4,000. He concluded his remarks by stating that RCHS allocates ample finances to the sport, according to what other schools are doing, and that additional funding needed to be raised from outside sources.

Three staff positions will be vacated due to retirement and transfer of teachers. Cash told the council.

These positions involve:
 *Maltz, Ms. Patty Reese, former math teacher, transferred to the middle school in January 1995. This vacancy was filled temporarily for the remainder of this year by Mike Elkins. Mr. Cash requested permission from the council to appoint a committee to fill this math position. The committee would consist of math teachers, counselors and administrators when the position is posted in April. By consensus the council agreed.

*Two home economic teachers, Ms. Dillingham and Ms. Glover, had indicated to Mr. Cash that they would be retiring at the conclusion of this school year. More discussion will occur on this at the April meeting.

*Judy Lawless, business teacher, has also indicated that she will not return next year due to her retirement.

Mr. Cash stated that several decisions would be made by the council concerning these vacancies. Decision (Cont. to 8)

Roundstone Elementary

February 28, 1995

The Roundstone Elementary School met on Tuesday, February 28, 1995.

Council members present: David Pensol, principal, Tina Mullins, parent, Pam French, teacher, Beverly Owens, teacher, Norma Eversole, teacher.

The council briefly discussed all items listed on the February agenda. The November, December and January financial statements were presented and discussed.

The council agreed to amend the 94-95 social studies textbook plan. The council's discussion was that the plan no longer meets the needs of the Roundstone Elementary curriculum.

The library committee briefly discussed the plan to update/upgrade the Roundstone library. There is concern that the R.E.S. library is deficient in materials and needs immediate attention.

Council agreed that all available resources should be accessed in order to improve the library.

The council discussed the following for some focal issues in planning for the 95-96 school year:

1. School Culture Building
2. Continuous Improvement (Assessment)
3. Curriculum - ACES, DWORK, Research
4. Improved Instructional Practices
5. Library Update
6. Valued Instructional Time
7. Family Resources
8. Policy Development - attendance, instructional practices, instructional time, portfolios
9. Long Range Planning For School Improvement
10. Climate: Roundstone School as a caring, safe and fun place of learning

Respectfully submitted,
David A. Pensol, chairman

Mt. Vernon Elementary

teachers will make arrangements to meet with parents to explain placement. Questions about identified exceptional children were discussed such as referrals and placement throughout the school year, and also how to meet IEP's. Clustering or spreading identified students out in the classrooms was discussed with favor toward spreading them out. MVES staff has recommended a calendar adjustment for the 2 days of school missed Oct. 27 and 28, 1994 due to a chemical spill on I-75.

Teacher Allocations are 1/20 ratio. There will be one more position for the 95-96 school year. Alternatives are as following: lower class size at one particular level, an extra counselor, art teacher, science co-ordinator, 3 additional instructional assistants, a resource person for writing and a resource person for math, and a home school liaison (Council members agreed if this position is decided upon, it would be used to accommodate grade 4).

Attendance zone regulations were discussed. Ms. Powell has investigated this issue and the main question is: Are out of zone students contributing to our space problem? This issue may be addressed by eliminating the hardship clause and grandfathering in those students who are now attending. Council members shared ideas about this issue. Ms. Powell will share questions concerning MVES staff being able to bring their children to this school with Mr. Hammond and council members.

Mini-Grants were discussed. Ms. Powell will make plans to seek the $500 for special education collaboration.

Brothead Elementary

Mrs. Kathy Dyehouse gave the Primary report. Changes wanted by teachers were as follows: More conference time and newsletter every six weeks sent to parents. Primary update was requested at next council meeting.

Mrs. Dyehouse then gave Curriculum report. The following reports were made: B.E.S. primary use DeNealon handwriting method, no purchasing of Language Arts Textbooks, and use textbook money for additional Language Arts software. Mr. McKinney filled in for Mrs.

Nancy Sexton and gave Professional Development report. As of now looks as though two days for K.E.L.P., two days with Dr. Whittaker for Writing Portfolios, two days of ACES training, two DWORK, and one Back-To-School Night. This leaves two days that may be used for other topics mentioned: Parent conferences, technology, math.

Council then discussed and reached consensus to respectfully request that the Board of Education ask for the number of emergency days necessary so that school be dismissed on June 2, 1995. This will allow Summer School to begin on time.

sions will involve lateral transfers, new teacher employment, as well as eliminating one staff position.

The elimination is necessary due to the staff/pupil ratio at the high school. Mr. Cash expressed his certainty that no one would be released due to this "overstaffing" ratio and that attrition could absorb this by careful planning decisions by the council.

A STAR update was given to the council by Mr. Cash who said that due to the high school volunteering for an ad being accepted into the School Transformation Assistance and Renewal (STAR) program, a distinguished educator (DE), Jane Harris, had been assigned to the high school. Through her direction, seven components have been identified to write into the RCHS School Transformation Plan (STP). The components are: writing, reading, social studies, science, math, public engagement and leadership.

The first three components were written and presented to the Educational Improvement Advisory Committee (EIAAC) in Frankfort on March 13. This meeting resulted in the high school receiving $43,482, to implement the activities and strategies designated. Mr. Cash commended all the teachers who worked on these plans and the component lead teachers who presented the plans to the EIAAC committee.

The four other component committees have been identified and designated to meet with Ms. Harris, DE to write the plans. These plans

George Jones to perform at Cumberland

The legendary country music singer George Jones will be performing live at the O. Wayne Rollins Center on the Cumberland College campus in Williamsburg, Friday, April 21, at 8 p.m. Tickets are still available at all ticket outlets, which include: Movie Warehouse's in Williamsburg, Corbin, London, Middlesboro, and Somerset, Video, Etc. in Barbourville, and all Ticketmaster outlets. Tickets by phone call: 606-281-6644. Charge are $18.50 in advance, but are limited.

will then be presented to the EIAAC committee for approval. If approval is given, an additional $49,000 is possible to implement the math science, public engagement and leadership components.

Mr. Cash also informed the council that the designated advisor/advisee time was not working as desired and needed revision. He stated a committee was being formed consisting of Connie Riddle, Lawrence Bullock, John Wells, Jane Stevens (grade level team members), Dan McKibben (parent), Jama Cornelius and Adam Powell (students), Dale Whittaker, Janice Miller (counselors), Donna Hopkins (H.S.A.V.S. principal) and RCHS principals.

Councilmember Ronnie Sears informed the council that if the senior class desired a baccalaureate service, the Rockcastle County Ministerial Association would bear the financial burden as in past years. The discussion which followed focused on the fact that the high school could not sponsor or facilitate anything pertaining to this program. All supervision, planning and sponsorship must be from outside (community) sources. Any participation by school personnel or students would be voluntary and under no jurisdiction of the high school. The matter now must be taken by the community.

The council publicly expressed their thanks and appreciation to Mr. Bill Sowder who announced all the home basketball games this year. Mr. Sowder was commended by the council for being very articulate and professional in performing these voluntary duties.

The special guest is Southeastern Kentucky's very own the Wild River Band. They have performed locally at the Sound Stage and the Music Place in Corbin, but have been recognized regionally when they won the K-93 Radio competition in Lexington.

Organizers of the event invite everyone to attend this spectacular event in Williamsburg, to see the legend of country music and Country Music Hall of Fame star George Jones. However, organizers are predicting a large attendance and would like to inform them that parking on campus is limited, but auxiliary parking areas will be provided by area churches and schools. Future problem solving team first in region; to compete at state level

By Melissa Cummins

Four RCHS underclass students recently solved one of the most potentially dangerous problems of the future, and solved it better than six groups from other high schools in surrounding counties.

The problem: high school violence in the year 2010, a time when high-tech weapons will be common. There will be new ways for gangs to fight each other, and with new weapons, the fights will become more frequent and very dangerous. If the violence is allowed to continued, drastic results such as fatalities and student riots may occur.

The seven Future Problem Solving teams each solved the same problem in twenty ways, then selected their best solution and wrote an essay about it. The solution must be the most realistic, the least time consuming, the most economical and effective, and the easiest solution to implement.

The RCHS team, with its solution of subliminal messages, placed first in the region and went on to state competition on March 11 against the first and second place teams from the 12 regions in Kentucky.

Members of the team are Angie Blanton, Melanie Coffey, Bethanie Hammond, and Melissa Cummins.

In District Governor's Cup Competition, RCHS had two students to advance to regional level. Becki Blanton, senior, placed 2nd on language arts and Matt Chailiff, sophomore, placed 4th in social studies, but neither placed in regional.

Angie Blanton, Melissa Cummins, Bethany Hammond, Melanie Coffey and Trina Cummins, coach, members of the RCHS Future Problem Solving team.

Rockcastle County art students enter regional all state. Pictured above are students in Mr. Bullock's Advanced Art class at RCHS. These students were all entrants in the recent All State Regional Art Competition which is hosted by EKU. These students have demonstrated by their entries that they have a competitive attitude. They feel confident that they can compete with any students in our region or the state. Their confidence is founded on observation and experience. Last year the students in the art classes did not enter this competition. They visited EKU when the Annual All State Regional Exhibit was on display and many commented that they felt they could compete with work which they saw on display. This year they have proven themselves correct. We are proud that we can help students to reach their potential in all fields. These students deserve a big - Good Job!

Farm Cropping Plans

Producers who plan to mow their tobacco and/or corn, etc. should contact Natural Resources and Conservation Service, formerly the Soil Conservation Service, concerning your farm plan. All farms that are cropped must have a conservation plan on file. Failure to comply with this regulation makes your farm ineligible to receive USDA benefits, which includes price support for burley tobacco.

Need Farm Improvements?

Practices available under the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) include: new seeding, sod waterways, ponds, critical areas, diversions, and forestry practices less than ten acres. For a seeding practice a current soil test is required. The test must be less than 1 year old, and completed through a UK. Test results must be submitted at the time of applying.

Deadline for signing a tobacco lease is July 1st, no exceptions.

Late Filed FCIG Insurance

Producers are reminded that while USDA has authorized a late-filed acceptance of CAT coverage (not applicable for those purchasing "buy up") the following will apply: You must certify that the crop(s) hasn't been planted, and if it has been planted that it is in good condition, capable of producing at least 90 percent of the APY yield on respective unit. Late-filed policies will not attach until 10 days after the application is signed by the producer and the County FCISA Office. If the insurance risk becomes excessive, FCIG will announce that late-filed acceptance is discontinued. Don't Be Mislead!!

Liasion grant for UK Medical Center and Hospice programs

The Kentucky Association of Hospices (KAH) received a three-year grant to develop a Hospice Nurse Liasion Program at the University of Kentucky Medical Center (UKMC) from the Retirement Research Foundation based in Chicago, Ill. UKMC also awarded a grant to KAH for initial project costs. When patients are admitted from community hospice programs, the nurse liaison will provide case management services at UKMC. The nurse liaison will evaluate and refer hospice-appropriate patients to community hospice programs.

to improve the quality of care for patients admitted to participating hospice programs through continuity of care; and 3) to reduce the cost of health care through more aggressive discharge planning for patients admitted to the hospices and for those referred. The nurse liaison will educate UKMC medical professionals about hospice services and the palliative care philosophy.

The participating programs involved are: Community Hospice, Cumberland Valley District Hospice, Heritage Hospice, Hospice of the Bluegrass, Hospice East, Hospice of Central Kentucky, Hospice of Clay County, Hospice of Hope, Hospice of the Kentucky River, Hospice of Lake Cumberland, Hospice of Pike County, Jessamine County Hospice, Mountain Community Hospice, Mountain Heritage Hospice, St. Clare Hospice, St. Elizabeth's Home-Care Hospice and Tri-County Hospice.

Anticipated program outcomes include a higher level of care for terminally ill persons and more cost efficient patient care.

Ladybird Beetles invading Kentucky homes, buildings

Hordes of pale orange beetles are congregating in and around many Kentucky homes. While these ladybird beetles are beneficial insects outside, they become a nuisance when large numbers gather in people's homes.

The beetles have up to 19 black spots on their wing covers and are about one-third inch long. "Ladybird beetles were introduced in other states to naturally control aphids and scale insects in agricultural crops," said Mike Potter, Extension entomologist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "No ladybird beetles have been introduced in Kentucky. Their movement here is a natural migration."

"They typically don't bite, sting, or carry diseases; neither do they infest food, clothing or wood," he said. "However, these beetles often have a disagreeable odor, and can produce an objectionable yellowish secretion when disturbed."

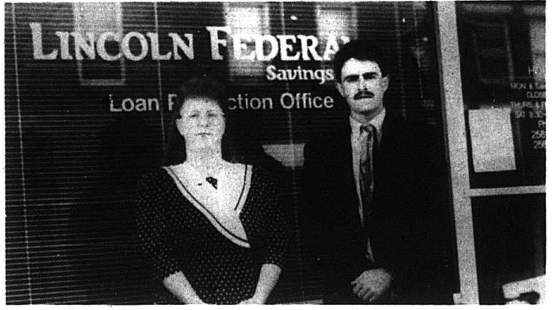

"A vacuum cleaner is the easiest way to dispose of large numbers of ladybird beetles in the home. We normally do not recommend household sprays or foggers because you must have direct contact with beetles for the insecticide to work. This practice leaves pesticide residues on walls, countertops and exposed surfaces. A vacuum cleaner is more sanitary and effective.

As temperatures become warmer, ladybird beetles emerge from overwintering sites and attempt to escape to their natural habitat outdoors. They emerge from cracks around door or window casings, beneath baseboards and around light fixtures and ventilators. Some beetles stray into living areas. Beetles unable to find their way outside survive for only a brief period outdoors.

Ladybird beetles become a nuisance when large numbers crawl on windows, walls, light fixtures and other surfaces in homes. Since they are attracted to light, beetles often gather around windows and lighting fixtures.

Homeowners can reduce ladybird beetle infestations by making homes less accessible as an overwintering site, according to Potter.

"Since ladybird beetles seek overwintering sites in the late summer and early fall, seal exterior cracks and other openings as a preventive measure," he said. "Use a good quality silicone or silicone-latex caulk to seal around windows, doors, siding,

It's burndown time for corn weed control

Some time between now and planting time, many farmers will be using pre-plant, burndown weed control to eliminate late vegetative waterways before planting their corn.

But if the farmer faces the particularly nasty annual ryegrass -- some-times called Italian ryegrass -- he'd better plan on two applications, one pre-plant and the other at time of planting.

Burndown means to spray a non-selective postemergence herbicide to get rid of any vegetation present at time of application, said James Martin, Extension weeds specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"Repair damaged window screens and install insect screening behind attic vents."

"An alternative is to enlist a pest control firm. Many firms treat the exterior of homes or buildings to help prevent pest entry. These insecticide treatments should be applied in late September or early October, before beetles enter a structure to overwinter."

"The results suggest little likelihood that general use of a subsolator without a defined compaction problem will improve cured yield of burley tobacco," Wells said.

Farmers who have fields with a defined soil compaction problem can help break up the compaction by using either a chisel plow or v-ripper for deeper penetration, provided the fields do not have a great number of shallow, "floating" rocks, which would prevent using either tool, he said.

He also indicated that compacted layers in tobacco fields are often shallow enough to be broken with a moldboard plow. Wells said his best advice for preventing compaction in tobacco fields is to not disk when the soil is too moist.

Subsoiling burley tobacco often not worth the trouble

How did this particular weed become so vexing for many Kentucky farmers?

"It's not known for sure, but it may be introduced through waterways on the farm which has been seeded with fescue and rye grass mixtures for erosion control purposes. Because the rye grass provides a quick cover for the waterway, it's useful for that purpose -- but not useful in the farmer's corn and wheat fields.

How widespread is the problem? "Well, if you're asking is it in every county or in every field, the answer is no," Martin said. "But if it is in your field, it is a problem that needs to be addressed."

"The results suggest little likelihood that general use of a subsolator without a defined compaction problem will improve cured yield of burley tobacco," Wells said.

They found that none of the subsol treatments was better than conventional plowing and disking in the spring, but at and transplanting. At harvest, they measured tobacco yields from each of the methods and from one area in which no subsolating was done.

"The results suggest little likelihood that general use of a subsolator without a defined compaction problem will improve cured yield of burley tobacco," Wells said.

Prevention of diseases should be a top concern of tobacco transplant producers.

"Diseases can wreak havoc to transplants if they are not prevented from getting a toehold, whether it is outdoors or in a greenhouse or float system," said Bill Nesmith, Extension plant pathologist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Nesmith recommends using a preventive program, including fungicides and bactericides, to stop diseases before they start.

Tobacco disease prevention is worth pounds of leaf

Prevention of diseases should be a top concern of tobacco transplant producers.

"Diseases can wreak havoc to transplants if they are not prevented from getting a toehold, whether it is outdoors or in a greenhouse or float system," said Bill Nesmith, Extension plant pathologist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Nesmith recommends using a preventive program, including fungicides and bactericides, to stop diseases before they start.

For outdoor plant beds, the plant pathologist suggests applying Ridomil 2E prior to seeding the bed, using label directions. This fungicide, he said, should give control of metalaxyl-sensitive strains of blue mold and Pythium, and assist in black shank control.

He also suggests outdoor beds be treated with a Bordeaux mixture as a drench when the plants have emerged and again 10 days later to help control algae and bacterial diseases, including wild fire, angular leaf spot and blackleg.

Streptomycin sprays can begin as early as the two-leaf stage and should be repeated weekly until transplanting for control of bacterial leaf spots and help suppress blue mold under certain conditions.

When plants are the size of a dime, begin weekly sprays with fungicides containing Dithane DF or Carbamate WDG (ferbam). Other formulations of ferbam have national labels for use in outdoor tobacco beds and Dithane DF has a Kentucky label. Add Ridomil 2E to the fungicide mixture starting about 50 days after seeding.

If tobacco mosaic-susceptible varieties are being grown, sprays of milk within 24 hours of pulling plants can help reduce the spread of the disease, he said.

Greenhouse and float bed producers should also use fungicide sprays to help prevent disease, Nesmith said.

Nesmith cautioned growers to use only products label for greenhouse and float bed use.

"Only Carbamate and Dithane are label for such systems; Ridomil 2E is not currently labeled for use on either system of production. In addition, streptomycin is not labeled for use in such systems," Nesmith said.

Nesmith advises producers to follow label directions explicitly when using any of the pesticides.

Subsoiling burley tobacco often not worth the trouble

Tobacco farmers who routinely subsoil their tobacco fields every year may be going to a lot of trouble without any benefit.

Unless there is a compaction problem in the field, subsoiling doesn't do much for burley tobacco yields. And even with compacted soil, subsoiling

Poet's Corner

Spring Is On The Way
By Flora Mae Taylor

Another spring is on the way,
I heard a Robin sing today,
Spring is a time of rejuvenation,
As resurrection moves across creation,

The sunbeams are brightly shining,
And glinting like purest gold,
Spring is a time of rejuvenation,
For budding supplies of the very best,
To make for their oncoming offspring,
The grasp of winters stronghold,
A fine soft comfortable nest,

The birds are meticulously searching,
For building supplies of the very best,
To make for their oncoming offspring,
A fine soft comfortable nest,

The Daffodils are gently swaying
In the midst of the cool spring breeze,
And the buds are making their appearance,
Once again on all of the trees,

It seems that nature is reviving,
In such gleeful anticipation,
As the spring season moves upon us,
With a wonderful happy sensation,

A Bluebird sat outside my window,
And sang with such unrestrained glee,
As I listened so intently,
It seemed that he sang just for me,

The warm rains are now coming,
To prompt vegetation along,
As they drowsily awaken,
From the long cold winter now gone,

All creation points
Toward a Master Plan,
And I believe the creator
Came to earth as the Son of Man.

Disgusted Democrat

I'm very upset and deeply hurt with the zero coverage you gave at the meeting of Governor Jones. I admire Gov. Jones for the speech he gave and how hard he tried to reach out to everyone that was present.
Evidently (Rick) his kind speech with your negative reporting malfunctioned on you.

We, the members of the RCWA, have worked so hard over the years and got the project to where it is now. Not one picture was put in the paper of a member of the RCWA, or the people who take that needs the water so badly.

I believe in reporting news fairly. We all live in this county together why can't we work together and support whoever is in this office.

I think you ought to change the name of your paper to Anderkin Views or to Rockcastle Republicans. I do not wish to subscribe to your paper anymore with your one-sided reporting.

Vice President
Joe Martin

(Ed's Note: Due to a scheduling conflict, we were unable to attend the Governor's meeting but, we really do not think that we can be accused of "one sided reporting" since it was the lead story in the Signal the week of March 23, which included a picture of Gov. Jones. Other pictures from the events appear in this week's paper, compliments of Doug Brock, and were scheduled to appear before we received Mr. Martin's letter. pma)

Dear Editor,

We would like to thank Pam Burdette and Pizza Hut for a great trip to their restaurant. Thank you for supplying our pizza and drinks. We especially liked making our own. The tour was fun too! We learned making pizza takes lots of hard work.

Thank you,

Tax refunds will be mailed to federal retirees

State Representative Danny Ford of 80th District is pleased to announce that the federal retiree pension case was finalized Wednesday and income tax refund checks should be mailed out by the end of April.

"I know many federal retirees are pleased to learn of this final decision," said Rep. Ford. "It is my understanding that the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet will be issuing refund checks within 30 days, and interest paid will be accrued 60 days from the due date or when the tax was paid."

The final decision was made on March 23 by the Kentucky Supreme Court. Last year, the court ruled that federal pensioners were entitled to state income tax refunds paid on benefits for taxable years prior to 1990. Retirees asked the court for payment of back taxes for four rather than two years, but the court declined. Federal retirees had until Wednesday to appeal this decision and request a review by the U.S.

Supreme Court.
Federal retirees who will receive refunds are those who filed claims within two years from paying taxes. The Kentucky Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that retirees who filed requests after the expiration of the two-year period are not eligible for a refund.

"Now that the court has made its final decision, it is important that federal pensioners have correct mailing addresses on file," said Rep. Ford. "To ensure delivery, make any change of address in writing to the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet, P.O. Box 1231, Frankfort KY 40602. Your request must include your name, Social Security number, new address, a daytime phone number, and signature." Information regarding individual pensions will be available after March 31 by calling (502) 564-4392. For an update or to inquire about claim, call (502)564-1600, which is the Cabinet's automated tax refund information line.

Setting The Record Straight

This news release is necessary to correct and clarify information contained in previous releases regarding boating and 1995-96 deer hunting season regulations.

Emergency regulations are now in effect which reduce the volume of Kentucky boating regulations and establish an idle speed zone from sunset to sunrise on the Ohio River at Cincinnati between the Brent Spence and Daniel Carter Beard bridges. The change doesn't apply to commercial tows. A previous release incorrectly listed the enforceable time frame as sunrise to sunset beginning next March.

Beginning this fall, during the modern gun deer season, muzzleloader seasons or the youth hunt, all hunters and persons accompanying hunters shall display solid, unbroken hunter orange visible from all sides on the head, back and chest. This requirement does not apply to persons hunting migratory birds or persons hunting at night. Previous information specified the requirement applied to an adult accompanying a juvenile deer hunter.
Additionally, Youth Hunt Day, October 28, 1995, is for legal deer hunters who are under age 16 on the day of the hunt.

The Roundstone Preschool Classes recently celebrated their good attendance with a trip to Pizza Hut. Each student chose their own topping and made their own pizza. The preschoolers also enjoyed a tour of the restaurant and learned all about pizza.

Scientific American Frontiers explores the world of non-human primates on KET

The study of primates often yields surprising messages; and the traits that make people "unique" may not be so unique after all. Scientific American Frontiers: Prime-Time Primates, airing on KET at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 5, explores our fascination with non-human primates.
